HEMPSTEAD HIGH SCHOOL

DEDICATION

"FOR his fine leadership and sportsmanship, Mr. Benner is known as one of our most popular teachers. His home town is Catasauqua, Pennsylvania. Mr. Benner attended both Muhlenberg College in Allentown, Pennsylvania and Columbia University in New York City. He has made his home in Hempstead for twenty-one years.

"Chief" Benner teaches General Biology, but is even more widely known as the competent coach of the basketball team, which he has skillfully guided for seventeen years. He enjoys bowling, golf, and bacteriology. Because of his all around interests, his fine leadership and sportsmanship, the Colonial Staff of 1945 dedicates this year's Colonial to Mr. Royal Benner.

The Hempstead High School Colonial Presents

FACULTY

This section of the book is brightly lighted by the torch-bearers of learning who enlighten our ignorance.

CLASSES

Here are the groups of pupils on the four steps of upward progress, the highest position, or course, occupied by seniors.

ACTIVITIES

Everyday doings of clubs and organizations are recorded in these pages—honor clubs, service organizations, staffs of publications, clubs for amusement or self-improvement.

ATHLETICS

High lights of sports, major and minor, brighten this portion of the book, with stars of field and gym shining among them.

FEATURES

The ads, which make our book possible, are printed in this section. Other interests, such as cartoons, camera snaps, and stories are featured here also.

A Day In The Life Of A Typical Student

FOREWORD

DURING recent years, particular days have had much publicity. First came Mrs. Roosevelt's "My Day," a newspaper column. Then came the big day of invasion, D-Day. At present we are all hoping for V-Day. Hence, we, the Colonial Staff, have chosen a special day for our theme. We call it High-Day, meaning a typical high school day.

Although we have tried to get away from the war, we haven't forgotten the boys from Hempstead High in the services. We have devoted a special page in their honor.

The first person who greets us as we begin our typical high school day is probably a teacher. Consequently, the first section that meets your eye in our book is the faculty section.

Next we chat with our friends. These friends must be from one of the four classes in high school—Freshman, Sophomore, Junior, or Senior. The second section of our book is devoted to these classes.

Finally we reach the close of the last period and dash off to a club meeting. In our book these clubs and organizations are under the title of Activities.

If there is still time after our club meeting, we try to get to whatever game is being played that afternoon. This is one of the most interesting portions of our High-Day. These athletics take up the fourth section of our book.

That about "winds up" our High-Day, but it doesn't quite bring us to the end of our book. There is still the Feature section, in which the advertisements that pay for our book are printed. Throughout these "ads" there are pictures, cartoons, and write-ups.

So with the following salutation we present the 1945 Colonial:

"Happy High-Day!"

ES AND JIMS

Oh, thus be it ever when freemen shall stand Between their lov'd homes and the war's desolation!

Blest with vict'ry and peace, may the heav'n-rescued land

Praise the Pow'r that hath made and preserved us a nation!

Then conquer we must, when our cause it is just,

*And this be our motto: "In God is our trust!"
And the Star-spangled Banner in triumph shall wave*

O'er the land of the free and the home of the brave!

NOTHING could better represent our High Day than Hempstead High's own Alma Mater. Lines of this alma mater have been chosen as an introduction to each section. We think "Never, never will we fail thee," is a very appropriate sentiment for the faculty section.

DR. WILLIAM GORE

THE successful operation and expansion of our public school system during the last several years here in Hempstead has in a large measure been due to our genial and ever popular Superintendent of Schools, Dr. William A. Gore. He is always cheerful, and is never too busy to pause and give a friendly greeting to a faculty member or a student. In wartime when so much is expected of our public institutions, it is a difficult task to maintain a proper perspective of our real goals and simultaneously carry on the manifold duties which war has imposed upon us. He clearly realizes this problem.

It is with the future of the students that he is earnestly concerned. His sound policies have prompted him to emphasize the good things resulting from our present world conflict, and to incorporate them into the pattern which will assure our country and community good citizens. Through him, our schools have been outstanding in every patriotic and community drive.

Dr. Gore has given us understanding, training in good citizenship, and the "good things" in education.

DR. RAYMOND MAURE

THE days of Dr. Maure, the genial counselor of office 2½, are busy ones, but no two are alike. Nevertheless, Dr. Maure never appears to be in a hurry. Besides the routine tasks of hiring teachers, checking the formation of schedules, the problems of discipline and those involving attendance, a principal must also meet parents, direct special tests, inspect plays, and consult with teachers and pupils on matters of importance.

Dr. Maure says that his interviews with the boys and girls are, by far, his most interesting work. These concern questions about colleges, jobs, or even personal matters. We all agree that just telling our troubles into his kind sympathetic ear seems to help a lot.

Being principal since 1921 has not injured Dr. Maure's sense of humor. His ready joke is always there.

He was born in Richmond Hill. He holds many degrees and honors. His hobbies are all athletic, but golf and bowling are his favorites.

What a difference a day makes! It may be a day of concentrated effort. It may be one of interviews. But whatever the day, if it is one of Dr. Maure's, it will hold in its wake human interest, tears, and laughter.

Louise R. Hueston, May Duryea, Eunice M. Ronnerman, Ruth Moyse.

Elinor W. Morges, June M. Todd, Raymond Maure.

Budget, Registration, and Attendance

HILDA M. HARDY, Business Manager, presides over Office 1 with the assistance of Margaret Doty and Edith Schwedes.

Office 1 has charge of teachers' certification, retirement records, payrolls, bonded indebtedness, budget control, analysis of school costs, non-resident tuition, and annual state reports. If you plan to work during the summer or after school hours, go to Office 1 for your working papers.

Office 2, the abode of Louise R. Hueston, Registrar, and her assistants, Eunice Ronnerman, Ruth Moyse, and May Duryea, is a familiar place to any student who has made a schedule change.

Besides schedules, Office 2 takes care of all matters concerning credit and graduation requirements, and applications for college entrance. All status pertaining to grades and personnel records may be found here. There is an almost complete set of catalogues from colleges, hospitals, business schools, normal schools, and preparatory and private schools on file in this office. Secondary school record blanks and admission application blanks for almost all colleges may be secured here. Requirements for entrance to such schools are also on file in this office. Any student wishing information or advice on such matters is welcome to come in and talk with the Registrar.

Office 2½, better known as Dr. Maure's office, is really the center of the school educational system. Almost all matters pertaining to the student body and the school as a whole pass through this office. Dr. Maure's great responsibility as principal is very much lessened by the capable assistance of his two secretaries, June M. Todd and Elinore Morges. This office is a little less formal and more private than the other offices, which helps many a troubled student to feel at home. Any person desiring aid in his school problems, be he teacher or student, may feel free to drop in for a chat with Dr. Maure in one of his free moments.

Office 3 is directed by Hazel M. Foster, Dean of Girls, William Beddow, Assistant Principal, and E. Carleton Moore, Administrative Assistant. The daily attendance of each student is kept in this office. Probably every student has, at some time, received a slip saying, "Please report to Office 3 at the end of the period." Receiving such a slip usually means that there is some detail of your attendance for the previous day which needs explaining, so you had better brush up on your alibis. Besides a record of each student's attendance, a record of his disciplinary problems is on file in this office.

All extra-curricular activities, the finances of such activities, and the entire athletic program for boys and girls, including the point system, are supervised here. The personnel of this office also works in close cooperation with the health office, so that the administration is constantly aware of the health problems of all pupils.

These offices form the nucleus of the administrative system of Hempstead High School. They may be compared to the wheel of a car, with Dr. Maure's office as the hub, and the other offices as the spokes. The hub and spokes are useless when separated, but together they form the means of locomotion for the car. In the same way, each office is helpless when alone, but combined they are responsible for the smooth operation of the H. H. S. educational system. Without the efficiency of these offices, Hempstead High would be badly crippled.

E. Carleton Moore, Hazel M. Foster, William D. Beddow.

Margaret E. Doty, Edith E. Schwedes, Hilda M. Hardy.

The Helping Hands

IN this year's Colonial we shall attempt to give you a brief description of our faculty's activities and interests in school as well as out. The following write-up is devoted to the hobbies, clubs, and various organizations in which our teachers take part.

Wilbur Monsell, Gladys Underwood, Phoebe Franks, Jean Zarembo, Harold Lints, Gertrude Rhodes, Pauline Cullen, Florence McDermott, Florence Hall.

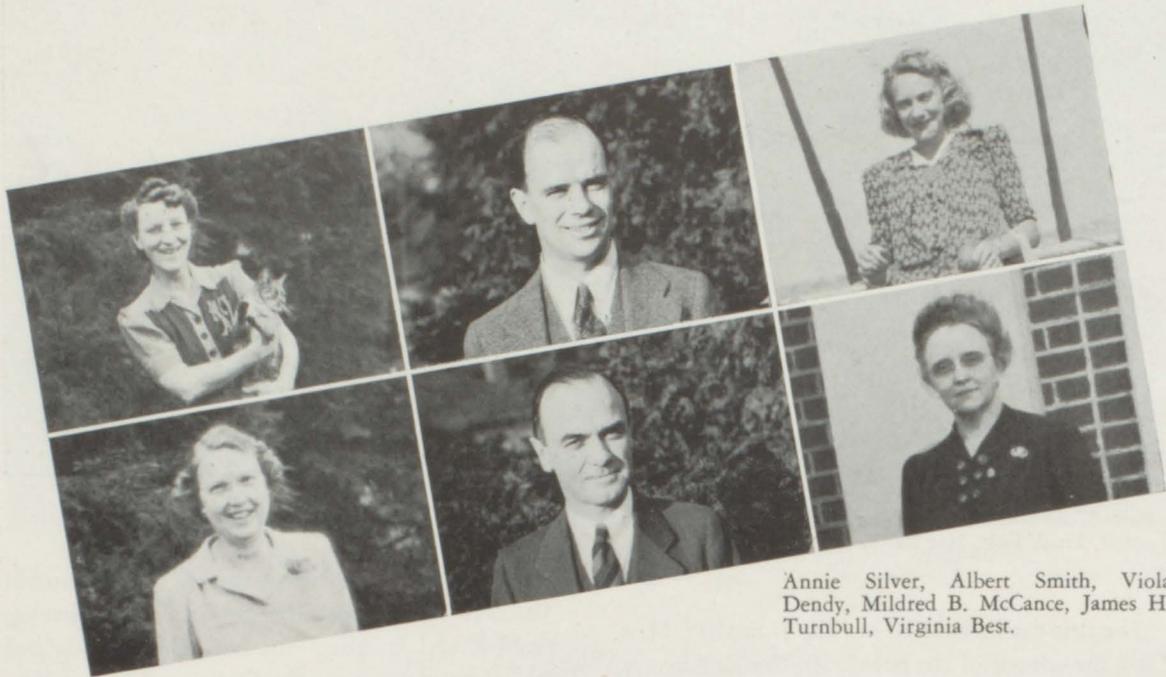

Esther McQueen, Irvin Misner, Edna Layton, Lillian Reicher, Frank Fish, Mae Barth.

The first department on our list is English. Miss Ford, the adviser of the new Junior-Senior Literary Club, likes to spend her spare time with music, reading, gardening, and housekeeping. Popular Mr. Pill, who organizes the work of the grade advisers and takes care of the Pen and Ink Club, collects antique glass as his hobby. The amiable Miss Barth, a Senior Class adviser, spends a great deal of her time after school working for the Red Cross. Miss Farrior, who likes to see new plays whenever possible, considers poetry a most interesting unit in her curricular activities. Miss Bassemir participates in field hockey, the rifle club, and the Classroom Teachers' Association. Her hobbies are gardening, reading, and knitting. Another grade adviser and the assistant adviser to the Freshmen Class, is Miss Joyce. Mrs. Davis has made her house her hobby. Mr. Goldy is well known for his excellent work in connection with the Patriot, and spends his spare time playing with carpenter's tools. The efficient Miss Blaisdell is in charge of the Business Staff of the Colonial and is also a member of the Classroom Teachers' Association. Miss Cantfil supervises the meeting of the Pallas Club. Her hobbies are reading and music. Besides being an adviser to the Sophomore Class, Miss Sproule spends many hours gardening.

