DEDICATION

TO the amiable and cheerful Miss Jennie Tripp, who is always ready to lend a helping hand to her students' problems, the staff of the 1953 Colonial proudly dedicates this yearbook.

Soft-spoken and pensive, she has grown wise with the years yet remains young in heart.

By these attributes she has, in her twenty-six years of service to Hempstead High, won many friends.

FOREWORD

THE gates of the past are tightly shut, those of the present are fast closing, but the shining portals of the mysterious future lie ahead, waiting only for the youth of today to fling them aside and unfold that which is to come. Forgetting the gloom of the past and the uncertainty of the present, we look eagerly ahead to our yet unfulfilled hopes and desires.

In a few short years, some of our number may stand among the leaders of our great country. Others will perform the tasks of ordinary citizens, each in his own way, a vital and working part of our American democracy.

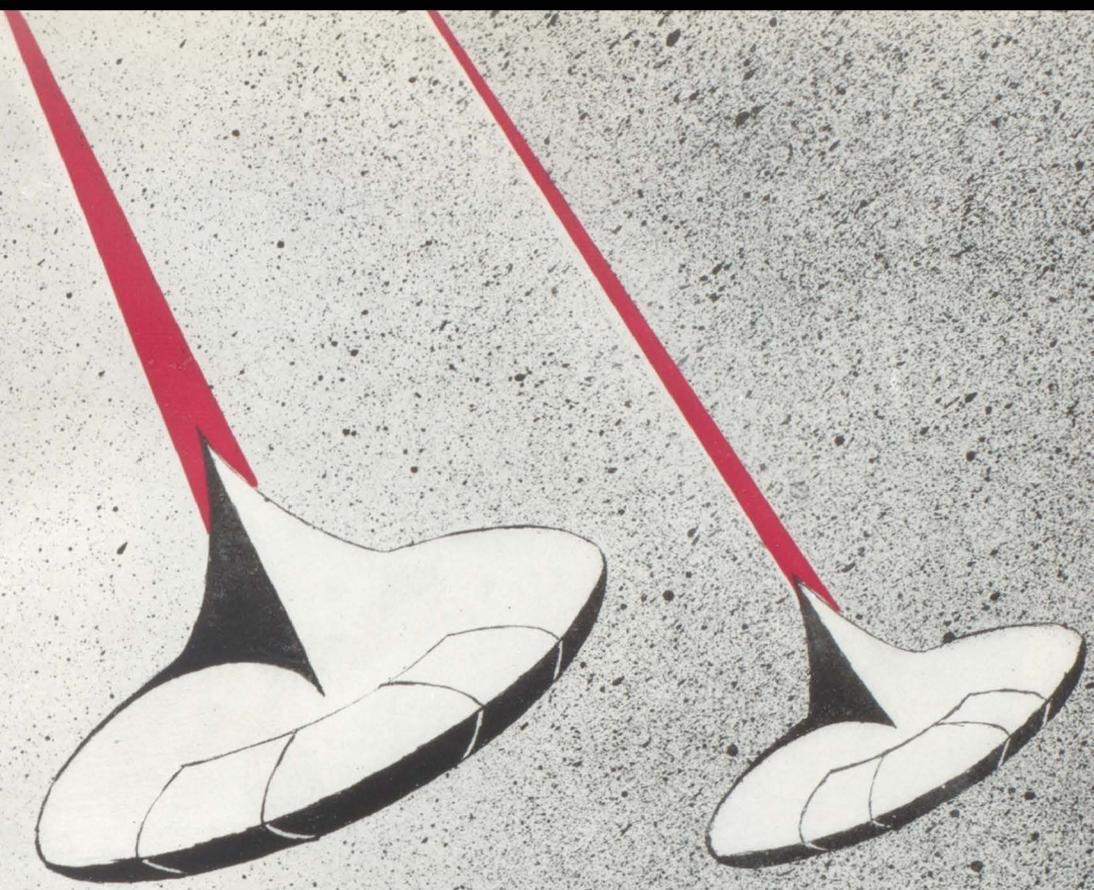

In our yearbook for 1953, we have attempted to express our strivings for new creations, the wonder and awe of a different era, and the hope for an even richer way of life. We have tried in this our 1953 Colonial to reflect the past and speculate on the future.

BOARD OF EDUCATION

ON the third Thursday of each month and whenever a problem arises which requires immediate attention, our Board of Education is hard at work in the Superintendent's office now located in the newest addition to the school. There, after much discussion and debate, the Board arrives at decisions which it believes will prove to be the best for all concerned. Each year it is entrusted with hundreds of thousands of dollars to be used for the upkeep of the schools or for the construction of new extensions and buildings. Another important duty of the Board is to decide policies under which all the schools within the limit of the town shall be run.

There are five members of the board, one being elected each year for a term of five years. Their positions are entrusted to them by the tax payers of the Village of Hempstead.

Many times a member of the Board is re-elected because the voters in the township realize what an outstanding job he is doing.

The people of Hempstead have much faith and justly so, in the final governing power of our school system, the Board of Education.

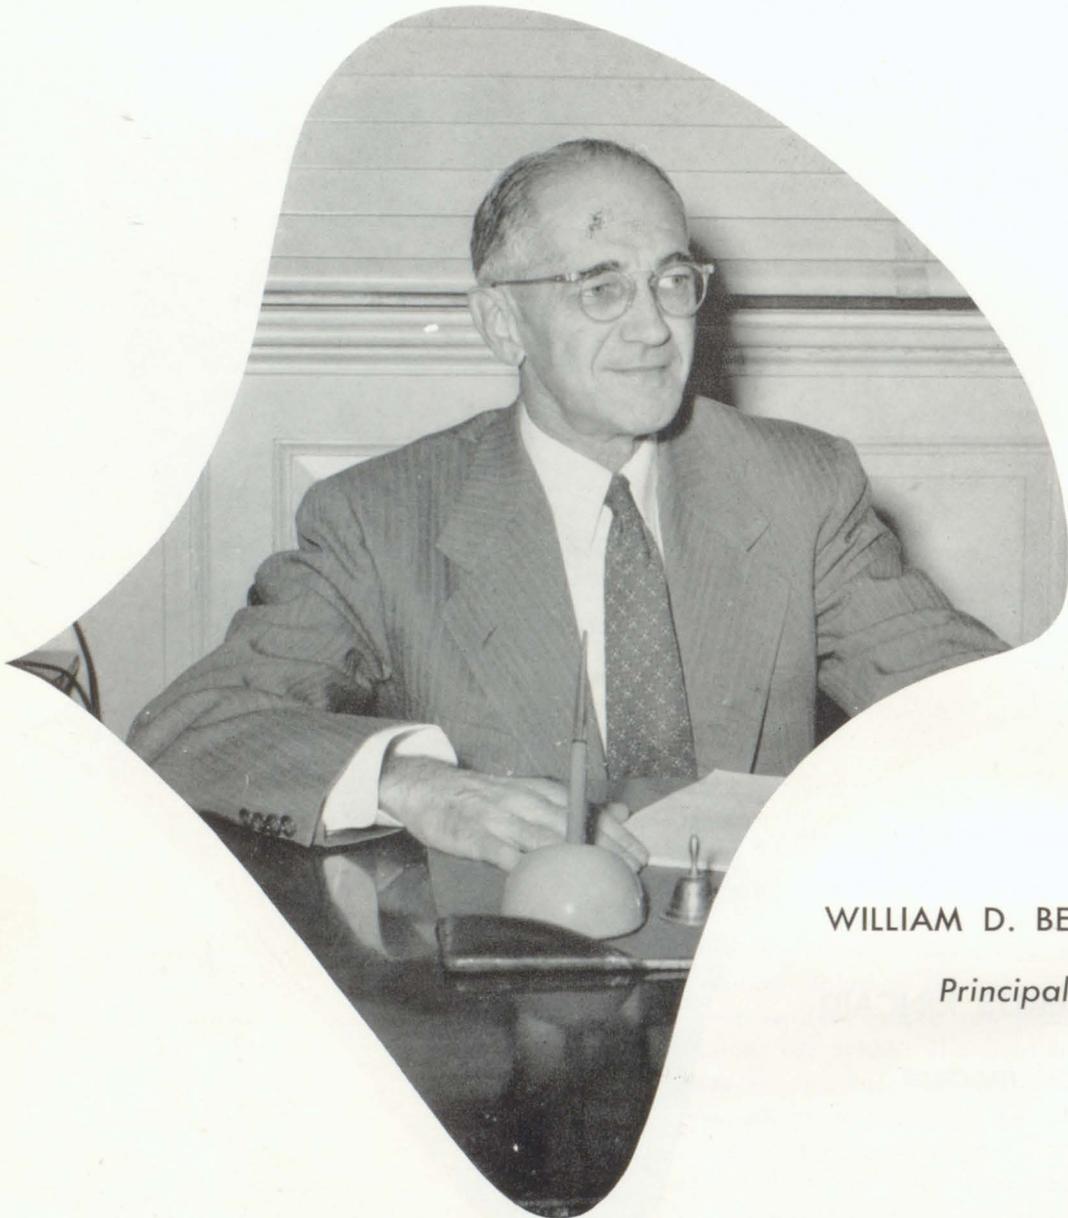

DR. W. AMOS KINCAID

Superintendent

A NATIVE Ohioan, Dr. Kincaid became Superintendent of Schools in 1947. Since that time, he has advocated numerous improvements for the schools in this district.

Dr. Kincaid has many responsibilities. They include: selecting personnel, planning and supervising in-service training, and preparing the district budget. He also plans for the future growth and development of the schools.

