The Spirit of the School

The calls and shouts of lusty youth,
The chattering laughter of the groups
Of carefree students, and the buzz
Of classes, animate the great
Brick building, 'till it seems alive,
And seems to have a low roar of its own.

But noise and bustle of the day
Give way to quiet, and with night,
Falls silence through deserted halls.
The shadows steal across the floors,
And hide in gloom the empty desks,
While ghostly moonbeams light the vacant porch.

Then through the halls, with graceful step
And laughter light, the Muses come.
Released from toil in dog-eared books
They gather there in merry mood
And revel all the night away,
'Till dawn recalls them to their tasks again.

Ah! Would you see the merry group
Who gather nightly? Nay, not so,
Few may behold it, those alone
Whose hearts to beauty are attuned
Whose minds on learning are bestowed,
May see at night the Spirit of the School.

K. Lascelle, '28.

A HISTORY OF THE COLONIAL

The first edition of the "Colonial" of Hempstead High School, was published by the class of 1923. It was through Mr. Maure's suggestion and the voluntary aid of Miss Ratelle and Miss Beattie that the publication of a Junior year book was undertaken. The Editor-in-Chief of the book was Renwick Hurry and the staff consisted of twelve members. The first "Colonial" was dedicated to Superintendent of Schools, Mr. J. T. P. Calkins, and a note of appreciation for the splendid work which Mr. Maure had done in the new school was included. That pioneer year book of 1923 was a great achievement and was a fine start for the volumes which have followed.

The staff of the "Colonial," '24, headed by Ira Hanson, was enlarged by 4 members. Miss Beattie and Mr. Shifferdecker were official Faculty Advisers, and Miss Snyder, Miss Ratelle, and Mr. Kistler also gave their time and efforts toward the success of the book. It was changed in form somewhat, and to accommodate a larger group of seniors and a greater number of organizations, was made bigger. It was dedicated to Charles H. Ludlum, Head of the Board of Education, and contained a history by him of the Hempstead Schools from the time of the settlement of Hempstead in 1644.

In the following book an interesting account of the High School was given by Miss Nellie F. Munger, to whom the volume was dedicated. This memoir of Miss Munger's twenty years in Hempstead High School was a fitting preface to the story of the school during 1923-1924. There was one faculty adviser, Mr. Howard Goldy, and Fred Miller was Editor-in-Chief.

Mr. Howard Goldy supported the staff of the following "Colonial" also, with Roger Whitman as Editor-in-Chief. The book was dedicated to Miss Eugenia Miller, who had taught in the High School for twenty years. Miss Miller, as had Miss Munger, gave an account of her years in Hempstead.

The "Colonial," '27, under the faculty guidance of Miss Hilda Roberts inaugurated attractive panel frames for the Senior cuts. The staff, led by Sherwood Silliman, dedicated their book to Miss Dorothy Powell.

The "Colonial," '28, dedicated their book to Miss Grace Sammis Reed. The staff was piloted through one-half the year by Miss Roberts and, after her departure in January, her work was continued by Miss Eastburn.

So, through six volumes, the growth of Hempstead High School has been recorded. In 1922 a staff of twelve published a "Colonial" in which were forty Seniors and three organizations. In 1927, a staff of 28 has published a "Colonial" in which are 156 Seniors and 21 organizations. Cannot Hempstead be proud of such an increase? Nor have the classes and organizations alone grown. Their growth is the result of a feeling of pride in our school, a desire to make Hempstead High School the finest possible, and the realization of this ideal.

SENIORS

The joy of a task accomplished
Is yours Commencement Day.
Go forth in the world with heads erect,
Carry on, in the Hempstead way!

You'll leave in our school a vacant place,
When you start on Life's great way,
And we'll thrill with pride to know that you'll
Carry on in the Hempstead way.

Move on, O Time, in thy flight of years,
Bring back with fame to us some day
These, now whose faces upward turn
To carry on in the Hempstead way.

God bless you and peace attend you,
On Life's journey from day to day,
Our School Spirit true will guide you.
Carry on, in the Hempstead way!