Imogene Boyle, Franklin A. Faust, Flora Gunnerson, Marie Vanden Broeck, Raymond Burckley, Lyla Davis.

Annie Silver, Albert Smith, Viola Dendy, Mildred B. McCance, James H. Turnbull, Virginia Best.

Miss Furgerson, Miss Zaremba, and Mr. Navarra are three teachers of Spanish, a language which is growing in popularity. Miss Furgerson is an assistant adviser to the Sophomore Class and supervises the meetings of El Circulo Cartellano. Mr. Navarra participates in the Bowling Club and is the supervisor of the Pathfinders. Aside from his many other activities, Mr. Navarra collects miniature bottles. Senorita Zaremba enjoys sports and participates in badminton.

Advising the Latin Club and working with the Teachers' Canteen Unit are some of the activities of Miss McDermott, whose hobbies are reading and cooking. Miss Underwood was an assistant adviser of the Junior Class and supervised the writing of the Colonial.

Marion MacCallum, Roscoe Whitmore, Bonnie Lee Farrior, Wilma McLean, Frank Rago, Mable Davis.

Myrtle Rhodes, Andrew A. Navarra,
Hazel Blaisdell, Eunice Bassemir, James
Beale, Hazel Martin.

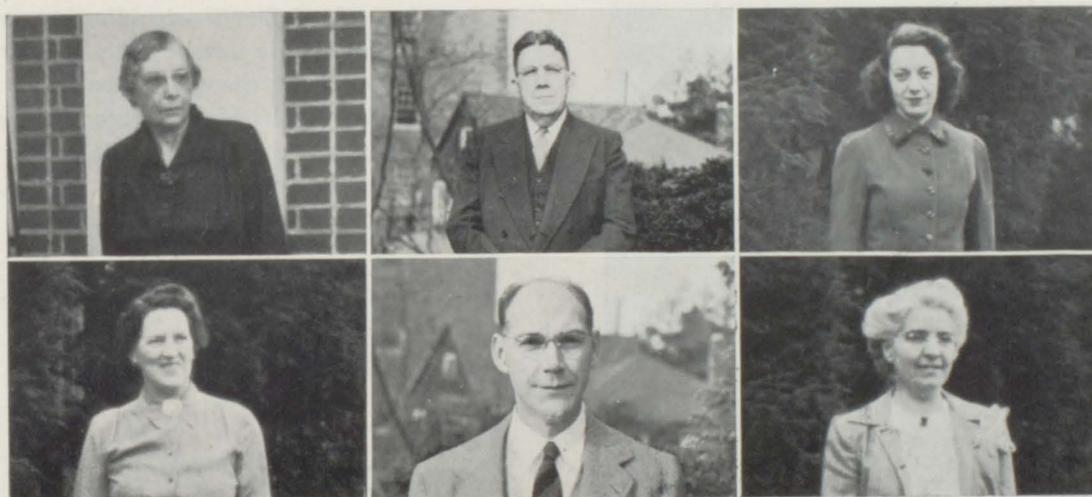

Vivacious Miss Layton, the Assistant Chief of Police of the Hall Cops, finds solid geometry a most interesting subject. She has made travel and flower growing her hobbies. Mr. Whitmore, the adviser of the Tupiar Club and the chairman of the war stamps and bonds sales, likes to bowl, play golf, and work at handicrafts during leisure hours. Mr. Beale, who is the president of the Hempstead Teachers' Association, is a sports fan. His hobbies are reading, gardening, and people.

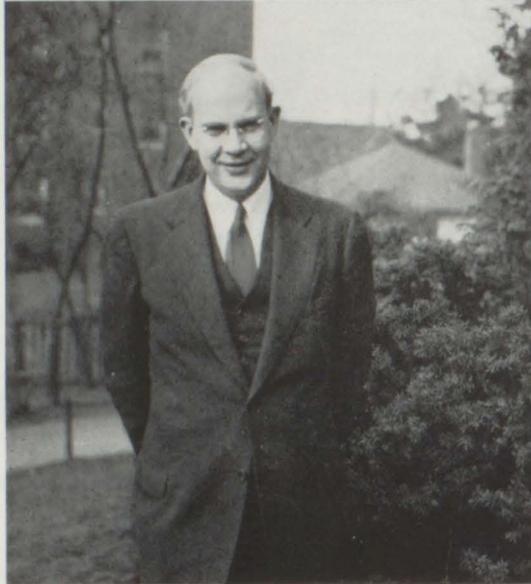

Miss Bennett's chief amusements are handicraft and reading. Mr. A. Smith is interested in photography. The energetic adviser of both the Radio and the Stamp Clubs, Mr. Holtz, amuses himself by golfing, bowling, and collecting antiques. Mr. Hayes assists Mr. Fay in coaching the football team.

Both Miss Taft and Miss Mabel Davis have an interest in gardening. Miss McLean enjoys arts and crafts, while Miss Field likes interior decorating.

Bookkeeping, woodworking, and gardening are

Gertrude Gardner, Robert Hayes, Lois K. Linn, Elizabeth Sproule, Franklin W. Loeb, Ann Rowles.

Mr. Schaedel's chief amusements. Mr. Dale's pastime is gardening and Mr. Smith enjoys handicrafts for recreation. Mr. Monsell participates in Junior Defense Training. Boy Scouts are his hobby.

We now arrive at the science department. Mrs. Daube, a photography enthusiast, advises the Pioneer Club, while Mr. Lints, a Senior Class adviser, is another photography fan. He also advises the Science Club. Mechanical devices of all kinds attract the attention of Mr. Faust. Mr. Benner, coach of the basketball team, finds enjoyment in bowling in addition to nature study and geology. Faculty adviser to the Pentagon, Mr. Misner chooses industrial arts, particularly mechanical work, as his hobby. Basketball and softball for junior girls are two school activities Miss Beighley enjoys, and as a further interest she attends the theatre.

Next in line is the section for social studies. Mrs. Greenlund, Sophomore Class adviser, has spent her last three summers in Cuba studying Spanish. Besides travel, she enjoys horseback riding and swimming. Miss Linn considers the study of China and India most worthwhile in her curricular activities. She is adviser of the Curtain Call Club and takes a great interest in her voice lessons. Gardening is the hobby of the well liked Miss Abbott, and golf is her favorite sport. She is an adviser of the Junior Class. The efficient Mrs. Marshall aids a great deal in the work of the Colonial, while in her spare time she plays golf and cooks. Mrs. Whitmore holds valuable discussion groups in her classes on present world events. Among Miss Yilek's various hobbies are swimming, knitting, and reading. Miss Gunnerson is a member of the P.T.A. and a grade adviser. Bicycle riding has taken the place of her prewar travel by car. The Junto Club adviser, Mr. Rago, chooses golf, bowling, and horseback riding as his chief recreation. Antique glass and furniture are collected by Mr. Fish, who considers his health classes the most interesting unit of his curricular activities.

In approaching the Commercial Department, we find it is headed by Miss Hall. Miss Bringhurst is an adviser of the Commercial Club and plays the piano in her spare time. Two able advisers of the Bowling Club are Miss Silver and Miss Rowles. Miss Silver has conducted a personal interview with every one of her students this semester. The energetic Miss Rowles enjoys bicycling. The bulletin boards are in charge of Mrs. McCance. Mrs. Schryver directs office mimeographing, while golf occupies her leisure time. Miss Degenhardt is an adviser of the Commercial Club and takes a great interest in all kinds of fancy handwork. The Hall Cops have a very efficient adviser, Mr. Turnbull. He renders valuable service to the Patriot. Gardening offers him amusement at home. Antiques and reading engage Mr. Loeb's interest, while here at school he carries on the very valuable work as Placement Director. Mr. Davidson conducted a very successful house to house bond selling drive this year. He finds business arithmetic his most interesting curricular activity, while his family offers him enjoyment at home.

The popular librarians of our school offer much assistance to the pupils. Miss Rhodes likes to travel and attend the theatre in her leisure time. Mrs. Anderson, a senior adviser, considers reading her most enjoyable pastime. Knitting and sports of all kinds occupy Mrs. Cullen's spare hours. Miss Best, head of the Health Service Squad, advises students in all problems regarding health.

Mr. Fay is well known for his excellent work in connection with football. His unusual hobby is psychoanalyzing. Mr. Voorhies is the supervisor of the Assembly Squad and the Campus Patrol. He is quite an outdoor man and has made hunting and fishing his chief sources of amusement. Mr. Krause enjoys woodworking and considers football and track the most interesting unit in his curricular activities.

Emily Daube, Estelle C. Noon, Royal D. Benner, Bernice Ford, S. Margaret Beighley.

"IN the class and on the field we'll win!" should be the line for this portion of the book. Here are our friends in all four classes. The seniors are specially honored here because this is the last year they will be "in the class and on the field" of Hempstead High.

CLASSES

Harold Lints, Hilda Anderson, Mae Barth, Alison C. Vincent.

Following The Seniors Through Their Day

IF you believe there is a manpower shortage, girls, just walk down "Wolfs' Alley" first period. It is located outside the boys' gym. There, seated on the windows, you will find many boys talking about their last night date or the homework they did not do.

Then, take a stroll past the girls' locker room upstairs, and you will hear the girls chattering about their soldier, sailor, or marine. Here comes Margery Sutter, the cute vice-president and charioteer of the cheerleaders. "Sut" intends to go to Wellesley and would like to study fashion or art.

Walking out of the teachers' room we see Miss Barth, the popular senior adviser, accompanied by Mrs. Vincent and Mrs. Anderson, the assistant advisers. If we walk up to the third floor we might meet Mr. Lints, another of the assistant advisers.

There goes the bell for the first period, and if we peek into Room 79 we might see Stratton Haskell, the capable president of this year's Senior Class. Stratton plays the drums in the high school band and intends to make music his career. He also is a great bowling enthusiast.

We managed to get through the first three periods, and in home room 49 we can hear the class secretary, Harry Baggen, explaining the cause for not doing his home work. Harry has no plans for the future as he intends to enter one of the services.

As the bell announces the seventh period we wander into the band box, where we see the class treasurer, Don Hixon, playing the trumpet in the high school band. Don's hobbies are music and art. He hopes to enter Colgate and would like to major in advertising. You might have seen one of his pictures posted in the halls.

We leave school and go to Louis' for a little lunch, which usually consists of a grilled cheese sandwich and a glass of black or white milk. The ones who are fortunate enough to get a seat are busy doing their home (?) work or talking about their heart throbs.

Then to the 8th period, which is the hardest for the upperclassmen, since this is the last class in their day. We sit in class chewing a piece of gum which we received from another classmate, and dreaming of what we are going to do to-night. "Gee! that blonde in the last seat is a honey. I wonder if she has a date Saturday night." Just as she looks at you and smiles, the bell rings, which brings to a close the eighth period.

Then we make a dash for our locker and grab our coats, slamming the door shut. We forgot our English book but after all, tomorrow we have a study hall first period, and surely we can do history, English, math and chemistry in that period.

And so the end of a senior's day!