Dr. Kincaid attended school and college in Ohio, but he earned his Masters and Doctor of Education degrees at Columbia University in New York. At the present time he is President of the Nassau County Schoolmen's Association and of the Metropolitan School Study Council. He is a member of the Hempstead Rotary Club. Hobbies are also of great interest to him. Badminton and fishing are his favorites. He also likes music, golf, and a good game of bridge. The Dr.'s ambition is to be able to pass through the halls of Hempstead High during period changes without thinking of the corner of 42nd St. and Broadway!

WILLIAM D. BEDDOW

Principal

COMMENCEMENT this year will bring to a close Mr. Beddow's second year as principal of Hempstead High School. Although being principal of a school as large as ours is no easy job, Mr. Beddow finds sufficient time to be a member of the Masons, Kiwanis, Alpha Tau Omega international fraternity, American Association of School Administrators and other professional associations.

Raised on Long Island, Mr. Beddow claims the University of Madrid and Muhlenberg University as his alma mater.

At the present time, he is seriously concerned with the problem of improving schedules once the registration decreases. He is looking forward to longer class periods, supervised study facilities, and the elimination of over-crowded study halls.

Although he has numerous responsibilities, Mr. Beddow finds recreation in bowling and badminton during the winter months, and in the warmer weather he may be found with a fishing pole anywhere where there are water and fish.

ALFRED P. WINDT

Assistant to the Principal

SOME of the most important duties in the supervision of Hempstead High School are carried out by Mr. Windt, our assistant to the principal. Mr. Windt presides over the work of the office two staff, regulates the attendance and discipline of the student body, and supervises the students' extra-curricular activities.

A native of Rochester, he attended Cornell University and then went on to obtain his Master's Degree from Columbia. In 1939, Mr. Windt came to Hempstead High School where for many years he proved his skill in teaching mathematics. Formerly he was the faculty advisor of the Pre-Engineering Club. A Yankee fan, his interests also include sports such as bowling, biking, and music.

Among Mr. Windt's accomplishments is his co-authorship of the textbook, "Everyday Algebra."

Mr. Windt has carried out his new duties with an understanding of the many problems involved in the management of our high school.

ADMINISTRATIVE ASSISTANTS

Anne MacDougall

TWO functions of the administration of our school are of primary importance to every student entering the portals of Hempstead High. They are guidance and curriculum planning.

Each student is offered assistance in many ways. He is advised in his schedule planning by a well-trained and experienced counselor. He is counseled in problems, both educational and personal. His way of living is influenced by his associations in the varied group activities, referred to as co-curricular.

All of these, and many more, are made possible by the harmonious working of our two departments mentioned above. Each year the curricula for the various educational programs of our school must be considered and revised to meet the needs of the incoming classes. New subjects must be added and others must be revised or dropped.

One such addition this year was the course "Occupational Information" offered to upper-classmen who are genuinely interested in the various aspects of certain occupations. This greatly enriched the offerings to those students who have not selected a definite occupational goal by their junior year.

In addition to these services, the administrators keep the entire system working with utmost efficiency. This can be evidenced by the various efficient offices throughout our plant.

OFFICE SECRETARIES

THE secretaries do many jobs each day connected with the running of Hempstead High. Besides making appointments and giving out information, the office secretaries perform such duties as answering telephone calls, typing notices and letters, adjusting schedules, and filing. They are also in charge of keeping many kinds of records.

Assisting our principal, Mr. Beddow, in Office One are Miss Rich and Mrs. Pashely. Miss Duryea and Miss Kubick, secretaries to Mrs. Hueston, can be found in Office One A. Mr. Windt's assistant in Office Two is Miss Ward, while Mrs. Gerhardt, Miss MacDougall's secretary, is located in Office Four. Mr. Pill's secretaries in Office Five are Miss Ronnerman and Miss Merrick.

ART AND

OUR school offers great opportunities to students who are interested in art. There are many courses specializing in different phases of art. The teachers give individual instruction and some outside help for the more advanced students. Mr. Chambers is shown in this picture instructing one of the many art classes.

Our school library is well equipped with books on art to supplement the work of the classroom. Many students consult these books for research projects and reference.

MUSIC AND

AFTER classes have ended and the halls are unusually quiet, if one approaches the bandbox, he will most likely catch strains of the orchestra, choir, or band. Our music department has the distinction of being known as one of the best in the country.

Hempstead High is fortunate to have such an accomplished dramatics department. Public Speaking classes and Dramatic societies contribute in developing the individual's poise. Many excellent plays have been given and have supplied an evening's entertainment for the enthusiastic theatre goer.

LANGUAGES

THE many courses open to a college-preparatory student include varied offerings of Hempstead High's well-developed language department. Latin, French, Spanish, and German are offered to the student who may take a maximum of four or a minimum of two years of his chosen linguistic course. In addition to reading and speaking, the student studies the culture, history, and geography of the country whose tongue he is studying.

Many of these students will some day find unexpected use for these languages.

PICTURED here is Mr. Keenan's intermediate algebra class involved in the intricacies of parabolas, hyperbolas, and logarithms.

In our atomic age, the need for a full education in mathematics is well satisfied at Hempstead High School. Its expert faculty encourages mathematical aspirants and instructs them in the various phases of mathematics.

This year the Tupiar Club boasted the greatest membership since its beginning. Under Mr. Robert Hayes' supervision, this club brings to light many interesting advances made in the science of mathematics.

MANY of our students are interested in business careers. Our Commercial Department offers a variety of courses, such as shorthand, business law, typing, and secretarial practice to help them realize their ambitions. As a result of the retailing program, many students are able to gain the necessary experience for sales positions after graduation.

Our Commercial Department is to be commended for the excellent job it does in preparing our students for positions in the business world.

ENGLISH

THE picture (on the left) shows Mr. Baker returning themes to his Senior English class to look over and correct. Many times such papers as these are shown to the class by means of a projector and screen. Thus the student can gain a general idea of the common errors of composition and how to correct such mistakes.

Another help to good composition work is a class known as Creative Writing. This class is open to those seniors who show a great deal of interest and ability in the field of writing.

SCIENCE

SCIENCE is truly the subject of our day and age. America's future lies in medicine, physics, and bacteriology. Scientific activities have been broadened to include not only classroom participation, but also extra-curricular interests in the form of science clubs. These clubs bring to light interesting scientific facts not usually taught in classrooms.

Here is Mr. Benner's biology class absorbed in the study of amoebas and paramecia. The fine instruction on the part of our science department has encouraged our students to continue their work on higher levels.

PICTURED here is Mr. Fish who is conducting one of his Citizenship Education classes. Today, Citizenship Education is one of the most interesting and important subjects in the school curriculum because it enables the student to understand the reasons for many of the events that are taking place in the world today. These courses deal with ancient history, medieval history, and with current history as well.

Classes are informally conducted and frequently students participate in panel discussions which are stimulating and informative.

CITIZENSHIP EDUCATION

HEALTH AND PHYSICAL FITNESS

OUR school has a well-equipped medical office and efficient aids to care for the students. Mrs. Marsden is shown in the picture administering aid to Jocelyn Ricks. The health office is open to students at all times to care for their needs. This office is indeed a necessary and useful part of our school.

The gym department adds a great deal both during school time and in extra-curricular activities. There are interesting sports throughout the year for both boys and girls.

NURSING, teaching, and dietetics are some of the professions which are open to girls who take courses in Home-making. Some girls prefer to take a general homemaking course, others concentrate on sewing, while a third group learns about the preparation and serving of meals.

Many of the boys who are taking Industrial Arts plan to have their life's work related to this field of study. Metals, leathers, plastics, and woods are some of the materials used by the students.

CLASS OFFICERS

SENIOR CLASS

OUR teachers, subjects, messy lockers, and poor marks may be forgotten, but we shall never forget the Seniors of 1953.

Entering as a group of meek Freshmen, these frightened youngsters searched up and down the crowded corridors for their rooms. Soon, as they became acquainted with the new school, they entered into the school life and joined outside activities.

The following year, many became leaders in their various fields. The boys became known as football stars, and the girls won recognition through their musical and artistic talents. Some become homeroom reps and gained much poise and responsibility.

Next came their opportunities as Juniors to be known as upperclassmen. The Juniors studied hard during this year and began to do serious thinking about their futures. However, the activities were not forgotten, and this year the Juniors boasted many varsity men.

At last came their one—their only—Senior year at Hempstead High. During this glorious year they added much to the school by being on service squads, heading clubs, and being stars in sports.

The four students elected as class officers, namely, Robert Wishart, president; Carlotta Paetow, vice-president; Ingrid Mollersten, secretary; and Charles Dreitlein, treasurer, have shown amazing ability as leaders and guides of their classmates with the help of the Senior Class advisors, Mr. Lints and Miss Rhodes.

As president of the Senior Class, popular Bob Wishart also accepted the responsibility of heading the Senior Executive Council. Bob was a member of the Tupiar Club, and participated in various sports. Participation in varsity basketball and track took up most of his time.

Vivacious and charming Carlotta Paetow displayed wonderful ability in serving her classmates as the vice-president of the Senior Class and the Senior Executive Council as well. Carlotta served as one of Hempstead's famed drummajorettes for two years. Aside from being an active member of the choir, Carlotta was also the vice-president of the Pen and Ink Club.

Blond and attractive Ingrid Mollersten was elected Secretary of the Senior Class, and therefore filled the position as Secretary of the Senior Executive Council. Holding the coveted position as concert master for the past three years, Ingrid played the violin exceptionally well. Her other music talents fitted her for the choir. Ingrid was also in the Color Guard of the band show. She served as a member of the Counselor's Service Squad and was the co-manager of the circulation staff of the Patriot.

Athletic-minded Buddy Dreitlein was elected treasurer of the Senior Class and also of the Senior Executive Council. It was his job to see that a dollar dues was collected from each Senior. Buddy made the headlines this year as one of the captains of the football team. He was also a star in basketball and other athletics.