GUNS

Growls, groans, and guns;
A thousand men and even more
Awaiting Death at Death's own door,
 With growls, groans, and guns.

I see it all as thru a mist,
As I look o'er the Honor List
Of men who were by Glory kissed,
 Amidst the shot and shell.

I see them waiting for their chance
To plunge across the fields of France;
That move they called the "Great Advance,"
 Into a blazing Hell!

The time has come, the rifles crack,
Then, "Over the top and don't come back!"
Our boys are leading the attack
 Upon those roaring guns!

I see them crawl thru slimy mud,
I hear them fall with heavy thud,
To soak the earth with crimson blood
 For their beloved ones.

Growls, Groans, and guns;
This Honor List, their memories keep,
Who fell before that scythelike sweep,
 With growls, groans, and guns.

Then, after that long Night of War,
There dawns a Day of Peace once more.
Red poppies bloom where once was gore.
 White crosses there increase.

And, underneath those crosses, pressed,
There lie a thousand men at rest.
They fought and died. They did their best,
 They gave their lives for—Peace.

Leo J. Leamy.

NOT DONE

When we left the grammar school,
When our childish days had fled,
We could not have understood
What he meant, had someone said,
"You are not done,
You've just begun."

Now our high school years have gone.
Graduation Day draws nigh
And we call the end, Commencement.
Do we ever wonder why?
Why not say done?
Why say begun?

When with joy, perhaps regret,
We terminate our college years;
When the launching of our hopes
Upon Life's seething surrent nears,
We'll hear again,
"Not done—begun."

And hoping, striving for success
On thro' life our course we'll wend
'Till we hear the voice of God
Saying, as we near the end,
"You are not done,
You've just begun."

Truly Great

That eventful day gave him triumph sweet.
A nation cheered when he raised his hand.
A treasury rich, an army of strength,
And a country of wealth were at his command.

But that night in his sorrow his greatness
lay,
When he grieved for a breach that he could not mend,
When he sorrowfully sat in the twilight and mused
On that day's misfortune—the loss of a friend. —K. Lascelle, '28.

SCIENCE CLUB

Francis Gilreath..... President Frederick Wyatt..... Secretary
 Winfield Faron..... Vice-President Helen Downing..... Treasurer
 Miss Munger..... Advisor

The Science Club, the oldest club of the school, still ranks as one of the most successful. At every meeting some of the members have interesting experiments to demonstrate. In the near future we predict that many of our scientists will have been members of the Science Club of Hempstead High School.