For many weeks the orchestra practiced for the Christmas pageant, which was held just before vacation. The orchestra was under the excellent direction of Miss Boyle. The choir, with Miss McQueen as their director, also participated in this wonderful affair. The pageant was a great success and was enjoyed by all who attended it.

The senior ball, which was held on January 6th in the boys' gym, was an immense success. Three of this year's senior officers were members of the committee—Sut, Stratton, and Don. There was a great crowd, and the decorations were something out of this world. Among those present were the familiar couples and a great number of fellows who had picked their partners for the night, and, as usual, the stag line.

After safely completing four years of hard work, the seniors can look back happily at the detentions, report cards, little white slips from Offices 2 and 3, and of course the football games, parties, dances, and assemblies. They remember how forlorn they were as freshmen, their sophomore superiority, their rousing good times as juniors. At last they became seniors. They entered most of activities this year because the opportunity would never come again.

We are sure that we always shall remember this excellent class in future years, and in turn we know that they will never forget the high school, the teachers, and the students. With regret we close the door on this year's senior class.

Promising Juniors

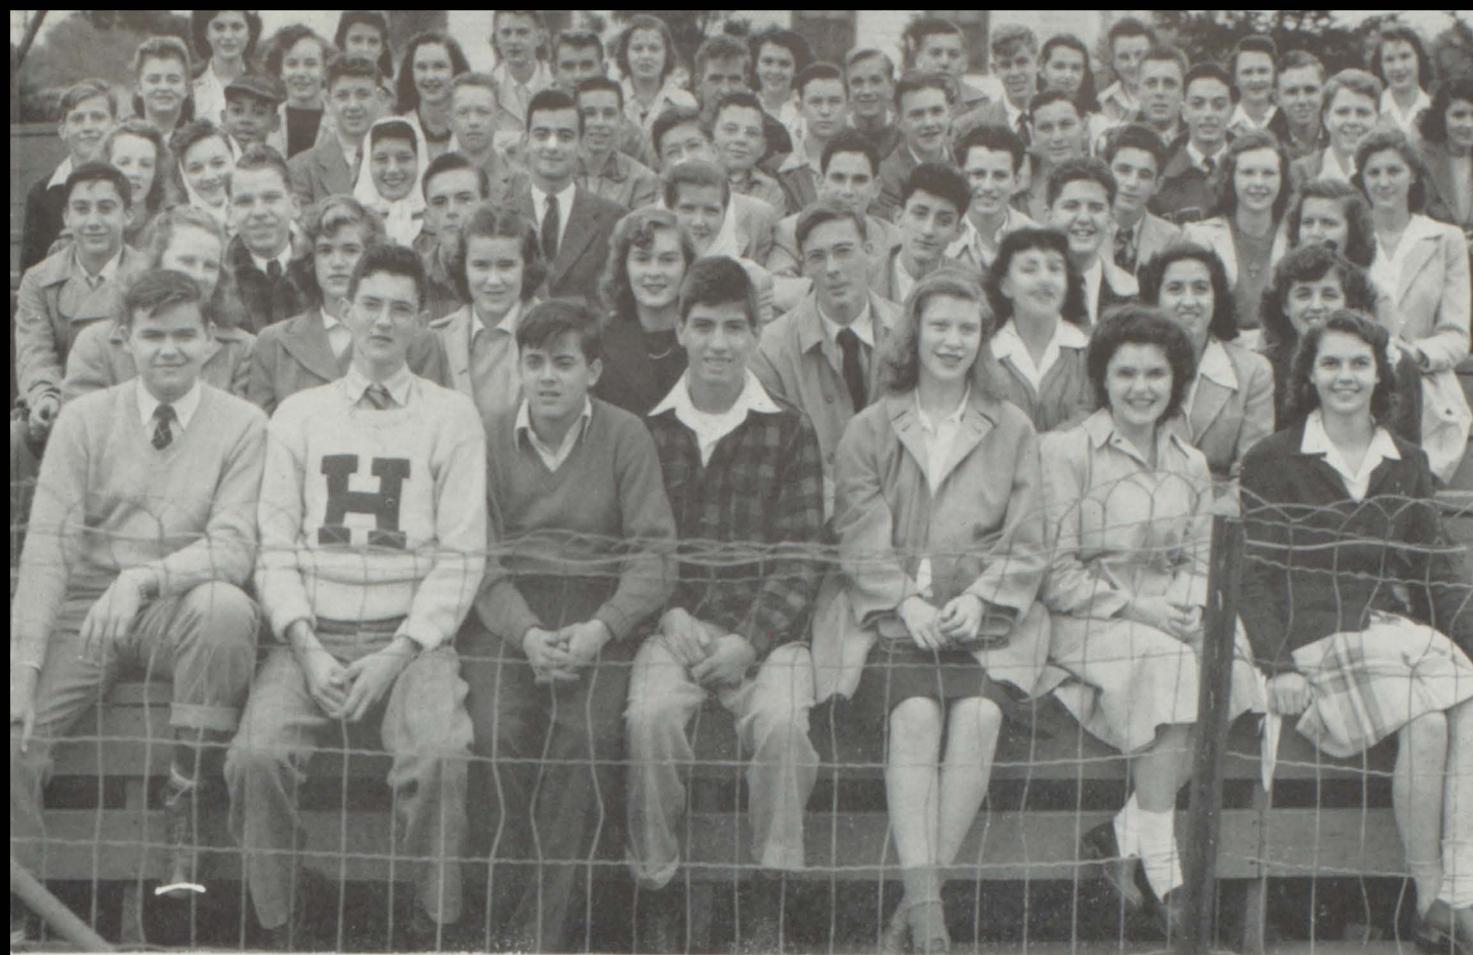

R. Schweizer, J. A. Rowe, J. Kaplan, R. Bickford.

THE time is drawing near when you will be asked to make momentous decisions about the future—what you intend to do when you graduate, whether you will go to college or start your business career. In many cases neither choice of college nor business career will be possible, but you will be wondering and guessing in what branch of the service of your country you will be placed.

When you started high school as a freshman, life was not nearly so complicated; you had two choices, school or work; but now that the war has intervened, those choices are secondary, and will have to wait until the boys and girls come home again and resume their normal lives.

In addition to your school work you are probably training for your future as a soldier or a nurse or a munition worker, by attending after school classes, so you are leading a very active life.

This year has been a very successful one, under the able leadership of Richard Schweizer, president of the Junior Class, who has the unique distinction of having been president of his class each year, and has, therefore, had plenty of experience as a leader. Dick is ably assisted by Joan Kaplan, vice-president. This is also "repeat engagement" for Joan. Popular Jean Ann Rowe takes care of the secretarial duties, while Ralph Bickford handles the finances of the Junior Class.

This year the juniors have as their adviser Miss Gardner, who, with her aides, Miss Taft and Miss Abbott, helps juniors who need a helping hand.

We salute you, juniors — our graduates of 1946!

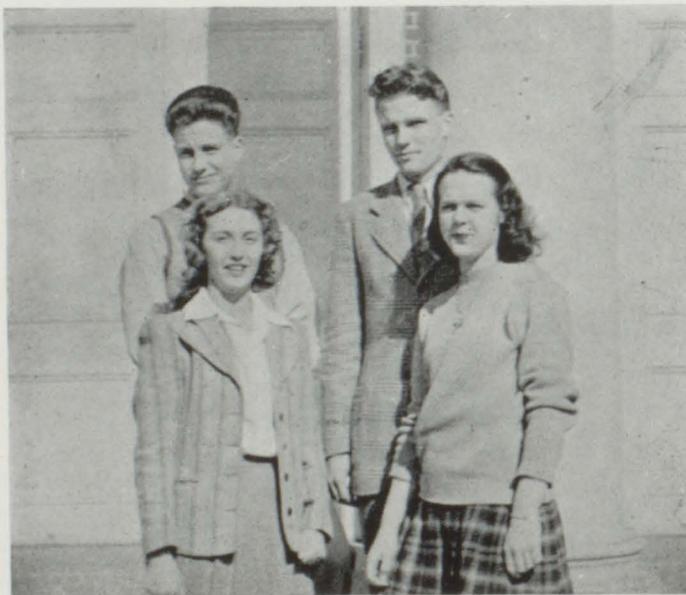

Florence Abbott, Gertrude Gardner, Ruth Taft.

Midway Up The Ladder!

THIS year will see you practically half way through your high school career. Only one short year ago you were one of that much maligned body of freshmen, whom you now consider "small fry". Next year you will be upper classmen, and enjoy the wonderful opportunities offered by our American high schools — chances to develop both your minds and bodies, and to take part in all kinds of extra curricular activities, according to your taste.

You are following in the footsteps of boys and girls who have brought fame and credit to Hempstead High, and whose names will go down in the annals of Hempstead history. We are looking to you to carry on their good work.

The Sophomore Class has chosen for president Frank Cursley, who is an ardent football fan and a prospective artist. Naomi Titus, vice-president, is a very busy little lady interested in dancing and singing, and intends to study nursing. Janet Meyer takes care of the secretarial duties, which will help her along the lines of her future career; Ray Farley, treasurer, is a very active student interested in science.

The Sophomore Class has been fortunate in having Mrs. Greenlund as its adviser. She is ably assisted by Miss Furgerson and Miss Tripp, who help solve any problems with which the officers or class members need assistance.

Marguerite Furgerson, Jennie Tripp, Esther Greenlund.

Not To Be Fooled

D. Puls, P. Wright.

THERE is no use telling this year's freshmen to take the subway or the elevator because they will only laugh at you or give you a disgusted look. Yes, these smart "Frosh" cannot be fooled by the standard high school joke. They have a good idea of high school routine and have done a fine job in participating in all school activities in their freshman year.

This class made a wise choice in electing Harlow Cameron as president. Harlow hopes to go to the University of Michigan and major in natural science. He breeds tropical fish and now has quite a collection. Cute Dorothy Puls was chosen as vice-president. Dottie would like to attend an art school after graduating. Her favorite pastime is drawing and she should go far in this field. June Wright won the place of secretary. June is taking a commercial course and she hopes to be a secretary. June enjoys dancing and collects miniature dogs as a hobby. Robert Wolffe was granted the position of treasurer. Bob intends to go in the Navy even if the war is over. He builds airplane models and is very enthusiastic about horse-back riding.

These students soon found their way through the halls and have become acquainted with many new friends. They also realize the responsibilities they must face in the future.

They are carefully guided by the popular Miss Bonnie Lee Farrior and Miss Ruth Joyce, freshmen advisers.

Hempstead will always be proud of this class, and we wish them well during the many days ahead.

Bonnie Lee Farrior, Ruth Joyce.

"THY name we'll glorify" is a suitable line for the activity section. Clubs and organizations for every taste, for every need, offer opportunities for all. All of them, for service or for fun, glorify Hempstead High. These put the "Hi" in High Day.

In School Issues

ON the first and third Mondays of the month, you can find the members of the Student Council busily engaged in discussing or voting on important school issues.

Miss Foster, the popular and efficient adviser, oversees the meeting and represents the faculty's opinion.

Bill Otten is responsible for the meetings as well as keeping tabs with Miss Foster on new issues to be brought before the Council. Allan Palmer is the vice-president, who, besides his duty of presiding when the president is absent, usually finds himself head of special committees. Ed Simon industriously takes care of the treasury, whose balance is constantly changing because of donations to the Red Cross, the National War Fund or the like. Felicia Bagenski is also kept quite busy keeping up with the minutes of the meeting and entering into the discussions.

The members of the Student Council consist of the heads of clubs, classes, and organizations.

Some of the various accomplishments of this year's Student Council are the sending of Patriots to H. H. S. boys in the armed forces, sponsoring a magazine subscription drive, and planning the annual G. O. Budget.