Besides the class officers, many other seniors distinguished themselves in their various fields. Hempstead's music department boasted many future musicians. Phil Efthimion was known for his mastery of the clarinet, Helen and Joan Turner, cello and trombone players, were other talented musicians. Leigh Burns became known for his mastery of the trumpet; Ronald Traxler for the tympani, and Lily Wade for her beautiful voice.

Denise Dussol and Bruce Corrie stood out in the field of dramatics. Gary Dorns was a great athlete. Carole Bates became known for her marvelous work done on the Patriot. Brigette Glembotzky displayed great art abilities. Other seniors, too numerous to mention, were leaders who accomplished much for the school.

Through the combined efforts of the seniors and the faculty, the miraculous Senior Ball was held at the peak of the year.

For a get-acquainted day with the Freshmen, the annual Senior-Frosh Party was held this year on Halloween. The Freshmen girls, with their brightly colored bonnets and bibs, and the Senior girls, all dressed up with dolls tucked under their arms, made the school roll in laughter and fun for the whole day.

Another gala event of the year was "Old Clothes Day," when the Seniors came dressed as anything from hoboes to their impression of teachers. The day following this, "Dress Up Day," a group of sophisticated looking Seniors appeared in their best garb, and looked quite a bit different from the day before.

In the future the Seniors of 1953 will face problems in a world of both defeat and victory. We are very proud that thirty-five Seniors are headed for the teaching field. Perhaps their faces might be recognized again in Hempstead—this time as teachers—not pupils. Also, over twenty girls of the Senior Class will share the great responsibility of the nursing field. Our Seniors have applications in over one hundred different institutions of higher learning. We sincerely hope that they will be accepted in the college of their choice. Other Seniors will be secretaries, shopworkers, and sales personnel. Nevertheless, none will ever forget the four glorious years which they spent at Hempstead High. The new and old traditions which they have left behind will never be forgotten.

BALLROOM figures whirled upon the walls. Pumpkins and wands decorated the tables, while colored lights played tricks on clouds of balloons. Out of a book stepped Cinderella's ballroom, and into the land of make-believe came the seniors and their dates.

The Cinderella Ball was the theme for this year's Senior Ball. Our hats are off to Lorraine Gomillion, Carolyn Tedesco and their hard working helpers, for the wonderful job they did on carrying out this theme. The committees were: Table Decorations, Eleanor Hoegl; Entrance, Dale Molter; Wall Decorations, Janet Martz; Refreshments, Shirley Zylan; and Entertainment, Frank Gagliano.

The music of John De Jesu's band added the final touch to the marvelous fairyland. Mr. Lints, Miss Rhodes, Mrs. Foster, Mr. and Mrs. Schuessler, and Mr. and Mrs. Keenan chaperoned the glittering affair.

Soon everyone was caught up in the fantastic charm of the evening, when a Prince Charming and Cinderella were chosen. The lucky couple were Don Frizze and Benita Consenz.

All too soon the never-to-be-forgotten evening was over. Tired, but happy Cinderellas and their Princes left carrying wands, balloons, and memories with them.

SENIOR EXECUTIVE COUNCIL

"WHERE will we hold the graduation exercises this year?" "What class colors should we choose?" "What can we use as a motto?" These questions as well as many others confront the Senior Executive Council.

This council is composed of one student representing each senior Social Studies Class. When a pupil in the class hits upon an idea or a solution to a problem that he believes concerns the welfare of the entire senior class, he may bring it to the attention of the executive council by means of his representative. The council meets any time in room 79 whenever such a situation arises.

This year nominations for class colors, flower, and motto were taken. The nominations were then brought to the Social Studies classes where a vote was taken. The results of this election showed that the white orchid was to be the class flower, "To be, rather than to seem," as the motto, and powder blue and silver were selected as the class of '53's colors. Another important decision reached by the Senior Executive Council was the selection of the scene of the graduation exercises. It was decided that this year's group of seniors would follow the pattern set by last year's senior class and hold the graduation exercises in the spacious Calderone Theatre. Other important decisions the council must decide on include the dates on which such occasions as "Old Clothes Day" and "Senior-Frosh Day" occur.

The members of Senior Executive Council, being representatives of the class, must collect the dues which are used for the rental of caps and gowns as well as the gift to the school.

The officers of the Senior Executive Council are automatically the same as those chosen to represent the senior class. Therefore it is Robert Wishart who presides over the meetings, and in the event of his absence the vice-president Carlotta Paetow takes over. Ingrid Mollersten is in charge of the minutes and Charles Dreitline is entrusted with the treasurer's position.

JUNIOR CLASS

THREE years have now gone by since the class of '54 first entered Hempstead High. In these three years they have proven themselves a capable, responsible group and many of the individuals from this class have made numerous contributions to the school. They have indeed proven their capabilities of leadership in this, the first year that they have been given the opportunity.

One of the first responsibilities given to the juniors on their return to school was the election of Junior Reps in the English III classes. After this task was completed, the collection of dues was next on the agenda. The money from each junior was deposited into the class treasury. This money was used for the class picture in the Colonial and for the annual affair, the Junior Prom. All students who have paid their dues receive a reduction on their prom tickets. After the collection of dues is over with, it is the task of the reps to nominate students for class officers. Frank Schenk was elected president. Besides being a hard-running halfback on the varsity football team and treasurer of the homeroom reps, he is also a track man. Frank doesn't quite know what he plans to study, but we are sure he will have a most successful future.

Assisting Frank in his presidential duties is Barbara Long. Barbara is a cheerleader, a junior secretary, and holds the office of vice-president of the homeroom reps. Bobbie, as her friends call her, hopes to attend Bucknell University to study nursing.

Class secretary Marilyn Frankel, a homeroom rep, was also seen wearing the Hempstead blue during the football season. Marilyn is not sure about her future plans after school, but we are confident that she will put to use her many talents.

Financial problems were left up to capable Joan Lynch. A junior secretary, Joan hopes to enter the buying field after finishing high school.

This year is climaxed with the Junior Prom, which is awaited with eager anticipation by most of the Juniors. This formal affair is always a great success, and a good time is enjoyed by all.

This year, as in the past, the Junior class was proud to have Miss Dorwin, Miss Abbott, Miss Taft, and Mr. Zara as their very capable class advisors. They have been friends as well as very able advisors to many of the students. Their friendly and useful advice has provided them with numerous opportunities which will advance them into the position of Seniors and help them to become leaders of their school.

Next year the class of 1954 will step into their new role of Seniors. As they stand on the threshold of taking over the leadership of their school we are confident that they will teach the underclassmen well and continue to live up to the excellent record which they have established.

AS sophomores, the class of '55 returned to school in the fall accompanied by none of the misgivings and confusion that they had experienced as freshmen. A bright and promising future seemed assured as they stood on the threshold of becoming full-fledged upperclassmen.

One of the first assignments awaiting them in their English classes was the business of electing representatives who in turn convened to nominate candidates for class officers. The entire class participated in the balloting which resulted in the election of a well-qualified foursome to preside over their class throughout the year.

As president, Joseph Petta represented his class on the student council and was given an opportunity to put to use his executive abilities which will stand him in good stead when he enters his father's business after graduation. Vice-president Alice Kay's work as secretary of the Future Teachers of America is a clear indication of her ambition to enter the teaching profession. Alice was seen in the sophomore class production of "Take Care of My Little Girl." Twirling for the Hempstead High School Band and caring for the funds of the F. T. A. were the chief interests of secretary, Dotty Van Ness, who like Alice is concentrating on a teaching career. Although this year's treasurer James McClymont was president of his freshman class, his plans for the future do not include politics as he has his eye on an engineering course at Princeton.

Following the election of officers came the class party which as usual, was held in the fall. Committees of class members formulated and carried out plans for an afternoon of dancing, entertainment and refreshment which was highlighted by the crowning of a king and queen, Richard Krim and Lynn King respectively.

Dramatic talent is prevalent among the current sophs as was evidenced by the Sophomore Dramatic Workshop presentation of "Take Care of My Little Girl." The entire class worked towards promoting the sale of tickets and were well rewarded when a full house pronounced the play a tremendous success.

One other accomplishment of the class that must not be overlooked is their completion of the project begun by the sophomore class of '51-'52 to supply each and every classroom in the school with our nation's flag. The money for these flags was obtained from the class dues.

All the activities mentioned so far are the result of the class working and planning as a team. However, there have been a few individuals whose personal achievements deserve a word or two in recognition. Among those are Olga Santos who copped first place honors in a Spanish Recital Contest that was held at Hofstra College. On the other hand, the Latin Department is justly proud of Betty Kerr, Dick Bannister and Eddie Pinkus, all sophomores who represented our school in the Baird Memorial Sightreading Contest. Going from the scholastic set to the sports department any sophomore will tell you of nine of his or her classmates who last fall saw action on the varsity football squad.

The sophomore class has as its advisors Mrs. Greenlund, Miss Ignelzi, Miss Tripp and Mr. Chase.

ONCE again a huge Freshman class, with faces expectant and minds eager was ushered into our halls of learning. Instead of being overwhelmed by our fast-moving school routines, the Freshmen gritted their teeth and smiled their way through all manner of difficulties. A group of wary realists, they were not duped by fanciful whisperings of elevators to the basement or sly misdirections to their classrooms.

At the beginning of the school year, the freshman girls were welcomed by their senior sisters on that uproarious occasion—Senior-Frosh Day. On that day, the freshman girls assumed the appearance of infants. This they achieved by wearing bonnets, short skirts, bibs, and high knee socks. While the younger girls were thusly attired, their older sisters, the senior girls, acquired a maternal air by sporting high heels and stockings, aprons, and dolls. Lollipops reigned supreme, with the freshman girls on the giving end and the senior girls on the receiving. At the close of the school day, the girls attended their party which was held in the boys' gym. There, the freshman girls exhibited their most beautiful smiles and turned on their freshman charm before the eyes of the senior judges. After much controversy, prizes were awarded to the frosh girls with the prettiest smile, the cutest costume, and the most typical frosh. The awards were followed by refreshments and entertainment.