LITERARY CLUB

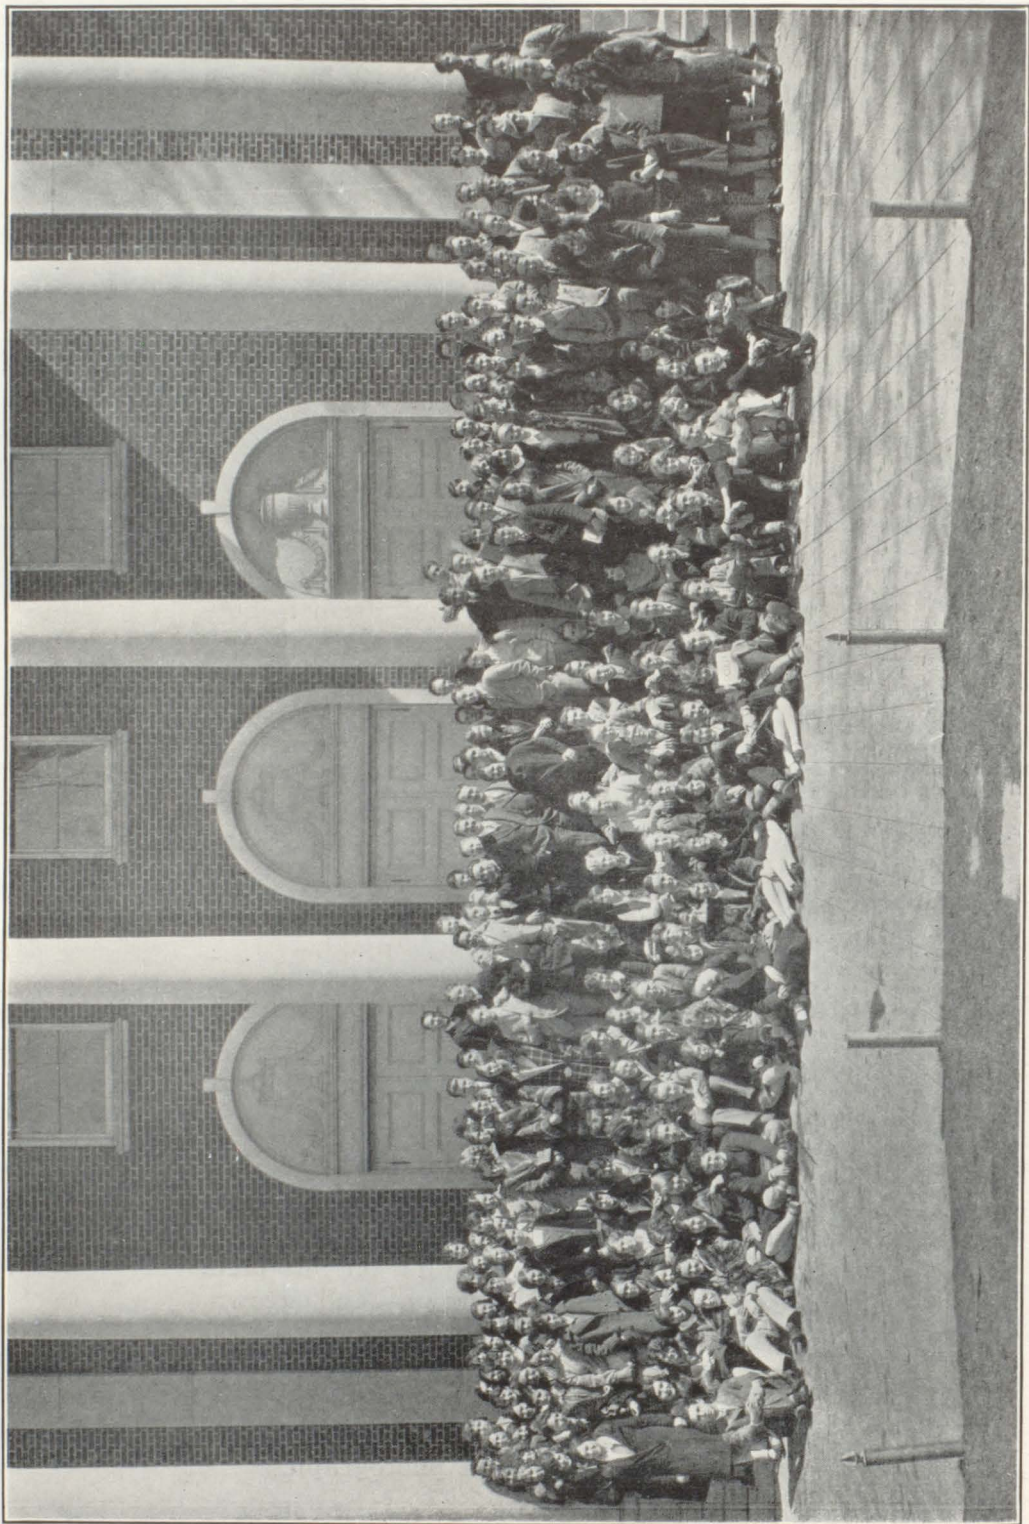

Robert Leighton President Edith Gardner Secretary
 Kingsley Smith Vice-President John Tunstall Treasurer
 Mr. Pill Advisor

The popularity of the Literary Club is attested by the picture on the opposite page. The pleasant meetings, the clever and original entertainment, and a true educational value, have caused this organization to outgrow a half-page picture in the "Colonial" and to enter the group of full-paged photographs.