NO doubt you have tried to pass the little window in the hall near room nineteen during home room period or early in the fourth period. If you have, then you'll know what we mean by "Bond Warriors." This is just another name for our Home Room Representatives in their drive for the sale of war bonds and stamps. Many different activities are included in the day of the representatives. We all agree, however, that the sale of war bonds and stamps heads the long list. Uncle Sam really has the Home Room Representatives on his side in this great fight.

Edward Simon is president of the group this year; Eleanor Slatt is vice-president, and Anna Fraccalvieri is the secretary. Miss Nell Foster is the adviser.

The group also supervises the sale of magazines to the student body. Money thus raised will be used to create a suitable memorial for Hempstead High war heroes.

The Home Room Representatives not only make themselves useful in actions, but in words. At their meetings they represent the student body and offer their suggestions for bettering the school program.

Cooperation Produces 1945 Colonial

THE 1945 Colonial has tried to capture the spirit of the students of Hempstead High by serving as a record of their achievements of the past year. This record is concentrated into one typical day—a "High Day."

The Colonial Staff members extend their sincere thanks to the members of the faculty who so willingly assisted them. Miss Gladys Underwood, our popular literary adviser, left after the first semester to be married, and she was greatly missed by the entire staff. Mrs. Bernice Marshall stepped into her place and has been a wonderful adviser. Many of the faculty pictures were taken by Mr. Albert Smith, whose hard work was truly appreciated.

No publication would be complete without an editor-in-chief. "Buzz" Reeve occupies this important but exhausting post. His right hand "man" is associate-editor, Judith Witt. Their assistants are Robert Hayes and Mary Jean Hurley, two capable students.

The photography committee, for the first time, tried the effect of color on some of the pages. There are fewer pictures than formerly, due to the war shortage of printers' picture plates. One of the economies forced on the committee was having snapshots instead of group pictures of the faculty. John Penirjian headed this staff of fledgling photographers.

The information about our clubs in school was written by members of the club-write-up committee, with Gabriel Kohn as chairman. The sports situation was covered by Ralph Bickford and his sports staff, while the senior-write-up committee, with Lorna Ross as their chairman, pinned the "goods" on the senior students.

The art staff deserves laurels for their effective sketches, as does their head, Catherine Carlton. Miss Bertha Field has been our talented art adviser for several years. The business staff raised the necessary fund by soliciting advertisements for the Colonial. Miss Hazel Blaisdell gives helpful advice concerning these money matters. Frank Rockett is chairman of this hard-working committee.

One of the hardest tasks on the entire staff was undertaken by Frank Fay and Allan Palmer. This was the job of making headlines. Many exhausting hours were spent by these two boys in thinking of original as well as suitable headlines for all the activities and athletics in the book, as well as making headlines for such pages as the dedication and servicemen's page. These boys deserve an "E" for the excellent and efficient job they have done.

James Palmer and Robert Kenny were occupied by the work of gathering information pertaining to the different classes and then compiling their material so as to form an interesting and informative article about each class.

All write-ups in the book pertaining to music, art, or dramatics were handled very skillfully by Janice Ackley and Jane Ellwood.

Margaret Fohring and Louise Taylor, working together, came out with the fine faculty write-up found at the beginning of the book.

Without the able assistance of Doris Mole, Frances Pakula, Louise Taylor, and Dorothy Morsch, the Colonial secretaries, this yearbook could never have been published. They expertly labored many hours at their typewriters, typing every single bit of print that went into the Colonial. They deserve a great deal of credit for the wonderful job they have done.

Several hard-working members of the staff put in extra time proof-reading, sorting pictures, and working on captions.

Special attention ought to be called to those of the staff who wrote the feature stories in the back of the book: Judy Witt, Richard Lewis, Margaret Fohring, Alice Thorsell, Robert Kenny, Mary Alice McKinstry, Margaret McAllister, Frances Wolke, Mary Jean Hurley, and Warren Kaufmann.

Catherine Carleton, Buzz Reeve, Frank Rockett.

Black And White And Read All Over

THIS year we find heading the list of new services of the Patriot, the important work that it is doing for the graduates of Hempstead High in the Armed Forces. Today we find the Patriot being sent to many boys in far distant places, bringing to them the activities and events of our school days. It is read enthusiastically by them, for pleasant memories are brought back of by-gone days when they were students of Hempstead High School.

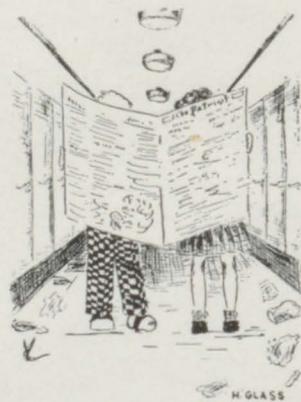

It is through the diligence and interest of the Patriot Staff in bringing to us new and amusing presentations of the activities of school life, that the Patriot has become such a favorite with present and former students.

The Patriot is under the excellent leadership of Helene Jeskin, chief editor, and Leah Rosen, managing editor, who have both done a grand job, thereby continuing the fine record of past officers.

Helene Wasserman, as school editor, does the proofreading for the paper, ever on the lookout for errors. She also has control of the reporters and rules them with a firm hand. Elsie Reynolds has the title of contributing editor, while Elizabeth Thiede is exchange editor. These editors cannot get out the paper alone. It is the cooperation of the entire staff that makes a successful publication.

The spade work on the paper is done by the reporters, who cram the pages with interesting columns of news. Daily they search the grounds for information to be turned into colorful reports.

These news finders are seen at every event, social and athletic, catching up on the latest news and romances, preparing to broadcast them to the entire school. Once the articles are written, the headline writers take them in hand, composing titles that will attract interest and yet be the desired length. At last the stories are typed.

Although news seems to become scarce at times, these reporters always come up with something new and interesting, even though they have to comb the campus to get it.

Robert Leather and Gordon Smith capably cover the progress of the boys' sports, bringing to all sport fans an accurate and complete report of recent games. Lorraine Rockett keeps the girls informed on the latest sport news from the girls' world.

June Anderson, Alvin Feldman, Emily Klimecki, and Gloria Blumberg have charge of the features, and such departments as the "dirt column" have become very popular.

The business staff was headed by William Rhodes until January, when he was taken into the service. Frances Pakula led the staff for the last half of the year. This important staff works energetically to help finance the publication of our favorite newspaper. They work with zeal to get as many advertisements as possible into each edition.

If it were not for the circulation staff, headed by Robert Peter, few of us would ever see the Patriot, for this staff has charge of delivering the papers to eagerly waiting pupils every other Friday.

We have presented the Patriot Staff of 1945 but this staff would not be complete without those capable advisers, Miss Cantfil and Mr. Goldy. These teachers give a great deal of time in guiding the staff along the road to successful journalism. These advisers, although they do not actually write the material for the paper, hover in the background, always ready and willing to give needed assistance in directing the newspaper's construction or policy.

The Patriot has given a valuable service to our school and country. The Patriot is all out for assisting bond drives and stressing their importance. It continually backs up all important and worthwhile activities of the school and urges the pupils to participate in them.

To the Patriot Staff we give our deepest appreciation for its fine work in the production of a piece of work which gives so much pleasure to so many students. The Patriot is one of the finest contributions made by students.

Conduct, Loyalty, And Leadership

EVERY day during home room, the average student of Hempstead High awaits the notices. These informative sheets are delivered by the members of the Senior Girl's Service Squad.

This is only one of the many ways in which the Office 2 squad endeavors to assist the principal and the registrar. Other tasks include filing, alphabetizing, carrying messages, working in the stock room, and sometimes taking charge of classes in case of a teacher's absence.

This year the lively group of twenty-five girls is under the capable leadership of Ruth Edwards. Lorraine Rockett fills the role of assistant-chief.

Each girl is carefully selected in the spring of her junior year by Mrs. Hueston, the Registrar. Members are expected to fulfill the motto of the squad, "Leadership, conduct, and loyalty." They are obliged to serve at least one period a day in Office 2, and stay for "late duty", which is ninth and tenth periods, three weeks a year.

Without the smooth, cooperative functioning of this loyal group of senior girls, the efficient wheels of the school administration could not run so smoothly. Both students and teachers appreciate their service.

At one time or another you have undoubtedly tripped very gracefully into Office 3. Once there, if you had a moment, you probably saw many charming misses. They are the Junior Secretaries.

A typical high day for this group of forty girls includes typing, filing, answering the telephone, filling out the yellow slips, collecting the absentee slips, and many other important tasks that keep the school running in a smooth, automatic fashion.

The girls spend one period a day in Office 3, besides collecting absentee slips during home room period. Each girl is expected to stay for late duty two weeks of the year.

Friendly Helen Malinski is the very able chief of the group, and she has high praise for the other officers. Doris Mole is assistant chief, Louise Taylor takes the minutes, and Audrey Barry holds the purse strings. Surely with these four girls leading, the Junior Secretaries can only come out on top.

We can always depend on the Junior Secretaries under the leadership of delightful Mrs. Foster.

"- But Mr. Moore, this one wouldn't come !! -"

In The Daily Routine

RANKING among the most important activities of H. H. S. is our hall patrol. These boys form an able police force for the halls of our school, giving directions, helping strangers, and performing the tedious task of keeping the halls clear.

At the beginning of each term the hall cops are picked from each study hall. The necessary number are taken and assigned to their posts where they report each day from that time on. For each period a lieutenant is chosen, who takes the attendance daily, and supervises the other patrol members. Teachers aid by giving their time and energy as advisers. This year Miss Layton and Mr. Turnbull ably advise the patrol. The aid of these teachers is greatly appreciated by the student body.

Small shield-like pins are bought each year, each member of the patrol displaying his proudly on his clothing. Pat Anguilo is chief, with Gene Ferguson as his assistant.

THE Sketch Club, under the excellent guidance of Miss McLean, has learned and undertaken many interesting things this year. It consists of about fifty girls who are all interested either in art or fashion design.

Four capable girls have been helping Miss McLean. Barbara Starin keeps order. Her assistant, Jean Ann Rowe, takes over if Barbara is absent. Kevy Panzer, as secretary, takes notes and keeps time, while the little girl who runs around collecting the money is Mary Hartnett.

The club aroused much interest throughout the high school this year when they featured the latest costumes from several of the Hempstead stores. Many members of the club served as models. From this group Ann Christ was chosen "Queen of the Fashion Show." The club plans to sponsor its yearly fashion design contest this spring at which any girl in the high school is welcome to display her creations.

Two Bells And All Is Well

AT the clang of two bells, two minutes after a period has begun, the bustling lines of students going to an assembly denote that the Assembly Squad is carrying on its tradition of getting the students to the auditorium as quickly and efficiently as possible.

This year Mr. Voorhies is the sole adviser of the squad, and to him go the duties of arranging which classes are to go, where they are to sit, and all other details necessary for efficient organization.

The squad is composed of three groups: the class guides, who lead the classes through the hall; the hall guides, who attempt to keep the lines straight; and the auditorium staff, who actually seat and empty the auditorium.

The members of the squad, picked because of being outstanding students, have discontinued their usual meetings because many of the boys are busy after school. Mr. Voorhies gets along very well by having the boys see him to get their assignments personally.

Junior Librarians

DURING the long school day, book lovers of Hempstead High can be seen crowding their way into the school libraries. Directing these students on the path of enjoyable and fine reading is one of the tasks of the Library Staff.

Virginia Litka heads this group of girls, who are always cheerfully ready to assist the students and our charming librarians, Miss Rhodes, Mrs. Cullen, and Mrs. Anderson. Several girls are always on duty during the entire day, willing to give their best to the students.