The self-reliant Freshman class held its polls and elected their class officers. Elected to the presidency was Allan Nelson. Allan is an alumnus of the Meadowlawn school in East Meadow. Although he is doubtful about his future plans, his interests lie in model airplanes and model railroads. Vice-President Carmalita Catalano, also a graduate of Meadowlawn school, has hopes of becoming a stenographer after her graduation from Hempstead High. Most of her spare time is spent in roller skating and dancing. Joseph Chicco, a graduate of Northern Parkway school, ably fills the secretarial post. A young man of varied interests, he hopes to study electrical engineering upon his graduation from our school.

In order to help and advise these new students, a capable staff of faculty advisors is on hand. Miss Farris, the main advisor, is assisted by Miss Joyce and Mr. Helbach. They guide the freshmen in their courses and try to help them in their adjustment to high school life.

This year's Freshman class is one of the largest in the history of the school. Its members number close to eight hundred thirty. In spite of its size, the Freshman class is able to carry on activities. It collects dues from its members and the money is used in various ways. Part of it is used to award prizes to the two freshmen having the highest scholastic averages for the year. Another portion of the money is used to finance the annual Freshman party which is held in the spring.

The student body is proud of its Freshman Class and is sure that from among its students will emerge the future leaders of our school.

ACTIVITIES

Here is Hempstead High's Student

Council, which is made up of the leaders of school clubs, captains of the teams, and class officers.

During the past year these imaginative and enterprising students have gained much recognition through their many and varied activities. First they bought a motion picture camera with which to film various phases of the school year. They also appeared on television and demonstrated how a Student Council works.

A G. O. Pep Rally and Dance started the school year's social life with a great show of enthusiasm. These projects, along with the decorating of the school for Christmas (with some assistance from the student body), are only a sample of the work done by this energetic group.

The officers for this year were: Val Vaughan, President; Sue Krim, Vice-President; Elsie Dobler, Corresponding Secretary; Dale Molter, Recording Secretary; and Helen Hagenah, Treasurer. This was the first year the officers of the Student Council were elected by the Student body and they seem to have fulfilled all our hopes in them. They have done a very capable job.

The Faculty Advisors were Mr. Beckett and Miss Newlon. Their competent assistance aided the Council in carrying out its full program.

We are grateful to these determined people, who gave so much of their time for the betterment of our school organization.

STUDENT COUNCIL

At the beginning of each school year, a select group of students start their work as Home Room Reps. The student is selected either by the teacher in charge of that particular home room or elected by the other members of the home room. The main qualifications for this position are that the representative be willing to devote some of his personal time to the responsibilities involved and that he have a dependable attendance record. Along with the representative an alternate representative is chosen. He or she is expected to help the rep. with his duties, and to carry on in his absence.

Selling the G. O. at the beginning of each semester, distributing the Patriot every two weeks, and collecting money for the Red Cross and the Community Chest during the year are only a few of the many jobs performed by the Home Room Reps. The tasks performed by the Reps. are a help to the teacher, as well as a benefit to his classmates. Mainly responsible for the success of the Home Room Reps this year were Mr. Beckett and Mr. Tree, who did a swell job as advisors. How could it not have been a success with such capable officers as Bob Keller, president; Barbara Long, vice-president; Pauline Plender, secretary, and Frank Schenk, treasurer, presiding at meetings?

Now it can be told!

Go little year book, far and near,
 To all the friends I hold so dear;
 Let them write upon a page,
 A word to cherish in my old age.

It's a crazy little poem, but it does express the purpose of the Colonial.

This year's juniors have worked very hard, and spent many long hours in "good old" room 23, to put out a memorable year book. We hope we have succeeded. How could we fail when we had the best advisors, best editors, best writers, best artists, and best business staff H. H. S. ever had! (We're really not conceited, it just sounds that way.)

Martha Oman, Editor-in-Chief, had a tough job, but with the help of the other editors; Norma Tranchina, faculty; Ronald Goldstein, activities; Gordon Weil, clubs; Raymond Feldman (worst tic-tac-toe player in room 23), sports; Elizabeth Mueller, seniors; and Carol Crowder, photography; it made the job a little easier for Martha.

We can not forget the wonderful job the art staff did. Joan King, editor, and her staff came up with terrific cartoons and drawings for the book.

The business staff, with editor Llew Pritchard, really had their hands full with the finances of the Colonial, and getting advertisements was no easy job either.

We must not forget our advisors. First of all, Mr. Ayres, upon whose shoulders fell the full weight of responsibility for the complete production of the Colonial; Mr. Menza, advisor to the editorial staff; Mr. Pilkington, art advisor; and Mr. Helbach, in charge of the business staff. Without their guidance we don't know what we would have done.

It seems we forgot a few people! Oh yes! The writers, artists and business staff members not already mentioned. (They are not even worth mentioning.) They just wrote the stories; drew the pictures; hunted for advertisements; did all the dirty work; and received very little credit. (Well, it's all in a day's work.)

The theme of this year's Colonial, upon which we tried to base our stories and pictures was "The Future." It can mean anything you want it to mean, from future education and occupations to space ships and men from Mars.

Now it's time for you seniors to board your rocket, fasten your safety belts, check your ray guns and "Blast Off," zooming into a strange new world called "college" or "work."

Don't forget to take your Colonial with you.

dents of Hempstead High School about thirty-five years ago, the Patriot has been a success ever since. Information and detailed reports on important school, athletic, and social events, plus friendly and entertaining sidelines, such as File 13, Exchanged, and the Inquiring Reporter, add to the popularity of the paper. Like other school papers, the Patriot keeps in close contact with the student body through informal columns. The latest information on clubs and other extracurricular activities along with the events of student life make interesting reading. File 13, by "Hoosia McCallit," is a column which reflects student life. Bits of chit-chat, roving conversation, and school gossip go into the making of this column. Approved and well-liked by most of us, File 13 will be remembered for a long time to come.

Unfortunately, only fifteen issues of the Patriot are published during a school year. Usually four pages in size, it occasionally expands into a six or eight page issue. To some this may seem rather small, but what it lacks in quantity it makes up for in quality.

Each reader has his favorite column or feature. For some it may be the Inquiring Reporter, for others the Editorials, or the Fashion column, or the sports page. The answers to the Inquiring Reporter's questions range from dead seriousness to high humor. The girls find the fashion column interesting for its tips on fashion trends and hints on good grooming. For those who want to know more about their classmates and teachers there is a column called "Introducing."

A column known as "Tiger Tales" has been around for quite a while. A summary of the past week's games, predictions about the coming season, and schedules of games to come are some of the topics covered in it. Well known among sport fans is Joe Krupinski, this year's author of "Tiger Tales." We all appreciate Joe's hard work in bringing us this outstanding column, and giving us a clearer and better understanding of sports.

Proof of the Patriot's success was demonstrated last year when it succeeded in taking first prize in the Columbia Scholastic contest. Competing with hundreds of other high schools throughout the United States, the Patriot has won first and second prize several times; a feat, which in itself, is very complimentary to any paper. Numerous requests for copies of the Patriot from other schools, who wish to study the makeup of this outstanding paper, gives us further reason to be justly proud of our publication.

There are various staffs which play an important part in the management of the Patriot. One of these is the business staff, a vital organ on any successful paper. As advisor to the business staff, Mr. Navarra has many problems to contend with. Counting and assorting the Patriot in the morning, and delivering the correct amount to each homeroom are a few of the duties accomplished by the business staff. Obtaining ads and keeping track of the Patriot's financial problems really keep the staff members on their toes.

The responsibility for the policy, make-up and content of the paper falls on the two faculty advisors, Mr. Murphy and Mr. Goldy, who devote much time and effort to each issue. It is not possible to mention all the editors and writers who are doing such an excellent job in maintaining this top-notch paper. There are a few, however, to whom we must give priority. Among these are Carol Bates, Editor-in-Chief; Shalom Schwartz, Managing Editor; Joe Krupinski, Sports Editor; and Jacqueline Otte, Feature Editor; all of whom are striving to obtain first place in the Columbia Association Contest again this year, and hoping to accomplish greater success in the future.

Here's the Senior Service Squad in a new surrounding. At the opening of school in September the Squad moved to its new address, Office IA. Within the pine-panelled walls of IA the Squad resumed its duties as it has in the past many years. Each one of the twenty-four girls on the squad devotes one period every day to assist the Registrar with her various duties.

The work is beneficial to both the school and the squad member herself. To the school because the girls do a great deal of alphabetizing and also help to keep the files in good order. They act as hostesses in the office and run errands whenever necessary. To the individual because she has an opportunity to meet people, and she also acquires knowledge of the principles under which an office operates, and how it functions. Those members of the Squad who are Commercial students have an opportunity to find out what kind of office work they are best fitted to do. The girls who are going on to higher education find that this training helps them materially when they enter college.

Under Mrs. Hueston's guidance the Squad has evolved into a co-operative, efficient, and educational organization.

Webster defines "Secretary" as a confidential clerk, especially one who attends to correspondence, records, etc. This is, too, the best way of describing Hempstead High's Junior Secretaries.

With girls serving each period of the day, and two weeks late duty a year, jobs were finished efficiently.

They performed tasks equal in importance to those of the "Senior Secretaries." Typing, telephoning absentees, filing schedules, and running errands were among the many duties the girls executed.

This organization had its origin in 1934. Ever since this time it has played an important part in being of service to Hempstead High. The practice and experience gained is something from which every girl benefits. At the same time she is given work she enjoys and work that will teach her the importance of neatness, efficiency, and accuracy, all important in making a good secretary.