HISTORY CLUB

Charles Watterston President Mabel Richter Secretary
 John Wolff Vice-President Ferdinand Mann Treasurer
 Mr. Ketcham Advisor

The secret of a club's success, decided the founders of the History Club, lies in having good organization and interesting programs and in offering the students a mixture of fun and knowledge. Working on this plan, the organization has grown—and grown. Though the picture can't be seen at a first glance, it is too large to be hidden for long. Just turn this page and behold—the History, as well as the Literary Club, has been graduated to a full-page photograph.

PEN AND INK CLUB

Edith Huleu.....	President	Frances Witty.....	Secretary
Helen Bosch.....	Vice-President	Betty Dixon.....	Treasurer
Mr. Pill.....		Advisor

The Pen and Ink Girls, running true to form, took a leading part in the school's activities this year. They gained the students' approval by the play, "When Love Is Young," and that of the faculty by a St. Patrick's Day Bridge Party. Their other activities, too numerous and varied to mention, showed that School Spirit is an important characteristic of the club. This honorary organization has won, by its fine work, the esteem of our high school and its future seems as bright as the present.

LE CERCLE FRANCAIS

Theresa Dellamano.....	President	John Reeves.....	Secretary
Marjorie White.....	Vice-President	Emily Hurry.....	Treasurer
Miss Neel.....		Adviser

Another one of our live wire organizations is Le Cercle Francais. The members are continually becoming better acquainted with the French language and customs because they use every opportunity to speak French and study the life of the people. At their Christmas party a French play was presented which was highly praised by the entire audience. The members of this club are becoming more and more impressed with the beauty and importance of the French tongue.

EL CERCULO CASTELLANO

Myron Perez President Dorothy La Cour Vice-President
 James Campbell Secretary Isabel Cook Treasurer
 Mr. Beddow Adviser

The meetings of the Spanish Club have been enthusiastically anticipated not only by the old, but also by the new members. The programs have been enjoyed and the members have participated in them with great interest. This is a club which is very much alive and active.

CONSULS

David Ballantine	Ralph Wolff
John Tunstall	Harriet Nelson
Kingsley Smith	Edward Williams
Miss McDermott.....	Advisor

This year the Latin Club has been divided into class groups, each class having a consul who represents his class at meetings of the whole club, and takes charge of class meetings. Despite the late organization of the club, the interest shown by the students has proven its popularity.

JUNTO

Sidney Wyse.....	President	Russell McKay.....	Secretary
John Reeves.....	Vice-President	Winfield Faron.....	Treasurer
Mr. Pill.....	Advisor

The Junto organized in September, 1926. This club, which consists of 24 boys, 12 Seniors and 12 Juniors, takes its name from the historic "Junto" founded by Benjamin Franklin. Membership is honorary, members being chosen upon the basis of their ability in English. The vacancies caused by graduation are filled from the ranks of the new Junior class. The purpose of the club is to encourage leadership and co-operation and to promote good sportsmanship.

COMMERCIAL CLUB

Winifred Bushell	President	Nell Ringers	Treasurer
Harold Smalley	Vice-President	Hanford Barlow	Reporter
Grace Schweiker	Secretary	Genevieve Clayton	Sergeant-at-Arms
Miss Mitchell	Adviser

The Commercial Club, a club well known to the student body, has this year surpassed all previous records in the production of interesting programs. During the past year the members have heard talks by prominent business men and have been well informed at all times as to the fluctuations of the various business enterprises. It is therefore self-evident that the boy or girl who contemplates entering the business world after graduation should join this club.

HALL COPS

Joseph Praetz Chief Austin Cheshire Assistant

LIEUTENANTS

George Closset Hugh McKenna
 Robert Leighton John Wolff
 Mr. Ketcham Adviser

The closing of the school year finds the Hall Cops more firmly established than ever. They play a very important part in our school life because they preserve quiet in the halls and lockers, speed up traffic, and do numerous other things to keep the school in order.

This year's hop which the cops gave was most successful. Their entertainments are always snappy and original. Most students think that the boys on the force feel proud and important standing at their posts, but to the boys themselves, it's "just plain work."