These girls have previously been chosen from the junior and senior classes, but now there are several capable sophomores helping also.

Besides locating books, the girls do any necessary clerical work. They stamp and shelve books, run errands, and hurry through the silent halls with the familiar yellow slips.

It is the conscientious and efficient work of the Library Staff that helps to make Hempstead a fine and well organized school.

Room 80 Couriers

PERHAPS your daily tours don't include Room 80; let's hope they don't. At any rate, Room 80 still exists for those students who require aid. It has a peaceful, comforting atmosphere, especially if comfort is what you need. Advice and aid are readily given by the grade advisers. Their purpose is to make you get the most out of high school in the way of good marks and scholarship.

All the chores of Room 80 are competently taken care of by the Adviser Aides. Each grade adviser has one aide. Their tasks include making out green invitations, keeping records of appointments and interviews of students, taking care of the file cards from grammar school, and other such work. If ever you need a pep talk, just walk into Room 80. It is a guarantee.

Ruth Crevoiseret is chief of the group of aides, Nancy Becker is assistant chief, and Frances Sadowski is the treasurer. Miss Silver is the adviser of the Adviser Aides. No regular meetings have ever been planned. They are called "as the spirit moves." We can always depend on the grade advisers and their aides to help us when our marks take a backslide.

“AN army marches on its stomach.” This old saying is true of students as well as soldiers. We have statistics to prove it.

Our cafeteria was opened in October, 1922, making it now twenty-two years old. It has occupied its present quarters since 1935. During its first year the cafeteria served an average of one hundred and fifty lunches daily. As more students realized the high quality and reasonable price of the food, the number increased. Growth continued through the years until last year an average of nine hundred and nineteen hungry boys and girls was served daily. The total number of lunches served in a year has now reached the amazing total of 156,621.

Members of the Cafeteria Squad may well take pride in their share in supplying the needs of so great a number of persons. The squad members show us never failing courtesy, and their quickness, agility, and composure is a constant source of amazement. Their good work should inspire us with appreciation and with a desire to cooperate closely with the rules and regulations.

Mother and Dad may claim that students are extravagant, but according to the records the average check totals only twelve cents.

Jr. Assistant Nurses

AT the present time nursing is especially important work, as it is during any war. The Health Service Squad is composed of girls who are interested in doing such work. The members of this efficient squad give up their free time in school to assist Miss Best in the nurse's office by doing such work as keeping students' health records, typing, filing, and giving eye and ear tests. The average student does not realize the amount of time which is spent in keeping his or her individual health record in order.

The meetings of the Health Service Squad are held the second Tuesday of every month in Room 27, and are presided over by popular Gloria Blumberg. During these meetings, Miss Best, their adviser, instructs them in administering first aid.

These girls surely should be applauded for the valuable assistance they render the school.

Number Please?

ALTHOUGH the Central Service Squad was founded only two years ago, it has managed to become, in that short time, an important and valuable organization to Hempstead High. It was through the efforts of Mrs. June Todd and Miss Billie Webb that the switchboard was installed in Office 2.

During the day one or two students are on duty at all times, ready to receive and deliver messages to teachers, and give out information to all inquirers. These girls, who operate the switchboard, are under the capable guidance of Mrs. Todd and Mrs. Elinor Morges.

The girls, usually junior and senior commercial students, are recommended by their teachers to Dr. Maure, who personally interviews them.

Thanks to the girls of the switchboard, prompt and reliable service is given at all times to all callers and teachers of H. H. S.

Station H. H. S.

KEEPING up with radio's wartime importance, and industrious group of radio fans meets in room 5 under the cheerful supervision of Mr. Holtz, their adviser. The members are students who are interested in learning more about radios and their construction. During the meetings, the eager enthusiasts take apart and repair radios. Popular Ernest Martin is their president, while Thomas Malone has the doubly difficult job of being vice-president and secretary. The financial matters are handled by Treasurer Alan Monhol. Several times during the year lectures were given on electronics. The members have also serviced and rebuilt radio sets for members of the faculty. Patriotically complying with government order, the club has given up the use of Station W2MUY's short wave set and transmitter. At the present time, the members are rebuilding that transmitter for better usage after the war.

Aim For The Target

IN view of the war crisis, the Rifle Club has become one of the most important clubs in school. That is, it helps to familiarize the members with the use and care of a rifle. The club had one regular meeting this year for the election of officers. Those chosen were President Roy Elfast, Vice-President John Hiller, Secretary Jan van de Hayer, and Treasurer David Reeve. The popular adviser to the club is Mr. Voorhies, who is also the instructor. The capable students elected as managers of the Rifle Team were David Adams, James Reilly, "Buzz" Reeve, and Jan van de Hoyer.

Each member does not own his rifle, but may bring one if he wishes. Monday, Wednesday, and Friday the boys practice on the range, while on Thursdays it is the girls' turn. By steady practice the member develops a truer aim and a clearer eye for the target.

Busy Brains

EVERY year the boys with the top scholastic marks of the school gather to form the Pentagon Club. This year the club is especially large and has been quite active under the expert leadership of Mr. Misner.

Living up to its ideals of scholarship, initiative, co-operation, courtesy, and service, the club has been working very hard making an attractive Senior Play Program. This involves a great deal of work by the boys, who secure advertisements and then arrange them into a well balanced program. This year Gabriel Kohn has charge of this committee.

On the first Thursday of every month the club is brought to order at the rap of Bill Otten's gavel. John Zinmon, who served as vice-president for the first half year, was graduated in January and so has been replaced by John Scott, who has charge of drawing up the club's constitution. Bob Leather keeps the club minutes up to date, while Stanley Ripp keeps guard over the treasury, from which a fifty dollar scholarship is awarded annually.

The Smarter Half

THE Pen and Ink Club is made up of members of the fair sex whose grades are ninety in major subjects, and who have no grade below eighty-eight.

The Pen and Ink Club is one of the most active organizations in the school. It assists in registration at the opening of school in September. It sponsors a popular annual tea for the faculty, making and serving dainty sandwiches and cakes. Club members also serve candy and hot dogs at all the games.

Mr. Pill is the popular adviser of the club. This year's able staff of officers includes Ruth Kosby as president, Dorothy Yawner as vice-president, Marjory Sutter as secretary, and Anna Fracalvieri as treasurer.

Our valued and much-thumbed Handbook is written and published by the Pen and Ink. With its lists of courses and requirements for graduation, and its description of every subject offered by the school, it is of great assistance to upper classmen as well as to new students. The editor-in-chief of this year's Handbook is Ruth Boshler and the business manager is Leah Rosen.

This season the club has had numerous interesting programs. Pat Moldenke introduced Theda Kenyon, a noted novelist, as guest speaker. Caroline O'Connor, a former student, told the club all about modeling as a career.

They're Doing Their Bit

THIS year the Sophomore girls' honor club, under the direction of Miss Cantfil, has given up its Christmas party in order that it might put all its money into war organizations. Doris Johnson wields the gavel, while Lee Renander takes over in Doris's absence. Marion Schott reads the minutes and Janice Anglebeck collects the dues.

Eager Beavers

IN the prominent section of our schools' club roll we find the Junto Club. This is the sophomore honor club, which is led this year by Mr. Rago. Homer Bolander was chosen as president with Richard Wasson as his assistant. Every sophomore struggles to achieve membership in this club but only the most attentive reach their goal.

Trail To Scholarship

THE first in the line of honor clubs of H. H. S. is the Pathfinders Club. This group is ably headed by Mr. Navarra, who has handled the club for several years. This year Robert Paul was elected president with William Edwards as vice-president. This club is respected highly by every member of the student body and faculty.

Beginning With Honors

A fascinating and brainy group of freshman girls compose this year's Pioneer Club. These intelligent girls have unusual ability. To become a member each must have at least a 90 percent average in four major subjects.

These girls have started their high school life on the right foot with their high scholastic honors.

UNDER the excellent guidance of Miss Field, the Art Club is well under way this year. The club, consisting of all those interested in art, has had a full and very interesting program this year.

The four students chosen to aid the girls with their art problems are: first, capable president, June Jeffers; her helper, Phyllis Konvalinka, vice-president; the time keeper and secretary, Ruth Mitschke; and lastly the business woman, treasurer, Dorothy Klimpel.

The club had a wonderful time this Christmas when it celebrated with a bang-up party. There were refreshments and plenty of fun for all. After the holidays they settled down again and went back to their work, which was a craft problem of wooden plates to be decorated, pictures to be painted, and water color designs to be worked out. This has kept them busy for most of the season.

It is a tradition of the club to attend a play in New York every year, but they have not quite decided upon the one for this year. They are also looking forward to the picnic to be held in the spring. The club enjoys sociability as well as art.

Ex Libris

THE Ex Libris is brand new this year and is rapidly gaining in popularity. It is an outgrowth of the Junior Literary Society, but the Ex Libris is composed of both juniors and seniors who are interested in learning about books. The purpose of the club is to give literary-minded students an opportunity to discuss and compare their opinions of various literary works, radio programs, and educational films. Miss Ford, who is responsible for the organizing of the club, is the adviser. President Eileen Dunn wields the gavel, while Vice-President Marrin Petersen is her capable assistant. Doris Smith is the treasurer and Edmund Wright keeps the minutes in order.

The club enjoyed a very full program this year, including a talk by Dr. Haney of Hofstra College. Let's wish this new club great success for the future!

Value From Books

THE Sophomore Literary Club is made up of girls who are interested in putting the reading of books to a practical use.

The club is under Miss Sproule's capable guidance. Thelma Funk heads the club. Doris Perez acts as vice-president; Marion Loweth fulfills the duties of secretary, and Dorothy Gaulla keeps the treasury in order.

At their meetings on the first Thursday of every month, a special committee presents the program for that meeting. At one meeting Miss Davis, a Red Cross worker, gave a very enlightening talk about the underprivileged children of Europe. As a result, when the Red Cross made an appeal for clothing and supplies for these suffering children, the club not only packed one box, but responded whole-heartedly with a second box. The girls have discussed books and the theater, but are now especially interested in foreign countries.

Prelude To Fame

JUNIORS and seniors never relax. After a strenuous day of classes, many meet in room 34 to attend a meeting of the Footlight Club. All work hard to obtain the ten points required for full membership. This is an innovation this year. Points are earned by participating in plays, helping in any phase of back stage production, ushering, selling tickets, and publicity. The club feels that this plan has worked very well and is a great improvement over the old tryout method. Many students have already earned full membership.

The officers of the Footlight Club are as follows: president, Helen Hohlen; vice-president, Joyce Killian; secretary, Barbara Starin; point recorder, Betty Bugh; and treasurer, Patricia Roche.

A one-act play, "I'm a Fool," by Sherwood Anderson, was presented in November. The proceeds from a movie, "Lives of The Bengal Lancers" purchased six spotlights for our stage. Another one-act play was given at Hofstra College for the drama festival of the "Arts Come to Hempstead" program. The last activity, the Footlight Frolics, an annual amateur show, climaxed the season in May.

THE purpose of the Commercial Club is to bring together girls with the same basic interests. All of the business students are eligible for membership in the club and all are welcome. If the students are better acquainted with each other the result will be more cooperation among the student body and a smoother school program. The success of every program in school and industry depends primarily upon the cooperation of each person concerned. This is a very worthwhile goal.

This year's Commercial Club includes twenty-seven members, meeting once each month in room twenty. The chosen officers are: Joan Datz, president; Camilla Piekutowski, vice-president; Lucy Demasco, secretary; and Gloria Reimer, treasurer. Miss Degenhardt and Miss Bringhurst are in charge of the club.