Helen Hagenah headed the squad of girls, while Janet Martz acted as assistant chief, Lorraine Gomillion as secretary, Jacqueline Pilitz as treasurer, and Janet Stonitsch as representative to the Student Council.

and under the expert leadership of Mr. E. C. Moore, is beyond a doubt one of the most valuable institutions we have at Hempstead High. It is valuable in two ways; it provides the twenty-nine members with a great deal of experience in the handling of movie projectors, tape recorders, and other costly equipment. The A. V. squad is also valuable to us students. How wonderful it is to spark up a Social Studies or English class with an occasional movie on a current topic!

The hard-working members of the squad, headed by Sheldon Reich, have many duties other than the actual operation of equipment. These include: (1) Office routine. The squad members conduct office 18A like a place of business. (2) Care and maintenance of equipment. Equipment is checked, oiled, and cleaned the period before it is to be used. (3) Shipping films. Those members on duty Wednesday mornings are responsible for the packing of outgoing films. (4) Preview service. Sometimes teachers request "previews" of films, filmstrips, or recordings. (5) Care of films. Films must be carefully inspected and checked after they have been used. At all times these squad members are courteous and helpful.

The Counselor's Service Squad of Office 4 is composed of junior and senior girls who are chosen on the basis of their sophomore interviews. The qualities looked for, when choosing these girls, are a co-operative attitude, pleasant personality, passing grades in all subjects, and the willingness to benefit by working on the squad.

There are two or three girls working in the office each period, for eight periods. In addition, each girl is required to serve at least two weeks of late duty a year. These girls perform such duties as helping to arrange for sophomore interviews, filing, typing, delivering slips and running errands.

The chief of the squad this year was Patricia Carroll, a senior. The assistant chief was Elizabeth Benz. Elizabeth was also the Student Council representative.

The Counselor's Service Squad has made it possible for the girls to become well acquainted with office procedures as well as assisting both teachers and pupils promptly and efficiently. To those who are planning to become secretaries, the squad proves especially beneficial. It is also very helpful to those going on to college.

Under the leadership of Miss MacDougall, this squad has become a smooth-running organization that is helpful to both the school and its students.

At the beginning of each school year

the heads of the various departments in Hempstead High select their new student secretaries to aid them with their various duties. These girls are usually high ranking Seniors and are chosen from the secretarial practice classes, on the recommendation of their teacher, on the basis of personality, ability to work together with other people, and perhaps the most important, the knowledge of office procedure and the use of office equipment.

The secretaries to the faculty work about four hours a week at varied and interesting duties which include mimeographing, typing, stencilwork, and other secretarial tasks. For convenience, their schedules are arranged so as to fit in with that of the teachers for whom they are working.

Under the supervision of Mrs. Schryver, who is also the head of the mimeograph aides, these aspiring secretaries receive valuable training, which will help them greatly in their future occupations. In addition, this activity gives the girls a sense of doing something worth while for the school; something beneficial to not only the teachers but to the students as well.

Since this is such a small group, only about twelve members, it is perhaps not as well-known as it should be considering the work it does. However, just as the demand for more and better trained secretaries, in the business world, is increasing day after day, so is the demand for girls to become secretaries to the faculty of Hempstead High.

It is a well-known fact that one of the most important adjuncts of a school is its library. Our school is fortunate in having two fine libraries which are administered by a competent group of librarians. They are assisted by the library staff.

This group of assistants, composed mostly of juniors and seniors, is divided into two sections, the main library section and the senior library section. The thirty-five members of the club were all appointed by the librarian on the basis of personality and school grades.

There are numerous tasks which are fulfilled by the staff members daily. They work at the desk in the library, run errands for the librarians, check the magazines, which come in the mail, and file and alphabetize books and cards—a most important job. Aside from aiding the librarian, they also make it easier for the students to use the library facilities.

Serving on the library staff is a fine opportunity for students interested in this field. Even though there are no regular meetings of the staff, and no officers, the club is a member of the Nassau-Suffolk County Student Librarians Congress. The congress meets twice a year, and five representatives from each school are sent. This affords the girls a fine opportunity to discuss and share ideas with students from other schools.

LIBRARY STAFF

We all appreciate the fine work of these girls among whom there may be future librarians.

If modern art has puzzled you and the various art techniques have baffled you, the Art department has a solution to your problem—Junior-Senior Sketch Club.

By learning different ways of using paint, chalk, etc., a new understanding and interest can be developed.

In addition to making ceramic objects, this year's projects included the decorating of containers of marmalade, which were sold to raise money for art scholarships.

This club holds its meetings the ninth, tenth, and eleventh periods of Tuesday and Wednesday, allowing a wider range of time for the convenience of all members.

The presiding officers were Carol Carman, President; Eleanor Hoegl, Vice-President; Pat Curzon, Secretary; Peggy Groebly, Treasurer. Mrs. Oman served as advisor.

On the whole, the club caters to the needs of the upperclassmen and endeavors to stress art enjoyment, an asset necessary for the appreciation of art in future years.

Looking for fun—art enjoyment too?
Attend Sketch Club—that's just for you!

This is only a simple jingle, but it expresses the purpose of the Freshman-Sophomore Sketch Club, an organization designed to make art appreciation an art itself, pleasurable and interesting.

This year the members made ornamental Christmas trees and intricate ceramic objects to sell for the benefit of the art scholarship. This scholarship is awarded to the senior who has contributed the most to the art department and who intends to make a career of art. This is an award for which art students strive and all members of the Freshman-Sophomore Sketch Club anxiously await.

The club was supervised by Mrs. Oman and the officers were Carol Volin, President; Anita Vroman, Vice-President; Judy Lemkin, Secretary; and Marcia Margulies, Treasurer.

erly, must have a method of keeping order. This job, in our school, is given to the hall duty teachers. They are assigned, under the supervision of Mr. Fish, by the office, to serve on duty throughout the day. In addition, each one of the teachers on duty chooses a group of students to aid them. These students are called "hall cops." Together they are known as the Hall Patrol.

Some of the hall cops are stationed outside the building. These boys form the campus patrol. Their jobs are to inspect the parking fields, and keep loiterers away from the doors.

Each hall cop pays ten cents a semester for dues. These dues pay for their Colonial picture. From this group a lieutenant is chosen for each period, on each floor.

The hall cop's main duties consist of checking hall passes during class time and keeping order in the halls. Some of the hall cops assist in air raid and fire drills. Every boy in school is eligible to join. However, if he does not have passing grades, he cannot be admitted. Throughout the school year, there are about two hundred boys serving the school as hall cops. It is easy to see why this organization, one of the largest in the school, is considered by many a most essential one.

"—And remember girls tonight we serve at another school dinner." These words are very familiar to the members of the Hostess Club. However, serving wasn't the only activity they engaged in this year. The members were kept busy making crinoline Christmas trees, pine cone turkeys, and Christmas corsages for their mothers. The Casa Loma held open house for the interested Hostess Club and the girls learned to make pizza. Trips to the city for a show, to a toy factory, and the Gas and Electric Company were also very enjoyable and instructive.

Under the able guidance of Miss Ruth Taft, the Hostess Club elected the following as their leaders: president, Pat Savarese; vice-president, Jo Scarnato; secretary, Mary Putignano; and treasurer, Barbara Bernard.

If you would like to know about far-away, exotic lands, any one of the members of our ever-popular Stamp Club could give you all the information that you would want. The Stamp Club is headed by one of our most popular math teachers, Mr. Holtz.

Because of their hobby, these future citizens will never lack knowledge of little-known and well-known places of the world, their historical events and many, many interesting facts. Perhaps one day the children of the present club members will share their parents' enthusiasm for stamp collecting and will have the first inter-planetary stamp in their collection.

Most of us take it for granted that the food lines in our cafeteria will be orderly, that the trays will be stacked when we finish using them, and that the room will be kept clean and quiet.

Few of us, however, realize that there is a squad that accomplishes these tasks. Known as the "Cafe-ettes," the squad this year consisted of sixteen girls. Under the pleasant and capable direction of Miss Linn, these girls took charge of keeping order in our cafeteria.

Although it is an organized group, there are no officers, and no dues to be paid.

This organization is fairly new to Hempstead High but it has definitely proven itself valuable and very necessary.

Our thanks to these girls for helping to make the cafeteria a pleasant room in which to eat and relax.

The club elected no officers, but chose a chairman, Joyce Ford, to preside over the meetings. Their advisor, Miss Bennett, gives them information concerning any exhibits or displays of handiwork they might be interested in attending.

Early in the year the girls had a party which was very enjoyable; however, the primary aim of the club is to provide pleasure through doing creative work.

day teach our children are now members of the Future Teachers of America Club. The club is open to all students who are interested in teaching and who have the necessary qualities of character, scholarship, and leadership.

The club was separated into two groups, the Horace Mann group for freshmen and sophomores, and the Peter Cooper group for juniors and seniors. The Peter Cooper group has been in existence for four years and the Horace Mann for three. Last year the club was organized in early October. The total membership of both groups combined was approximately one hundred and thirty-five. The club met the third Wednesday of each month. The Horace Mann group met the second period, and the Peter Cooper Club, the ninth.

The officers for the year 1952-1953 were as follows: in the Horace Mann group the president was Arlene Krajnik; the vice-president, Ashraf Akchurin; the secretary, Alice Kay; and Dorothy Van Ness handled the funds. In the Peter Cooper group the president was Gail Reimer; the vice-president, Cathy Harbolis; the secretary, Janice Dusenchuck; and the finances of the group were handled by Helen Roesler.

For the past two years, the combined groups have been engaged in a special Easter program. This year they filed one hundred Easter favors to be put on the trays of the children in the Pediatric Ward at Meadowbrook Hospital as an Easter Morning surprise. This activity is one of which the members are the proudest and they plan to carry it on for many more years.

In October the club sold home-made candy at the teachers' convention held here. In December the members of the F. T. A. visited Washington Street School. While there they met Miss Charlotte Patterson, the principal, and observed classroom procedures in the grammar school.