PHILATELIC SOCIETY

Wilson Madden President Janith Kice Secretary
 Frederick Brown Vice-President Austin Meissner Treasurer
 Mrs. Talmadge Advisor

November, 1926, marked the organization of the Philatelic Society, better known as the Stamp Club, in Hempstead High School. At the meetings the members have heard very interesting talks on various kinds of stamps. The selling and trading of stamps is another important feature of the society. If the future members take as much interest in the club as those of the past year have, the good work started will surely be continued.

This past year has marked the origin of the Art Club. Before Christmas vacation the members of the club made Christmas cards and sold them to the students of the school. We have reason to believe that the club will further the school's interest in art.

A new and noisy organization is the Ukulele Club. At meetings, they tell us, songs are rendered terribly and life terrible. We sympathize with the folks at home who must listen to our "young hopefuls" practice. However, when, ten years from now, we don our best bibs and tuckers and attend a recital of the renowned Ukulele Club of America, we'll be proud to know that its origin was at our own Hempstead High School.

When girls become Seniors, they are supposed to have attained a bit of intelligence and are, therefore, permitted to work in the office. This group of girls has proven helpful to our principal and his assistants because they do many little things which would otherwise occupy much of the valuable time needed in the office.

FOOTBALL, 1926

HEMPSTEAD, 0; FLUSHING, 7

To open the football season of 1926, our H. H. S. gridiron warriors journeyed to Flushing, and there, as may be seen, were defeated. Under the fine leadership of "Kenny" Glenn, Hempstead's all-around athlete, the team fought furiously but all went for naught. However, they held the red-jerseyed Flushingites to only one score, this coming at the last minute of the game.

HEMPSTEAD, 10; STUYVESANT, 0

Following a defeat at the hands of Flushing, our pigskin chasers administered a sound set-back to the Stuyvesant aggregation. Captain Glenn and "Bus" Watterston led the Hempstead attack and were rewarded in the first quarter by a field goal, followed, in the third period, by Watterston's touchdown. The line held firmly and Stuyvesant gained very little through the center.

HEMPSTEAD, 9; SOUTHAMPTON, 0

With our team suffering from injuries, but morally strengthened by the victory over Stuyvesant, we went to Southampton and there administered a good beating to the Suffolk County players. During the second quarter, Hempstead earned two points through a safety, and, not long afterwards, "Johnny" Wolff caught a forward pass on Southampton's goal-line and made the only touchdown of the game.

HEMPSTEAD, 0; NEW UTRECHT, 25

We knew not what a stone wall we were going against when we met New Utrecht on the home gridiron, October 16. In a mighty rally in the third period, New Utrecht earned all its points and in the last quarter the play was quite even, neither side being able to score. Ley and Heatherton starred for Hempstead.

HEMPSTEAD, 26; LYNBROOK, 13

Willing to repeat Hempstead's 1925 victory over Lynbrook, our boys went on the field to prove that they were equal to the task. The teams scored alternately until the count was 13—12, Lynbrook's favor, but touchdowns by Ley and Glenn soon provided the margin for Hempstead's victory.

HEMPSTEAD, 0; LAWRENCE, 41

Our team proved no match for the 1926 County Champions. Before Hempstead had quite awakened, the first half was over and Lawrence had collected 21 points. During the second half, Lawrence again scored three touchdowns, and might have had more had it not been for the fine work of Captain Glenn and "Rocks" Ley.

HEMPSTEAD, 13; BUSHWICK, 0

On Election Day, our boys met a new opponent in an out-of-town game with Bushwick. Ley made both touchdowns, the first after receiving a thirty-five yard pass from "Kenny," and the other by a spectacular fifty yard run.

HEMPSTEAD, 6; GLEN COVE, 7

HEMPSTEAD, 6; FREEPORT, 21

Team! Team! Team! Hardly had the echoes of this cheer died away when Hempstead kicked off to Freeport, and the game was on. Hempstead fumbles paved the way for Freeport's first two touchdowns, and soon afterward, Freeport scored again. This was soon followed by Hempstead's only touchdown. No further scoring occurred. Toward the close of the game, "Ray" Heatherton intercepted a forward pass after which the final whistle blew and the 1926 football season was over, Hempstead having gained four victories and met five defeats.