The club has planned a very interesting year for the members. Chosen girls plan each meeting so as to add the personal touch. They are designed to be interesting, educational, and entertaining. Graduates of the commercial department are expected to return to speak to the members at their meetings. A cake sale was held in order to raise money for necessities. The members are also participating in the usual trip to New York City. This much anticipated excursion is the high light of the year, and includes attending a popular play.

Carpe Diem Sodalitas

THIS year we find the Carpe Diem Sodalitas, one of the oldest and most popular clubs, increasing in size and importance. Once every month room 31 is alive with Latin students, who eagerly take part in the lively and interesting entertainments which are provided by the club's officers and Miss McDermott, the capable adviser.

At these Tuesday meetings, Latin games, quizzes, and contests are played and enjoyed by these modern Romans. Miss McDermott helps provide these games, which are very educational for the students. The quizzes pertain to Roman culture and in this way the history, customs, and other important facts are presented to the students in a pleasing manner.

Everything in the club is Romanized. Even the officers have been given Latin names. The first Consul, Marion Schott, presides over the meetings, while Doris Perez, the second Consul, assists her. The Scribe, Joyce Santa Maria, records the exact doings of the club and the Quaestor, Dorothy Mondine, handles the financial detail. A committee known as the Aedile performs the numerous miscellaneous duties of the club. Frank Rockett is head of this committee, and Richard Mereday, Eileen Massmann, and Janet Reynolds are his capable helpers. These conscientious officers are always thinking of new and worthwhile entertainments and ideas to present to the students.

Each year prizes are given for scholarship in regents. The pupils who obtain the highest honors in the Latin II and III regents are rewarded. The prizes that were awarded last year went to Judith Witt for the highest Latin II mark, and to Alvin Feldman for the highest Latin III mark.

Each year the Latin classes are getting larger and larger, proving that the Latin language is certainly not dead. In fact Latin is very much alive, since it is the basis for our own English language and many others. In studying Latin we become more familiar with the construction of other languages. Today the study of Latin has become more and more vital since a better understanding of foreign languages is needed as peace and friendship are established between all countries.

Wie Geht Es Ihnen?

ON the last Thursday of every month, students interested in increasing their knowledge of German culture and of the German language, are found in room 10 attending the meeting of the German Club. The club is open to any student taking German or to anyone with a knowledge of German who would like to know more of the customs and ways of living in Germany. The club's aim, however, is entirely social.

This year the popular and brilliant Ruth Monkemeyer presides over the meetings, Emma Riess faithfully carries out the duties of vice-president, Dorothy May looks after the club's money matters, and Helen Furst holds the important office of program chairman and is constantly originating new activities. The friendly and ingenious Mrs. Franks is the club adviser and takes an especially active part in improving the club and seeing to it that the students enjoy themselves while taking part in the program.

Due to the combined efforts of each individual member, the club always has a very interesting and different program. At one of the first meetings of the year, several students gave talks about the lives and accomplishments of some of the many German composers. At the next meeting, the members had a lot of fun doing a cross word puzzle made up by Dorothy May from a German story which had been translated at an earlier meeting. At the December meeting, the club held its annual Christmas party. The Christmas spirit was spread by the singing of the traditional German Christmas carols. Instead of having their usual grab bag, the club decided to send a Red Cross box of clothing and supplies to the underprivileged school children of Europe. And then, to make the party complete, refreshments were served. The club has recently held a very successful cake sale. And now, on the calendar of coming events, Louise Mehmel will take charge of the March meeting, while Elsie Keiderling and Louis Brohm will be responsible for the following April meeting. The club is also looking forward to its annual picnic and hot dog roast at the Hempstead Lake State Park.

They Study Our Ally

EVERY second Tuesday, those students interested in French gather 'round at a meeting of "Le Cercle Français." Under the capable leadership of Miss Neel, these French-minded pupils discuss the history and customs of France. Since most of France has been recently liberated, there is much news astir about France. The members of "Le Cercle Français" listen attentively to the news and during the meeting the current events are discussed. Games are introduced to the meetings and a Christmas party was held on Dec. 11. Christmas boxes have been filled for the war organization. The purpose of this club is to further acquaint the French students with the country whose language they are endeavoring to master. It has also awakened an interest in post-war France, which is going to help this generation to keep world peace. Alma Schuhmacher is president; Joan Keilly, vice-president; "Nickey" Melis, secrétaire, and Edward Vlaun is trésorier.

Meetings In Spanish

ON the first Tuesday of every month the señoritas and señores of Hempstead High School meet to converse together in Spanish. The meetings of this club are conducted entirely in Spanish except for the small portion of the meeting in which Miss Furgerson and Miss Zaremba, who ably head the club, give the students a chance to ask any questions about Spanish that they wish. During each meeting, songs of Spain and Mexico are sung and various plays and recitations in Spanish are presented by the members of the group. Every student who studies Spanish realizes the importance and convenience of having a place where one may practice the language. This year the club elected Felicia Bagenski as president, with Louise Bolanz as vice-president and Elsie Reynolds as secretary-treasurer. The club has done a fine job in entertaining its members and above all, in improving their Spanish.

Amateur Experimenters

EVERY year students interested in science gather together under the leadership of Mr. Faust and Mr. Lints for the purpose of broadening their scientific knowledge.

This year Allan Schulz presides at meetings. Eleanor Bowen holds the money and keeps the minutes straight. For each meeting a few designated members put on experiments; the reactions are explained and discussed by the members, who frequently have "labs" of their own at home.

The Natural Science Club was formed by students especially interested in the geological, biological, and botanical aspects of science.

Robinson Abbot acts as president, Allan Schulz as vice-president, and Emily Schuppel is both treasurer and secretary.

The club meets Thursdays; they have made three successful nature hikes. Relief maps of glacier and water formations were also made.

Mathematical Marvels

ANYONE looking into room nine on the last Thursday of the month, will be amazed to see students actually licking their chops with a look of eagerness when they are confronted with a tough math. problem—but this is natural for the members of the 2 II R.

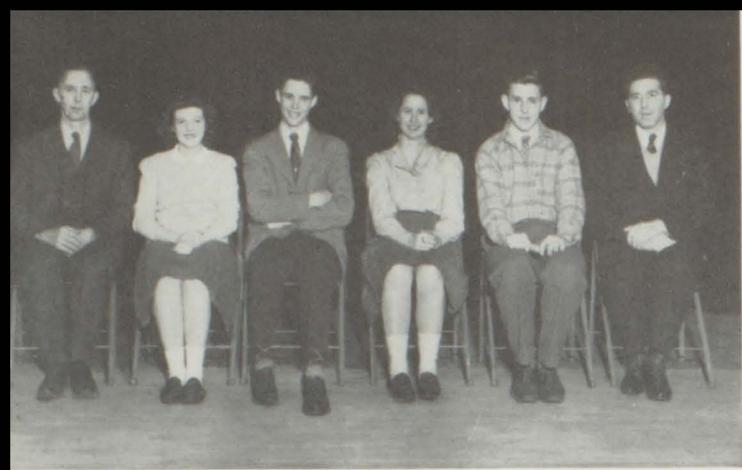

Mr. Whitmore is the very capable adviser of the club, who has the job of instructing the members.

Warren Kaufmann presides over the business meeting, and Joe Munn acts as second in command, while Eileen Wasson keeps both the notes and the dues.

Not only must all the members be interested in math, but they must be taking either trigonometry or intermediate algebra to be eligible.

The club has measured the flagpole by means of a transit, and Mr. Whitmore has shown them the use of a slide rule. The club has also held a successful cake sale.

The Camera Doesn't Lie

EVERY third Tuesday, under the instruction of Mr. Lints and Mr. Eckert, these camera-minded students meet. During these meetings they are taught the tricks of the trade and receive criticism on their work during the month. Many join because they like to snap pictures, and before the end of the year, they can ably handle a camera and skillfully develop pictures. Every Friday afternoon a lab is held in which not more than four members are instructed under the advisers or under one of the more talented members. They are instructed in the art of printing and developing. The Camera Club is represented in the school by providing photographs for the school periodicals. Club contests are held from time to time to determine the quality of the members' work. The members also enter outside contests. Bob Leather is the able president, Nancy Munro is the vice-president, and Jean Schroeder is the secretary.

Watch The Water Mark

WHEN the Stamp Club meets, the members come laden down with their precious stamp albums, ready to resume their activities at another session of trading and buying the much-valued bits of paper. The club is under the guidance of friendly Mr. Holtz. The aim of the club is to afford an opportunity for the stamp collectors to get together and complete their sets by buying and trading each other's stamps. During the meeting, new stamp issues and rare stamps are discussed. A mid-year auction has been planned at which John Scott, president, will officiate. Many new and much-prized stamps will be auctioned off at this time. An exhibition of the members' stamp albums for non-members is an annual event for the Stamp Club, and at present writing, such an exhibition is being planned. Eugene Vollmert holds both the vice-presidency and secretaryship, while Wing Lee is the treasurer.

Set 'Em Up Again

STRIKE! This was the familiar call which was heard quite often when the H.H.S. bowling club got under way again. There was an exceptionally good turnout for bowling this year. Under the splendid leadership and instruction of Mr. Navarra every member of the club improved his average somewhat and enjoyed himself at the same time. The club met every Monday at three P.M. and proceeded to the bowling alleys, where each member bowled and kept a record of his weekly score. It was from this club that the varsity team was finally picked. Many of the boys grouped and made teams, which competed against each other at every meeting. There were many times when the boys were forced to act as pinboys for each other, but everyone did his part and the club continued its bowling activities. The influence of this club had a great affect on the good sportsmanship of its members. Therefore it accomplished its purpose.

Stars In The Making

THE Freshman-Sophomore dramatic group, the Curtain Call Club, has successfully completed its third year. This club, though young in years, is fast becoming one of Hempstead High's most popular. It is doing a fine job of training the underclassmen in the art of acting. The members are getting a good start under the direction of Miss Linn. They will, therefore, in the years to come, enter the Footlight Club with a valuable training behind them. This year, they have produced a delightful play, "Two Crooks and a Lady," starring Phyllis Snow, Franklin Fass, Helen O'Brien, Barbara Jones, and Wallace Carlson, and an original play entitled "The Peaceful Palace." Martha Stavrinis presides over the club members. The gavel is handed out to Doris Morton in the absence of the president, while Camilla Piekutowski records the minutes and Charles Pappas collects the dues.

How

O NOSTRAND

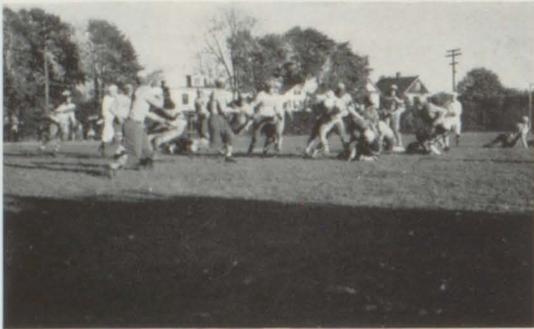

“FOR thee we’ll do or die” expresses the sentiment of the active participants in school sports. They go all out for every sort of extracurricular competition, from rifle meets to football championships. No High Day is complete without athletics.

Tigers Roar Ahead To Win

THIS year, as in many previous ones, Joe Fay, our able coach, with twenty-five years of experience at Hempstead High, turned out another top notch team, although it was a little slow when the season opened. Doug Millete and Mike Carra, veterans of previous campaigns, led the Tigers to final victory.