The club's Christmas party was held December seventeenth. Games and contests were held. A skit under the direction of Ann Church caused some tense and hilarious moments.

At the club meeting the members have enjoyed many guest speakers who discussed various aspects of teaching.

On January twentieth the club gave a tea in the school cafeteria. Many guests were in attendance when Gail Riemer, president of the junior-senior group, made a speech.

The club has its own constitution. This document governs all the official actions made by both slates of officers and any committees they may appoint.

Mrs. Greenlund, the club's advisor, is very popular with the groups. This Citizenship Education teacher has been in charge of the club for the past three years. Miss Barth was the advisor when the Peter Cooper club was organized. Mrs. Greenlund, present advisor of both clubs, is genuinely interested in helping the club members with their problems and has made the club meetings a bright spot in their lives. All the members agreed that Mrs. Greenlund has been a wonderful advisor.

In past years the club has given teas and parties and has gone to visit different schools.

The members of the Future Teachers of America Club desire to encourage interest in the high standards the teaching profession seeks, to develop the high ideals of leadership a teacher needs, to further the cause of democracy, to create an interest in and appreciation and understanding of the problems of the American way of life, and to secure that training which will best aid their teaching and training of the youth of America.

Many students of Hempstead High who have been members of the F. T. A. clubs, have gone on to colleges and are now members of the college chapters of F. T. A. All clubs and chapters throughout the United States are chartered by the National Education Association. The clubs are a most important factor in encouraging an interest in the teaching profession.

gets, the constant crack of the rifle, and the spirit of good fellowship that pervades the entire scene, provide the setting for Hempstead's famous rifle range.

During the year, this large and active group provided something more than just fun and entertainment. All of the members were required to pass National Rifle Association qualifications. Boys, over the age of fourteen, also took the Army qualifications, which gives them a head start. Under the newly expanded program, these and other experiences have given the members greater opportunities to improve their marksmanship.

Much of the credit of this great club, its success and its popularity, must go to Mr. Al Voorhies. He is something more than an advisor to members of the group.

Bruce Corrie was elected to hold the office of the President, with Ken Outwater serving as Vice-President. Filling in as Treasurer was Kay McGinley.

"Two-Pie-R," the popular name for our math club, really has a more significant meaning. It is  $2\pi r$ , the basis of many math problems. The goal of Tupiar is to further the student's knowledge of advanced calculation.

Under the competent direction of Mr. Robert Hayes and Mr. Robert Keenan, the group has again completed a most successful season. Because of the growing interest in the slide rule, a series of film strips on this subject was scheduled early in the year. Almost before the members realized it, it was time for the club's Christmas party. Held in the girls' gym, the party drew an overflowing crowd. To start off the festivities a program by members of the Music department was presented with Gordon Weil as master of ceremonies. Leigh Burns, Alex Pickard, Phil Ephthimion, Judy Nyman, Dorothy Thomson, and Katherine Ripp provided entertainment, which was followed by refreshments for all.

Officers included Dennis Lyne, prexy, with Andy Robell as veep, and Mary Lowe and Tommy Packert, secretary and treasurer, respectively.

Despite its short term of existence, this group has assumed its place in school life. It has co-sponsored with other organizations many social functions which have proved most successful. In the past few years our Varsity group has climbed into prominence along with other notable clubs of its type in the county. The club was organized late in the year, and therefore it was able to plan only a limited program. However, the ever-growing membership has mapped out plans for the future. We can expect big things from this club of which we are so justly proud.

Elections were held in January and the following officers were chosen: chairman, Bruce Corrie; vice-chairman, Doug Smith; and Bob Wishart, secretary-treasurer.

The Commercial Club of Hempstead High

School is an organization of freshman and sophomore girls enrolled in the Commercial course. The main purpose of the club is to provide recreation and amusement for its members.

In the past year the girls were busily engaged in making corsages which were sold at the Blue and White Corner. They also spent many enjoyable afternoons carrying on various social activities.

The president of the club for the year 1952-1953 was Joan Carey; Janet Moore handled the funds for the organization.

Miss Degenhardt, the advisor of the club, capably assisted and counselled the members, making the club a bright spot in their lives. The girls all agreed that the club offered them many profitable and pleasant experiences.

One of the most famous of H. H. S.'s activities is its symphony orchestra. Under Miss Boyle's capable guidance, our orchestra has become one of the finest high school organizations in the country.

Of course, this reputation was not made overnight. For the most important single factor in making the music sound so good is the many hours of painstaking practice put in by the members of the orchestra. For a month or two before the February and May concerts full rehearsals were held with guest conductors. Along with the full rehearsals, were sectional rehearsals, held every day before and after school. The new bandbox has been a great help this year because of the many practice rooms and the perfectly arranged orchestra room.

The orchestra performed in several concerts. It played its annual concert for the civic groups at the Elks Club, and also at Wagner College. Both of these were previews for the grand concert in February, featuring several guest artists. Archie Bleyer conducted a special arrangement of Carmen and a powerful chorale by Bach. Mr. Tibor Serly, Mr. Bleyer's teacher, conducted the Mikrokosmos Suite by Bartok, which Mr. Serly arranged, and the Harry Janos Suite, both very difficult pieces of modern music. Lydia Iborrondo, Frances Greer, Thomas McDuffy, Richard Torigi, well-known soloists, sang in Carmen. The orchestra played in the annual Music Festival at Hofstra in May. The concert featured Mendelsohn's violin concerto played by Raymond Gnieweck, an alumnus of Hempstead High, and student soloists.

These programs of music are a great experience for orchestra members and much can be learned from the guest artists.

This year the A Cappella Choir has maintained the high standards set by past groups. The enrollment totalled nearly one hundred and fifty, whereas, Hempstead High's first choir consisted of a comparatively small group of girls.

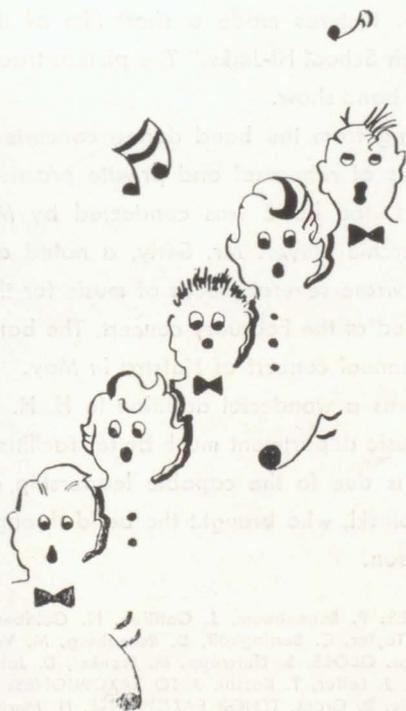

This year the choir, accompanied by the orchestra, was a guest of the Elks Club at its annual dinner. It was graciously received. The Choir also performed at a concert given at Wagner College, where it presented a Christmas Program.

Carolling in the halls on the last day of school, before Christmas vacation, is an old custom that was not forgotten by this year's A Cappella Choir. Under Miss McQueen's able direction, it sang in the corridors of Hempstead High for the enjoyment of all.

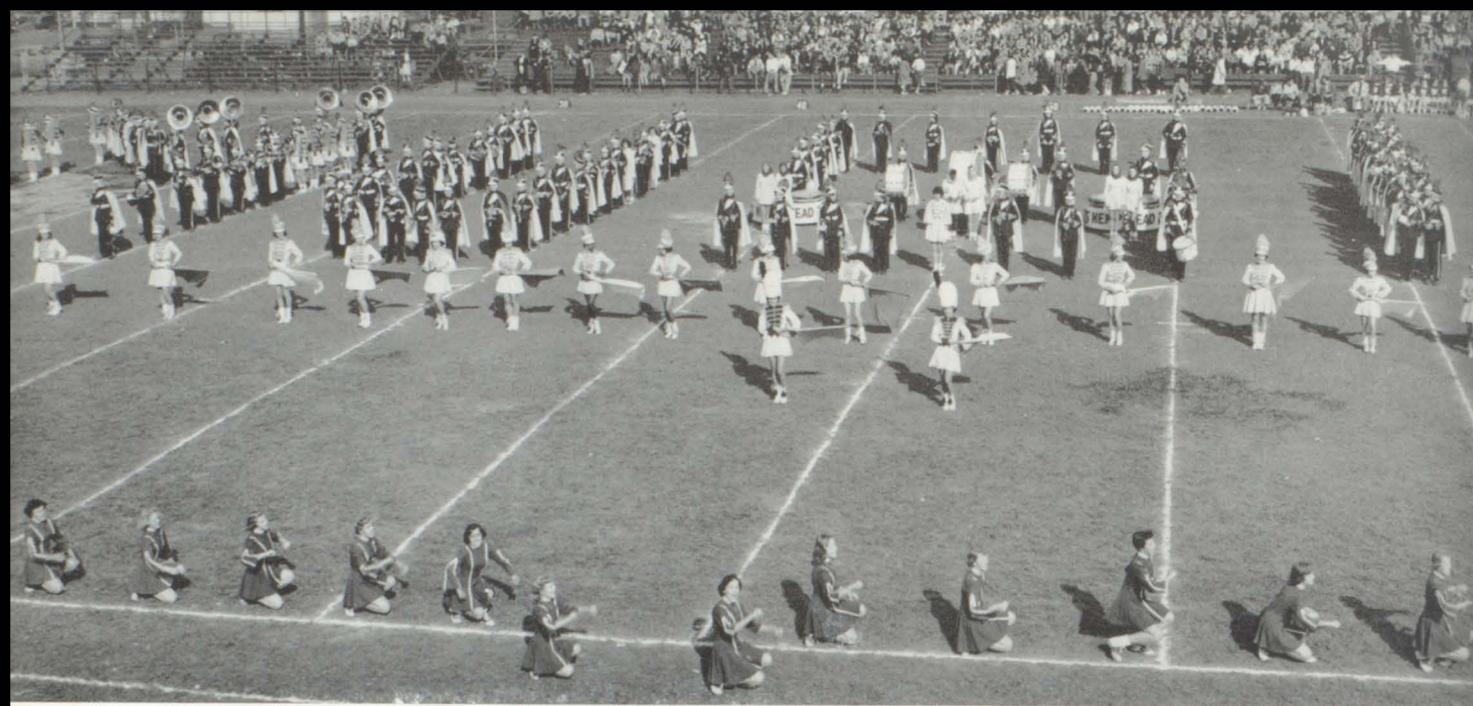

The Mid-Winter Concert was held at Hofstra College this year. Due to popular demand, two performances were given. Mr. Archie Blyer directed the choir in excerpts from the opera "Carmen." Four well-known artists, Thomas McDuffy, Don Jose; Lydia Iborrondo, Carmen; Richard Torigi, Escamilo; and Frances Greer, Michaela, were guest performers at this concert. These guests gave the choir the experience of singing with guest stars. This was one of the finest concerts ever given by the Choir members.