Not enough praise can be given to the substitutes, as well as to Coach Fay, who made our team so successful as to win four victories on so difficult a schedule.

BASEBALL, 1926

The baseball season of 1926 was one of the most successful Hempstead has had in a long time. Though not a championship team, the boys played extremely good ball and won practically all the games played. In spite of the lack of seasoned material at the beginning of the year, our reliable coach, Mr. Fay, turned out a team of which any school would feel proud. The team and the substitutes are to be congratulated—the team for the fine work it did and the subs for the loyalty and determination they showed in staying with the squad.

Harold Manning, a fine player and a veteran of many seasons, was chosen to captain the team. He filled his office admirably and made a fine record in pitching and batting. Jacquiss once again held his position at third base and played as efficiently as ever. Glenn, Courtney and McHale, all three veterans, showed real baseball ability and greatly aided the team to establish the fine record it made. Fiola, Dorkins and Leslie Cheshire made good at their respective positions of catcher and first and second basemen. Wolff, Austin Cheshire and Schneider played in the outfield and handled long flies in great shape. Besides the players, great credit is due to Ellsworth Brown, the manager, and his assistants. Managing a baseball team is no easy job, as most students know.

The season started with a victory over Bryant High School by the score of 6 to 2. All the players did well for their first game but Captain Manning was the star of the game. He knocked out a homer and struck out fourteen opposing batters. The next game was a closely fought contest with Lynbrook. Hempstead received several tough breaks and the visitors managed to squeeze in the winning run and end the game with the score 5 to 4 in their favor. Lawrence was next on the list but the game lasted only two innings and then had to be called off because of the illness of a neighbor. Three days later, we beat Baldwin High in an extremely close game, the score being 5 to 4. This victory seemed to inspire the players with success and started a lucky winning streak for Hempstead. We trounced Southside 12 to 3 in a one-sided contest. The next game, with Lawrence, was more closely contested, but the boys managed to pile up eight runs to their opponents' five. The streak continued and in a return game with Lynbrook, the Hempstead nine emerged victorious by the score of 3 to 2. This game avenged our former defeat at the hands of the Lynbrook players.

Several other games were played, which only served to swell Hempstead's list of victories. The home team continued to play fine ball and show great ability. We hope that the team of 1927 will be able to show as fine a record as the aggregation of 1926. According to all indications they have a splendid opportunity of doing so. Although several of last year's players have been graduated, there is ample material this year for Mr. Fay to work with. And with him as coach, we are sure to have a team which will play clean ball and prove itself worthy of playing under the name of Hempstead.

BOYS' BASKETBALL, 1926-1927

Our first Basketball game of the season of 1926-1927 was played at Rockville Centre and the Rockville Centre players were much superior to our boys, more than doubling our score. Our next game was played against St. Agnes on our court. Our boys played hard and with surprising team work, so that they scored thirty more points than their opponents. But in the next game our team was to be barely beaten by Lawrence, our old rivals. This narrow margin existed in the next game which was won on the home court by the Manhasset quintet. In the following game, against Lynbrook, we were beaten by the very small margin of two points.

About this time our shining center, "Beep" Cheshire was lost to the team and a very capable substitute for "Beep" was found in Albert Steuib. However, our team was a little bit shaken up and as a result, dropped the next game to the Freeport boys. This is not an alibi but an honest fact. That game at Freeport was followed by a defeat on our home court at the hands of Woodmere Academy. In the next game we lost our second game to Lynbrook this season, thus proving Lynbrook a team worth much recognition.

We met the New York Stock Exchange quintet which showed fine team work and speed in defeating us 37—20. Next we met a new rival in Brooklyn Tech, and we went down but not without a game fight before their powerful onslaught. In the following game we were again beaten by Southside, this time the score being much better on our part.

THEN, we hit our stride. Our first victim was Glen Cove, whose score we tripled by the fine work of "Kenny" Glenn and "Les" Cheshire. Their shots were accurate and their teamwork great.