OCTOBER 7—The Tiger team opened up its '44 campaign against its arch rival, Freeport, on a sunny afternoon with Hempstead squeezing out a victory to the tune of 12-7. The Tigers had a tough afternoon, the big moment being when Don Scafidi intercepted a pass on the Freeport 40 and ran for a touchdown to give Hempstead its first victory.

OCTOBER 14—Hempstead traveled to Baldwin to play another tough game with the Blue and Gold. After Baldwin made a touchdown on their first play, it appeared as if the game would have a different outcome, but a valiant Hempstead team, after Mike Carra blocked a kick and recovered it for a touchdown, held Baldwin to a 7-7 tie.

OCTOBER 24—After being rained out on their usual Saturday game, the underdog Sewanhaka team held a favored Hempstead team to a 7-7 tie. The Indians gave the Tigers their second tie of the season and dimmed our hopes for the South Shore playoffs.

OCTOBER 28—Hempstead, after suffering from two straight ties, beat an always tough Chaminade team, 13-7, with the Tiger team for the first time showing real speed and ability.

NOVEMBER 4—The Faymen played their game with Glen Cove, beating them, 21-0, with Doug Millete showing fine passing ability and Mike Carra developing into a great kicker.

NOVEMBER 11—The Tiger team, looking ahead to an undefeated season, met an underestimated Mineola eleven and narrowly escaped in the last quarter with a 19-12 score, still keeping Hempstead's record perfect, marred only by two ties.

NOVEMBER 18—On Hempstead's last scheduled game of the season, Hempstead trounced Westbury, 40-2, with the whole second team seeing action and also giving Hempstead a berth in the South Shore playoffs.

PLAYOFFS—Hempstead and Lawrence, the two top teams, battled each other on a cold Thanksgiving morning with Hempstead taking the South Shore playoff by beating the Branchers, 13-7. Led by co-captains Millete and Carra, who turned in a fine offensive and defensive game, the Tigers marched on to victory.

The Faymen finished the '44 season with a fine record to keep Hempstead's name high in the field of sports.

Champs Of Nassau On The Diamond

FOR the past two seasons the Hempstead Tigers have had identical won and lost records on the baseball diamond. However, this coincidence is to no one's disappointment. The Tigers have had the excellent record of 16 games won and 3 lost in the years 1943 and 1944. The 1944 baseball season was entirely successful for the hard-hitting clan of Joe Fay. The Tigers were rated the top team in the county, as well as the SSAL champs.

The Faymen opened their 19 game schedule by giving Baldwin "Hail Columbia" to the happy tune of 11-2. Victories over Freeport, 8-1, and Mephram, 3-2, followed.

Then, as all good teams do once in a while, the Tigers dropped a close one to Lawrence, 4-3. Hempstead then found smooth sailing as they ripped Garden City, 14-5, and then scalped the Sewanhaka Indians, 4-1. The Hempstead boys closed this three-game winning streak by whipping Chaminade, 15-3. Baldwin hit hard; a few outfield errors did us no good, and we dropped one to the Craigmen, 6-4.

The Tigers bounced back and licked Freeport, 4-0, and then whitewashed the Mephram Pirates, as "Rollie" Jacobs and Bill Terjesen pitched successive shutouts. Cliff Baker hit for the circuit against Lawrence as the Tigers won, 6-2. Following were victories over the North Shore champs, Mineola, 2-1, and then an untimely loss to Valley Stream, 5-2. The Tigers won from there on in.

Hempstead swept by Sewanhaka, 4-3, and then dusted off Garden City, 10-4. Mike Tabinski pitched the team to a win over Mineola, 2-1, and the Hub nine finished the regular season by drubbing Chaminade, 13-1.

In the South Shore play-off game we soundly trounced South Side, 7-1, behind the brilliant pitching of Bill Seaman, and the timely hitting of "Mike" Tabinski. Seaman held the opposition to two scattered hits, while Tabinski stepped up in the fourth inning with the sacks loaded, and blasted out a home run. This gave the Tigers a total of seven runs which was more than enough to win.

So ended another successful year for Joe Fay, and more honors for Hempstead High.

Speed, Agility, Form

LAST year's track team was composed of many inexperienced boys and few veterans, but developed into a smoothly-run team when the season officially opened. The records show we lost only once to Sewanhaka and twice to Chaminade, and beat Garden City, Freeport, Central, Lawrence, and Westbury. At the end of the season we won the South Shore Championship and placed second in the Long Island Sectional.

Off The Backboard

THE Bennermen, due to inexperience and a lack of veterans, got off to a bad start by losing to Sewanhaka and Freeport before being able to beat Mephram. Then a tough Lawrence team turned back the Tiger "5." But the Tiger quintet, still fighting, came back to beat Baldwin and Central. Ostrosky and Baker shared the captaincy, but each played only part of the season.

Ready! Aim! Fire;

THE Hempstead Tiger rifle team, under the expert supervision of Al Voorhies, has started out the 1944-45 season in a stupendous fashion. Among others, the Tiger nimrods have matched barrels with Oceanside, Garden City, and Chaminate, and our sharpshooters have thoroughly outscored all three competitors.

Al Voorhies and his teams have set some fine records in their competition, and we are sure they will retain their high standard this year.

Good shooting to our nimrods of H.H.S.

Golf And Tennis

AS we go to press, the Tiger golfers have yet to enter their first match. They will soon tee off under the guidance of Mr. Faust.

After a year of rest the Hempstead High tennis players will again have a chance to sport their stuff this spring. These boys will soon be sharpening their slices and perfecting their serves under the direction of Mr. Misner.

We're sure both of these teams will encounter the usual Hempstead success.

THROUGH the years the gym aide association has proved itself a great help to the girl's gym teachers, Miss McCallum and Mrs. Reicher. Lorraine Rockett, an all around athletic girl, is the leader of the gym aide association. She has proved herself, in the eyes of all her fellow classmates, that she is a capable, willing leader.

Hempstead High girls have proved that they really enjoy sports, which is shown in the enormous number of girls who are gym aides. These girls, not only in school but in outside activities, give much of their time. If a referee is needed or in some way the teachers need help, one or more gym aides can always be obtained. The girls are always on their toes and ready for instant action. Most of them are leaders in athletics in their own gym classes.

This association is made up of junior and senior girls who usually give from two to five free periods a week. For being a gym aide points are earned toward the highly prized "H." The number of points vary according to the amount of time given.

In the gym classes each girl has a squad for which she takes full responsibility. Here she aids in all the activities of the gym. One of the many festivities in which the girls assist is the Greek games. Through their own experience they help teach the freshman and sophomore girls the arts needed for these games. Baseball, hockey, and basketball are a few of the other sports in which they aid and participate.

At the end of the year a spread is given at which the captain is chosen for the next year and numerals and monograms are presented to those earning them.

Flying Pucks And Bruised Shins

FLYING pucks and sore shins were both definite signs that once again it was time for the hockey season.

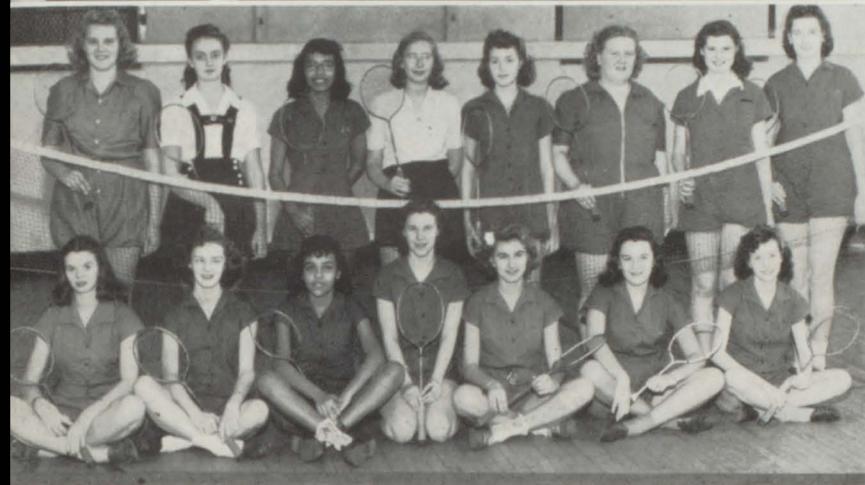

The series proved to be a very close contest. The sophomore and junior girls this year were really out to win, but in spite of their efforts, the seniors, under the capable leadership of Lorraine Rockett, were the champs again. Dot Kelski headed the juniors while Edna Wolf kept the sophomore morale high. The season closed with a successful hockey spread at which Dot Kelski was chosen captain for next year.

Girls' Basketball

BASKETBALL seems to be a popular sport this year among Hempstead High girls. This is shown in the large number of basketball enthusiasts. Anyone looking in on the girls' gym would find it humming with activity under the capable leadership of Joyce Hagemeyer. Here plenty of practice is afforded before the interclass tournaments take place. These tournaments are exciting events, as we can deduce from the shouts heard from the direction of the gym. After everything is over a spread is held to glorify the basketball season.

Girls Prove Alleys Not For Men Only

THIS year, as every year, a large group of bowling enthusiasts of the weaker sex are seen every Monday afternoon "sweating it out" at the Hempstead Rec. The capable and enthusiastic captain of the bowling team is Millie Mirkovitch. Millie, who was also on last year's team, has climbed one step higher in gaining the title of captain. It is certain that the girls will all be experts when the school year finishes, due to the helpful assistance and direction of Miss Rowles and Miss Silver. But experts or not, all will have had a grand time improving their own scores.

"Faster Than The Eye"

OVER the net flies the badminton bird faster than the eye can follow. Then, with a whirl and a ping it is back across the net again. On the court the energetic girls play strenuously in order to gain the title of victor. This is not so easy to accomplish, because the players have to be skillful and alert. This year badminton is ably captained by Sonia Lind.

The girls meet every spring and fall on Tuesdays and Thursdays. The showing is good and the improvements are many under the skillful management of Miss Zarembo.

THIS year, as every year, out of a large group of girls the most skillful individual in each activity is presented with the title Sport Leader. These outstanding girls gain this honor mainly because they possess "sport spirit." Sportsmanship, leadership, skill, and zeal are the important components of "sport spirit." We all respect the girl who has it.

The first on our list of sport leaders is Lorraine Rockett, who is the capable captain of hockey. Lorraine, because of her efficiency, is also the leader of one of the most important activities for girls, the Gym Aides. Next is Millicent Mirkovich who, because of her splendid ability on last year's bowling team, is now captain of that some sport. Our representative of horse-back riding is Muriel Borman, who is quite a sensation upon a horse. Sonia Lind is an ideal leader for the exacting game of badminton.