This year the Choir met in new and pleasant surroundings—the new Band Box. With the aid of sound proof walls and other modern equipment, singing was an even more delightful experience both for the students and the teacher.

Miss McQueen, through her knowledge and understanding, gave choir members new appreciation for good music. The members of the Choir are grateful to Miss McQueen for her untiring efforts.

CHOIR

This year's band show, called the "Showboat," featured a grand entrance and exit in the form of a huge boat, along with the usual tricky maneuvers and snappy music. Because of its excellent showing, the band was invited to play at the Polo Grounds and Wagner College. By far the greatest event in the band's history took place when Paramount Pictures made a short film of the band show called "High School Hi-Jinks." The picture traces the development of the band show.

BAND

The fine music coming from the band during concerts is the result of long hours of rehearsal and private practice. In its February concert, the band was conducted by Mr. Tibor Serly and Mr. Archie Bleyer. Mr. Serly, a noted arranger and composer, wrote several pieces of music for the band, which were played at the February concert. The band also took part in the annual concert of Hofstra in May.

The new bandbox was a wonderful addition to H. H. S. this year, giving the music department much better facilities.

Much of the credit is due to the capable leadership of Miss Boyle and Mr. Albinski, who brought the band through another successful season.

an average of ninety per cent or better make up the membership of the Pallas Club. The members try to promote leadership, scholarship, and fellowship. They also render service to the school, as is evidenced by their selling of programs at home football games and their acting as Usherettes during Open House. The club is advised by Miss Gunnerson, who helps the girls with any problems they may have.

At the regular meetings, talks were given by Miss MacDougall, Mr. Turnbull, and Mrs. Dendy. In addition, a talent show was held, and carols were sung at Christmas time. The girls were very busy making Christmas scrapbooks, containing jokes, pictures, and cards, for the St. Giles Home.

Jane Stonitsch received the five dollar prize, which is given annually by the Pallas Club to the sophomore girl who has received the highest average in the past year.

This year Emily Moore was President, and Mildred Hollowell was vice-president. Elizabeth Sachleben filled the office of secretary, and Ellen McIver was treasurer.

The party, given annually for the Pioneer Club, and the trip to see Cinerama were enjoyed by all.

Three marks in the nineties, one mark of eighty-seven or better, and the other mark passing are the requirements for acceptance into the Sophomore Boy's Honor Club, or Junto Club, as it is better known. Through its varied activities, the club endeavors to broaden the cultural background of its members. This is very well accomplished under the capable leadership and helpful guidance of Mrs. Marshall, the advisor to the club.

This year, the program committee decided to conduct programs which might help the members plan their careers. For this reason, Mr. Pill, our guidance counselor, was invited to address the club several times. Interesting discussions were held, in which Mr. Pill answered questions about colleges, scholarships, and vocational opportunities. The committee also decided to invite personnel managers from large local firms to speak to the group about business in our modern world.

A five dollar prize is given annually to the Sophomore boy who attains the highest average. Last year Peter Peril and Louis Sherwood tied, so each boy received five dollars.

Presiding over this year's Junto Club were Paul Chronis, President; Howard Herbert, Vice-President; Robert Palmer, Secretary; and Raymond Babineau, Treasurer.

Like the pioneers of the past, Hemp-

stead's freshmen honor girls have travelled upward and onward scholastically. The top fifty females of the Freshman Class comprised the membership of this year's honor group. Scholarship, leadership, service, and culture are the aims these girls tried to promote in their club and throughout the school.

In order to get acquainted with each other, the members held a "get acquainted" party. The Pallas Club gave the girls a party, and they reciprocated in the spring. Several inspiring talks were given by speakers invited by the club and a panel discussion was also on the agenda. In addition, the club took a trip to New York to see a Broadway play. The girls all saved their pennies in order to buy the Pioneer pin; a tiny, silver, covered wagon, the symbol of the club and its ideals.

Presiding was Priscilla Tedesco; Leigh Rae Andelmann, vice-president; Margaret Whitney, secretary; Lois Pattison and Naomi Sklaire, treasurer.

year's freshman boys are again working their way to the top. The Pathfinders is restricted to the top boys of the Freshman Class. Any boy who has an average of 88% or better can be a member of this club. They engaged in some interesting activities this year such as listening to distinguished speakers, and going on trips to various interesting places. The group this year was headed by Mr. Ketchum. The Pathfinders have always been a highly respected group, and the freshmen strive for membership in it. There was friendly discussion among them regarding marks and this spurred them on to even higher grades. The freshmen meet once a month on Tuesdays. The President is James Turnbull, the V. P. is Victor Regan, Secretary is Harvey Fischer, and Treasurer, Henry Pavony. Some day in the future, from among these honor students of Hempstead High School, there will emerge important leaders in the business, professional and political fields.

building superintendent has been converted into a mimeographing room. Located to the right of the janitor's room, it is a beehive of activity throughout the school day. A regular squad is hard at work there.

In this room, office papers, notices, post cards, school exams, and other mimeographed forms are put out, by the thousands, for the use of both the teachers and the students.

Until this year, all this work had been done under the supervision of Mrs. Schryver but the volume became so great that the need for larger quarters and more teachers became necessary.

Each of the teachers on the squad, assisted by four aides, can be found, at least one period of the day, in the squad room. These teachers are Mrs. Schryver, supervisor, assisted by Mr. Albanese, Miss Bringhurst, Miss Golden, Miss Congiu, and Miss Silver.

The next time you take a mimeographed school exam, you may perhaps wish to thank the squad for having prepared this attractive and challenging bit of print.

squads and service groups made its first appearance this year in Hempstead High School. The reason for this was the numerous problems arising as a result of our brand new Bandbox, one of which was the maintenance of Miss Boyle's office. A group of girls known as the Secretarial Hostesses meet this need.

Among their numerous other jobs, the girls in the group act as receptionists, secretaries, hall cops, and help to keep the Bandbox running smoothly and efficiently at all times. Taken from the music department, these girls have already established themselves not only as an important adjunct to the Bandbox, but also an important member of Hempstead's family of service squads.

motto of the Music Appreciation Club. These musical early birds met on Wednesday mornings from 7:30 to 8 a.m. to listen to and learn about both classical and modern music. This aim was accomplished by discussing the composer and the background of the music, and then listening to it on records. Every week the melodic strains of Bach, Beethoven, Tschai-kowsky, Cesar Franck or Rachmaninoff were heard issuing forth from Room 25. The members, under the able direction of Mr. Fish, decided that at the end of the year, a test would be taken on the music they had heard and, to the member with the highest mark, would go an album of records as a present from Mr. Fish.

The club elected as president, Gail Lahey; as Vice-President, Joan Linfante; as Secretary, Mona Klein; and as Treasurer, Dot Thompson.

Spanish Honor Society, a new organization, which was founded late this year by Mrs. Stilger, who acts as the advisor. To be eligible for membership, one must have studied Spanish for a period of at least two years and attained an average of eighty-eight per cent or better during this time. The society attempts, through its various functions, to contribute to the Hispanic field, while helping the Spanish students to know better the language and culture of Spain.

One of the goals is the winning of the Catherine Lois Haymaker Plaque, which is awarded annually to the high school that makes the greatest contribution in the Hispanic field. In order to compete for this plaque, the members planned a program for Pan American Day, May 14, when many high schools compete.

These amateur "shutterbugs" gather every other week to pursue their fascinating hobby of photography. In addition to the regular meetings, weekly dark-room periods are held.

Under the helpful guidance of Mr. Smith, the members discussed the various phases of photography and learned how to use photographic equipment. At the meeting, lectures were given by guest speakers, and film strips on printing, developing, and enlarging were shown. During the year, several print contests were also held.

The school has a lot of fine photographic equipment, including a speed-graphic camera and a well-equipped dark-room. Members of the club may use this equipment after they have shown that they are proficient in its use and after they have paid their dues.

Presiding over the meetings are Alan Lipnik, President; John Lambert, Vice-President; Donald Siebert, Treasurer; and John Elsbach, Secretary.

PRINCIPAL'S SERVICE SQUAD

the girls of the Principal's Service Squad have maintained the high standards set by their predecessors. Serving Mr. Beddow and his assistant, Mrs. Pashley, they have performed, capably and efficiently, the tasks assigned to them.

Operating the main switchboard, along with numerous other tasks, kept the girls busy and well-occupied. These jobs required concentration, alertness, and efficiency—assets all twelve girls on this squad possessed. They put these qualities to good use especially when working the switchboard, as this is the central one used for all calls, incoming and outgoing.

The organization usually held meetings once a month. This year a Christmas party was included on the agenda of the club's plans.

Chris Chicco headed these girls and Stephanie Hoffbauer assisted.