Steuib, "Tommy" Campagna and Paul Schwitz were also to share in the glory of winning this game. The following Friday we played Mitchell Field and subdued the Army aggregation by the count of 34—26. But we were to lose still another game and this to Jamaica Training, which boasts of a splendidly trained team. Our winning streak was then broken but was started again in the game with Glen Cove the following week. Then we turned the tables on Manhasset and beat them to the tune of 26—14. Well, that was great, but it was still greater when on the following Wednesday we beat Hicksville in an overtime period by the narrow margin of three points. If it had not been for Leslie Cheshire in that game there might have been quite a different story. We won the next and last game of a hectic season, in which we lost eleven games and won seven. Our defeats were well earned by better teams and our victories were well earned by clean, hard fighting and game boys, most ably coached by Mr. J. H. Fay. He showed his fine ability on the court against the varsity on March the 3rd, when he was by far the outstanding player on the Faculty five which, due to lack of practice, was thoroughly beaten by the varsity.

Kenneth Glenn and Leslie Cheshire were by all means the high-lights of the past season's basketball team. Their ability in shooting baskets, combined with the excellent guard work of Campagna and Schwitz, enabled us to win the major part of our victories. Steuib was a very reliable asset to the team and it was indeed seldom that he did not get the tap-off. The work of Gordon and Kenneth Rogers, Richard Gordon and Hugh McKenna was indispensable as relief men.

GIRLS' BASKETBALL, 1926-1927

"Success, success to H. H. S.," was the motto of the girls' basketball squad this year. They bent their energies to the ultimate achievement of this aim and a glance at the schedule will show you how well they have succeeded.

With Ida Ryerson leading the team, good will in the squad, hard work at practice and victory in the games were assured. A more fitting position than center could not have been assigned to Captain Ryerson. Her ability to secure the tap-off gave our team an advantage in all the games. Wherever the contest, it was Captain Ryerson who "started the ball a-rollin'." By unending good sportsmanship and enthusiasm, and by accurate shooting, she kept the team in a fighting spirit and the score in Hempstead's favor.

"Little" Charlotte Oatis, right forward, despite her diminutive size, proved invaluable to the team. Her pass work and shooting of both field goals and fouls won her the respect and admiration of the rooters. Isabell Cook, left forward, by hard work and alertness added many points to Hempstead's score. Unfortunate is the guard whose duty it is to follow "Cooky".

Grace Schweiker, center guard, gained the honors of the guarding zone. With the tenacity of a bull-dog, the speed and endurance developed by hard practice, and the foresight and alertness of mind which determine an athlete in any field, she held her man down to comparatively few baskets. Alice Schnecko, left guard, whirled through the games, causing much grief to our opponents by intercepting passes and getting the ball swiftly to our forwards. Nell Wattly and Florence Taylor, guards, and Jeanette Streater, forward, worked hard and showed themselves capable players. With speed and good passwork, they contributed much to the success of the team.

A great deal of praise is due to the "subs" — Washburn, Ackley, Ambrose, Pease, Courtney, and "Joe" Wattly. They dressed for all the games and showed their good sportsmanship in remaining loyal to the team although their chances of playing were few. They were ever ready to replace one of the first-string players, and came regularly to practice to offer worthy resistance to the first team.

The team played many exciting games this season. Who can forget the thrill received when the team faced Freeport, our ancient enemy? Ida Ryerson endeared herself to the High School by those accurate shots which carried our score far above the opponents'.

And the Woodmere game! Remember Gracie's wonderful guarding and the personal foul which was called on the Woodmere forward, when she discovered that even charging couldn't keep Grace from her duty? And that foul shot! The whole Hempstead contingent praying for the basket which would break the tie and place Hempstead ahead! Did we make it? Why of course. With a cool head and the accurate aim which has seldom lost her a foul shot, Charlotte Oatis flipped the ball into the basket two seconds before the final whistle blew. Hempstead, 30; Woodmere, 29. Rah! Rah! Rah!