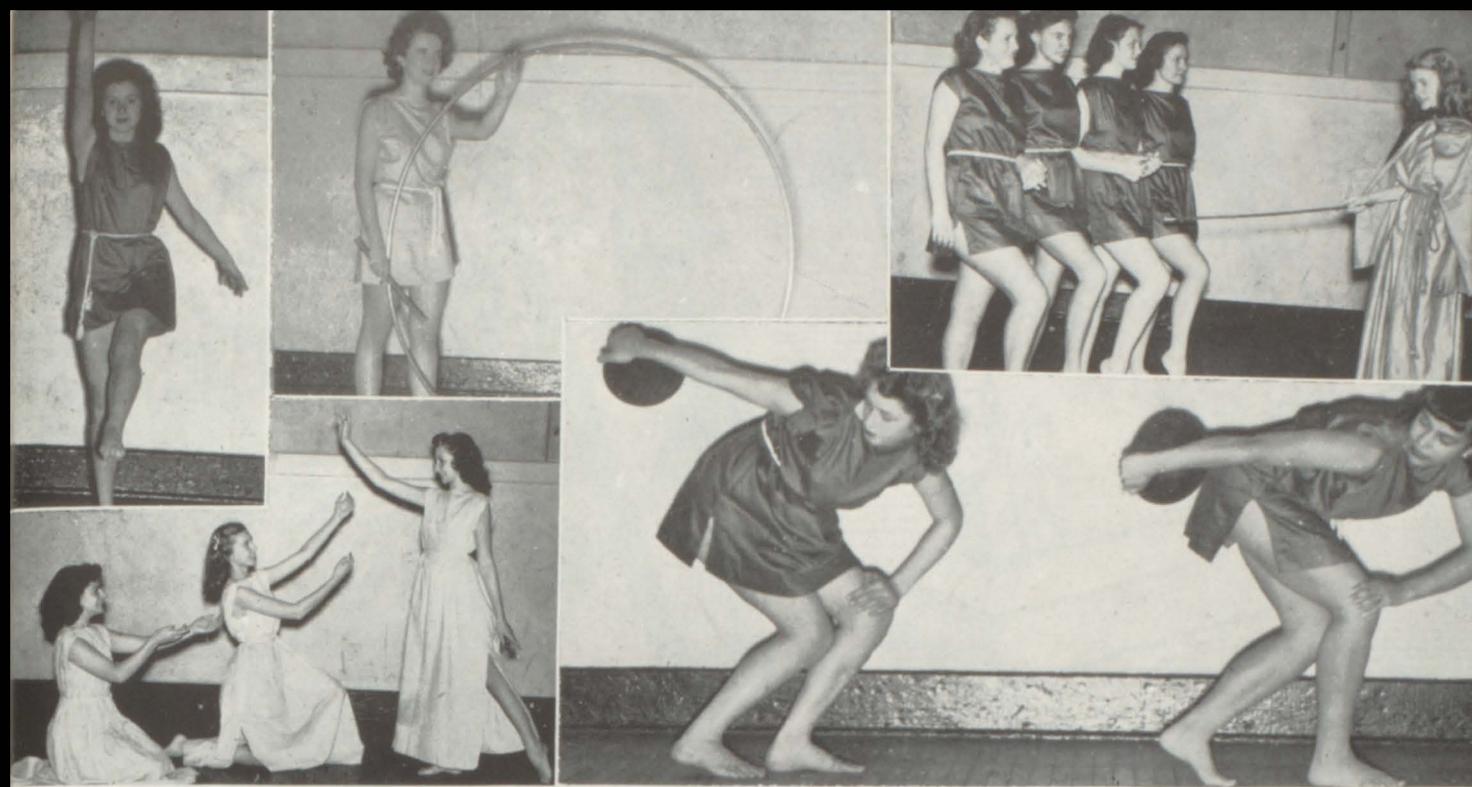

The head of baseball, one of the most popular sports among the girls of Hempstead High, is Eileen Mollineaux. Basketball, which requires practice and quick thinking, is captained by Joyce Hagemeyer. The director of the Greek Games, a yearly tournament which decides whether the freshmen or the sophomores are more talented, is Ida Pappas.

As leaders of the various feminine sports of Hempstead High School, these girls are a splendid example of athletic prowess and school spirit. Keep up the good work, girls! We'll back you up.

Greek Games

THE ninth annual Greek Games Festival found the freshman and sophomore classes once again struggling for honors in the Olympic events. The games, dedicated to Apollo, the god of the sun, were headed by Chairman Virginia Crowley.

Gala entrances were made by both classes in the boys' gym, artistically decorated to fit the Grecian performance. The ode was read, giving great praise to Apollo, and then the Greek National Anthem was sung by all. In colorful costumes and with great grace and beauty, the creative dancers performed as usual.

The challenges started the games off with a fighting spirit. The first event, hurdling for form, was tied by sophomore Margaret Fohring and freshman Carol Kranz. The next event, discus for form, was also tied by sophomore Vivian Jarvis and freshman Nadizka Zawojski. June Jeffers brought the hoop rollers to victory for the sophomores, while Kate Council, sophomore, led the torch bearers to another triumph. The charioteers then demonstrated the ability of their charges, and Eileen Duffy, sophomore, came out on top. The freshman, under the capable leadership of Naomi Titus, then came back to win the chariot race. Wreaths were presented to the winners by the two priestesses.

The sophomores, proving themselves the better team, with great clamor led the procession out of the gym, and another successful year of Greek Games came to a close.

REFLECTIONS

- of you and your classmates upon your school life achieve immortality in a carefully planned and executed yearbook.

- From the arid desert of Arizona, and the sultry green island of Puerto Rico, to the snow-blanketed slopes of Northern New England, we have traveled, happy and proud to have been an instrument in the translating into print, the humor pathos, excitement, and sentiment found in the campus life of over seventy-five colleges and preparatory schools.

- As former members of yearbook staffs in our school days, we bring into our professional duties a real understanding of the many problems confronting each yearbook editor.

School Custodians

EACH fall when we return to school we are greeted by waxed floors, polished desks, and clean blackboards. We would expect to see these soiled in a few days, but due to the constant care of our janitors, all these things remain clean. Each day, when we enter school, the halls and classrooms are clean and fresh again, no matter how dirty they might have been left the day before.

Almost anytime of the day there are one or two janitors sweeping the halls. Another important duty of the janitors is to break locks on the lockers of students who have lost their keys. They also keep the temperature in all the classrooms very comfortable.

Yes, our faithful and friendly custodians deserve our cooperation and appreciation. A large and crowded building like ours requires constant care to keep clean.

Service And Protection

The police department is an organization provided by the village for the protection and welfare of the community. The police should be appreciated and respected by all the students. The Hempstead Police Department does much for the benefit of our school. They patrol football and baseball games to keep order and to protect school property. All policemen are equipped with an extensive knowledge of first aid. If at any time someone is hurt, the police may administer first aid before the arrival of the doctor.

The police are kind and thoughtful and let us have our fun as long as it is within reason. After a victorious football game, they seldom break up our snake dances through the streets unless things get out of hand. We should all try to cooperate with the police department to make their job more pleasant.

House To House Bond Drive

COME rain, wind, sleet or snow, if it is during a War Bond Drive, our conscientious house-to-house canvassers are out working their hardest and doing a grand job. These patriotic students are organized under the leadership of Mr. Davidson. The students, who are about one hundred twenty strong, are divided into teams. Each team is given a map of the separate district which it is to cover.

During the Fifth War Loan Drive these house-to-house canvassers netted about $30,000. For this zealous work Arnold Constable awarded them a plaque bearing the names of Mary Louise Belfi, Representative; Lucille Vanden Brande, Robert Osborne, Edna Wolf, Francis Rockett, and Doris Ziegenbein. During the Sixth War Loan Drive, in only one day, twelve H.H.S. students sold about $7,000 worth of bonds. Lucille Vanden Brande sold the greatest number of bonds and Edna Wolf had the highest gross sales.

These same diligent workers acted as messengers for the National War Fund Office. At this time 5,000 mimeographed letters were sent out on the same house-to-house basis by this worthwhile organization.

The Blue and White Corner

No doubt every student of Hempstead High School has visited the well known Blue and White Corner, which is under the supervision of Mr. Beale. This department, cooperating with the G. O., has done outstanding work in handling Red Cross drives, the Hero's Phone Fund, and other patriotic projects. It also provides valuable experience for students in selling and in handling money and keeping records.

Corinne Kozlowski, Anna Fraccalvieri, Frances Pakula, Yvette Lemesnager, Emily Schuppel and Betty Mae Zix give a period a day throughout the year to take charge of the corner.

We are most familiar with the Blue and White Corner as a place where we can purchase school supplies which cannot be obtained elsewhere.

Patriots For Our Boys

Something for Hempstead High to be really proud of is the fact that it produces a school paper that now has world fame. The boys and girls of the Patriot Staff have done a splendid job in producing a paper which has brought so much pleasure to boys on ships, in the Pacific, or maybe in some fox-hole in Germany. This idea of sending Patriots to boys in the service first started with a list of about twenty-five boys. It has now increased to approximately two hundred. The paper is passed on by the boys who receive it, and other boys are constantly sending their names and addresses to the school, where they are kept on file. The boys who are lucky enough to secure a paper and thus keep up with the affairs of their former comrades owe this welcome service to Miss Nell Foster and the girls who cooperate with her in keeping the lists up to date and mailing out the papers.

Machine Operation Class

The machine operation class, under the direction of Mr. E. C. Moore, was introduced about four or five years ago for a double purpose. The first was to perform a necessary service to the school; the second was to provide a useful and interesting subject offering school credit. There is a class beginning twice annually, one in September and the other in January. This assures that there will always be a group of boys who have completed their training and will be able to assist the new group which has just started.

The machine operations class gives its members vital training which includes how to operate motion picture projectors, film projectors, recorders, sound systems, and tri-purpose projectors.

The boys from the machine operation class are also very helpful to the community, for this group is often called upon to assist with film projectors, sound systems, and other types of machinery for many local organizations.

In Appreciation

The Colonial Staff of 1945 has dedicated this page to one of the finest faculty members that Hempstead High School has ever had, Miss Gladys E. Underwood. The present staff is deeply appreciative of her competent and kindly guidance during the first semester of this school year. As Colonial adviser for two and a half years, Miss Underwood had been very well liked by everyone. Under her capable direction the Colonials of 1943 and 1944 won first and second places, respectively, in an annual yearbook contest sponsored by the Columbia Scholastic Press Association.

Miss Underwood came to Hempstead High School in 1936, and although generally known as a Latin teacher, she has taught algebra and English. Besides teaching, she has been assistant adviser of the Junior Class, adviser of Greek Games, grade adviser, a member of the Assembly Committee, and organizer and director of the Riding Club for five years.

Miss Underwood was married to Mr. Rafael G. de Olivia on February 22, 1945, and is no longer a member of the faculty. The entire Colonial Staff and all her many friends in Hempstead High School wish her the best of happiness in the years to come.

Placement Bureau

THE students of Hempstead High School, under the direction of Mr. Loeb and Miss Dickson, are offered the opportunity of guidance in finding their first jobs by means of the Placement Bureau. Students who are not contemplating a college education and are uncertain about their future plans, are advised to fill out a printed form stating the kind of work desired and personal information usually requested by an employer. After students have filled out employment blanks, they are interviewed by Mr. Loeb, who recommends them for suitable positions. The graduates are placed in city as well as local jobs. Although students may have already been placed in their jobs, they are not forgotten. A few months after having been situated in positions, they receive a phone call from the director, who inquires whether or not they are satisfied with their work.

Students are aided in finding part time as well as full time jobs. For the 1943-44 year alone, about two hundred ninety high school graduates were placed in full time jobs and about four hundred eighty students placed in part time jobs. Hundreds of students in future years will also benefit from the Placement and Adjustment Bureau.

ONE of the most useful and most needed organizations of our school is the Junior Red Cross. This organization, under the direction of Miss Davis, meets every Wednesday afternoon. At these meetings the girls have produced utility bags for service men, and Christmas stockings and slippers for men in hospitals. Ten Christmas boxes were filled for children of war-torn countries. Soft toys are now being made for these children. The art and home economics departments, the typing classes, the clubs, and workers of office No. 2 have made bedside bags, jackets, and slippers for the army hospitals, Christmas carol booklets, holiday menu covers, tree ornaments, and instruction charts for Red Cross classes. Twenty-eight educational boxes for children overseas were filled.

During the Junior Red Cross membership drive in November an interesting assembly program was given featuring a talk by a Red Cross overseas worker. Two hundred and forty-nine dollars were collected. The Junior Red Cross also campaigned during the Red Cross War Fund drive in March.