During the entire season, the girls have been defeated only twice. A successful season such as this can be gained only by diligent practice, good sportsmanship, and co-operation. Miss Newcomb is to be highly commended upon the success which the girls have attained.

"With Apologies to All Who Wish Them"

Hardy Harvie of Calkins from Bennett-land
Loved Fay Munger of Talmadge-shire.
On Davis Hill o'er Beddow River
He nourished his celestial fire.

There's a thorny Lane in Rhodes of love,
And a quarrel arises fast,
And these lovers, being Irish,
Had a bitter quarrel at last.

Harvie in remorse and sorrow
Sent his love a Ballentine,
Sent a fresh Budd and a Newcomb,
Played Faust on a Reed sublime.

But Fay refused to reconsider.
Harvie, plunged into despair,
Decided he would kill himself
Just to spite his lady fair.

So on the good sea vessel "Pfister"
He made his way to Bassemir Isle,
Took only Williams, a trusty Porter,
Tho't he'd pass out right in style.

There a Quinlivan Pill he swallowed,
Mixed with Snyder's cocktail juice;
But when these things failed to kill him,
He exclaimed, "Oh, what's the use?"

Then a mari-Goldy plucked and said,
"This flower reminds me so of Fay,
I'll keep it. But from Olson-town
Tomorrow at Noon I'll sail away."

He Stowe-d away upon a boat
Which coaled up at McDermott-bury.
Here the Schipbanker found him out
And took him up to Captain Perry.

Perry placed him on the "Mitchell."
He went to Stenholm and to Greenlund,
Left the warm Hall of his birthplace,
Hoped to make himself a Newman.

But he couldn't make his living,
First was Smith, a Gardner next,
Then a Baker, then a Herdman;
Maure and Moore his hopes were vex.

Left alone, Fay soon missed Harvie,
So she set out in her Maxwell
And decided she would Ketcham.
Her chauffeur was Sir Rupert Powell.

Powell of Walsh complained to Fay,
"This route is bad without a doubt.
Our Hubbell soon be stuck so fast
We'll need Robert's derrick to get out."

But said Fay, "I will not linger;
No cosy Covert shall entice
Till I find Harvie at Rogers-ville
Up there in the land of ice."

They arrived near Benner Ice-Field.
Said Fay, "I've found him; I will Neel
And I will beg his true love back,
For deepest sorrow now I feel."

When she saw him, she told Powell,
"Heuston-d there. I have been Cross,
I've been a killjoy, not a Lovejoy
I am burdened with remorse."

And when Harvie saw his dearest,
His heart Lathrop-ing in his breast,
He took her in his big strong arms
And—well—I guess you know the rest.

"DETENTION"

Apologies to Longfellow

Tenth period bells had rung at last,
 As thru' the halls of high school passed
 A youth, who bore, in hand of ice,
 A paper with a strange device,

Detention!

His glance was dark, he shook his head,
 Half filled with anger, half with dread,
 And, clasping in his hand the slip,
 A muttered word sprang from his lip,

Detention!

His lucky mates ran out, away,
 Free till the dawn of another day;
 He stumbled in our "Twentieth Room."
 Slumped in a seat, he met his doom—

Detention!

So in the twilight, cold and grim,
 His hair all frayed, his wet eyes dim,
 The freshman sat with glassy stare.
 'Twas his first time in the lion's lair!

Detention!

Twenty years of manufacture continuously expanded to meet demands has permitted my medals, pins and rings to carry my message to confirm my policies. Moeller design has stood for Beauty, its workmanship for Quality and its name for Character.

My jewelry, standing the most critical tests in the hands of thousands of owners, stands for pre-eminence as Quality Products, Honestly Designed, Honestly Made and Honestly Priced. A trial will convince you.

What Pay Check Will You

Give Yourself 10 Years From Now?

IT makes no difference how much you earn, when you start out in business, it is what you have saved that will govern the amount of "salary" you will receive in 10 years from now.

OPPORTUNITIES, on which your future success and happiness may depend, if you are in position to take advantage of them, will be opened to you.

Open a Savings Account Now—keep at it persistently and consistently — your money will make money for you.