The members of the squad worked by themselves with the exceptions of fifth, sixth, seventh, and eighth periods when more than one was needed.

The Principal's Service Squad had its origin in 1939 when it was known as the Central Service Squad. Though comparatively new, it has grown to be an outstanding organization in the past years. It provides considerable experience to all its members—experience which will stand them in good stead in later years.

comprise the Pen and Ink Club. The requirement of the club is that each member maintain an average of 90% or more. The Pen and Ink performs many services for the school and tries to develop the character and personality of each member.

At the bimonthly meetings this year, talks were given to impart culture and to encourage scholarship. Speakers delivered interesting talks on literature, parliamentary procedure, history, and art.

Of the many services performed by the club, probably the most important was the publication of the school handbook. The editor-in-chief was Sheila Gandry and the business manager was Gail Guterman.

As in past years, the outstanding senior member will receive a scholarship. Last year's winner was Helen Sormani, who is now attending the University of Connecticut. Officers this year were: Elsa Steinbrenner, president; Carlotta Paetow, vice-president; Carole Kappeler, secretary; and Beverly Guerre, treasurer. Mrs. Stilger and Miss Abbott were the club's advisors.

are the goals of the Pentagon, the Junior and Senior Boys' Honor Club. To continue in this organization, the members have to maintain an average of 90% or more. The students eligible for membership this year numbered around fifty.

Since the members participated in so many school activities, no extensive program was planned by Pentagon. Meetings were held bi-monthly with the purpose of expanding the educational experience of the members. The meetings included lectures, discussions, and talks. The members were also advised to take trips on their own to museums, libraries and concerts.

Officers of this year's Pentagon were as follows: Shalom Schwartz, president; Richard Leidy, vice-president; Henry Kammerer, secretary; and Robert Stimpfl, treasurer. Mr. Matthew Murphy was the new and capable advisor of the club this year.

Selling magazine subscriptions helped the club to raise the money needed for the scholarships which are given each year to the two outstanding senior members of the club. Also given each year are two keys; an honor key which is given to the member who best represents the ideals of the club and a service key to the member who does the most for the club.

"To be, or not to be, that is the question,"

is the password to get into that mysterious room on the second floor of the school—room 34. This is the gathering place of the Sophomore Dramatic Workshop, which meets every day, Monday through Friday, second period. This is the intermediate group that precedes the Footlight Club. The Sophs are well known for their super productions which they stage every year. This year their contribution was "Take Care of My Little Girl." Everyone enjoyed it and we all know that their "live" talent will be a real addition to the Footlight Club. The Sophs are under the able guidance of Mrs. Kantzler. The leads in the cast of "Take Care of My Little Girl" were: Anita Vroman, Nancy Wilson, Eileen Curran, Alice Kay, Marcia Margulies, and George Horsfield. The stage manager was Will Koch.

The full house and the uproarious laughter were all signs that the Sophomore Dramatic Workshop again had a hit on their hands.

FOOTLIGHT CLUB

The plight of the "Father of the Bride" was well portrayed, when the Footlight Club performed the play of the same name on May 7 and 8. Father was played by Hubert Babinski, his daughter by Shirley Zylan. Buckley Dunston, the bride-to-be's fiance, was portrayed by Andrew Robell. Mrs. Banks was played by Janet Martz, while Ben, Kay's brother, was played by Peter Rodler and Tommy, another brother, by Llew Pritchard. The stage manager of this fine production was Shelly Yassky.

The club is directed by Miss Randall. The group is made up of Juniors and Seniors who work together to bring to the Hempstead stage top Broadway plays. However, not only the students, but the faculty starred this year. In "Goodbye My Fancy" teachers as well as students portrayed the various roles and produced a smash hit. The student leads were Liz Hillman and Denise Dussol.

Before leaving the theatre we should give a hand to all of the back stage crew. We always look forward to the excellent productions of this dramatics club.

of this popular club, which is composed of junior and senior commercial girls. For many years students have been going into business fields after graduation, but only for the last five years have they had the chance to join this club, whose main purpose is to see that the members have a chance to broaden their knowledge of the many business fields.

The program was based mainly on two types of meetings. These were of a professional nature as well as social. At the professional meetings the members tried to learn more about business and commercial operations. This was done by having discussions among the members and having speakers give talks, explaining how and why different business fields operate. The social meetings included a Christmas party, a Valentine's Day party, a picnic, and a trip to New York City to see the musical comedy, "Wish You Were Here."

The officers of this year's club included Joan Dignoti, president; Rosemary Thomas, vice-president; Monica Testini, secretary; and Barbara Krupa, treasurer. The club's advisor was Miss Silver.

There are many details to be taken care of in running a school. Daily the twenty-four students on the Office 5 squad do their part in making our school tick. Their many chores include sending out notices, alphabetizing and filing various papers. The squad members also have opportunities for making many new acquaintances, because showing new students through the school is another of their interesting jobs.

All work and no play make Johnny a dull boy, but don't worry, these kids take time off from their work and engage in social activities. On December 19 they had a bang-up Christmas party, which everyone enjoyed. A mountain of cake, ice cream, soda, cookies, and candy really piled up in Office 5 that day.

Last year Office 5 was divided into four capacious rooms. One occupied by Mrs. Walter, the school psychologist; the second by Mr. Prah; another by Mr. Pill; finally the large outer reception room which is occupied by Miss Ronnerman and Miss Merrick.

The membership of this squad is not limited to any one class, for there are freshmen, sophomores, juniors, and seniors on it. This year the chief, chosen by Miss Ronnerman and Mr. Pill, was Suzanne Thomas.

JUNIOR-SENIOR SCIENCE CLUB

FRESHMAN- SOPHOMORE SCIENCE CLUB

Mr. A. Franklin Faust, the advanced science club enjoyed a profitable and successful year. The Junior-Senior group, taking up where it left off in the past, probed the mysteries of Physics and Chemistry.

In addition to studying specialized equipment, the members took part in discussion groups and viewed films. These included features about the telephone and light refraction and reflection. At their monthly meeting the boys discussed subjects pertinent to their courses. For instance, they discussed the pros and cons of the slide rule in the classrooms.

Early in the year, officers were chosen for this upperclass group. Richard Leidy, who has been a member of the group for two years, served as the leader of this group of future scientists. Carrying out the vice-presidential chores was Don Johnson, while handling the important posts of secretary and treasurer were Bob Sterenbush and Bob Branford, respectively.

The high school student's first steps in the field of science are like a baby's first feeble attempts at walking. It's all very thrilling for these young pioneers to open the door to the fascinating new world of science. Mr. Kenneth Lawson led these newcomers down the first path into the strange new world.

The programs for their meetings were planned by the members themselves. They chose programs which would be both interesting and enjoyable. For instance, they invited Frank Brown, a Hempstead High School graduate, to show them the principles of short wave. He brought with him many pieces of equipment and established contact with several points of interest.

The able handling of the presidential post was taken over by Larry Spiro with Bob Martinez assisting. Pat Cabble, as secretary, took the minutes, while Ray Babineau held the purse-strings.

JUNIOR RED CROSS

Mrs. Bowen finds herself among some very conscientious students, who, together, form one of Hempstead High's most valuable organizations—the Junior Red Cross Council. This council helps those children here and abroad who cannot get aid from other agencies. Late in 1953 these girls collected articles that are scarce overseas, such as pencils, toothpaste and brushes, and needles, with which they filled boxes to be sent to Europe.

We all know how happily these boxes were received, and the good feeling they promote toward the United States.

During the year, collections were made throughout the school by the Junior Red Cross, the proceeds of which were sent to hospitals all over the country.

Presiding over the junior-senior council this year were Joan Finn, president; Jane Hooker, secretary; and heading the sophomore group were Joan Facey, president, and Joan Arlt, secretary.

Behind the scenes at our cafeteria,

we find a large staff of workers engaged in a variety of activities. The staff is composed of six women who work full-time and sixteen students on a part-time basis.

Anyone interested in applying for cafeteria work has to see Mr. Tobani, who checks with their advisors as to their marks and all-around capability. The duties of the squad members are dishwashing, cashiering, stocking goods in the storeroom and refrigerator, and acting as general assistants in the kitchen.

The women workers in the cafeteria have been with Hempstead High on the average of six years. The cook has been with the cafeteria for twenty-three years. Mr. Tobani has served as a capable manager for the last eight years. The staff has the responsibility of feeding approximately sixteen hundred students per day over a span of five periods.

Last spring the cafeteria received a new addition—a dishwashing machine which has proved invaluable as a time-saver, while other new equipment has been added from time to time.

Our sincere appreciation goes to the women for the fine food they prepare and to the boys for help in making lunch time a pleasant break in the school day.

CAFETERIA SQUAD

The "Hams" of Hempstead who formed the new Radio Club, have literally put themselves on the map. In the club room on the third floor, the radio-minded fans met this year for the first time in two years and in the short span of ten months, made up for lost time.

The main objective of these students was to get the "Ham" or amateur radio station operating. The club has a licensed station and the members worked to fix the short wave transmitter so they could send messages. At the regular meetings, the members studied the radio code and learned to decipher messages.

Mr. Lind was the advisor and he helped to solve any problems that arose. Bruce Blower, president; William Olsen, vice-president; and Jay Fisher, treasurer, were the club's officers.

Our best wishes go to this new club—we are sure it will prosper.

No more pencils, no more books? That could never be the case at Hempstead High School, due to the efforts of the eighteen members of the Blue and White corner staff. We are able to obtain virtually all of our school supplies at this familiar landmark.

There are many important jobs other than that of the actual selling behind the counter. The managers of the various departments are: display, Robert Dowler; credit, Harry Hyland; buyer, Anthony De Riggi; bookkeeping, Robert Hanna; and last but certainly not least is the general cashier, James Pullar.

We all join the staff in their hope for larger quarters next year for the Blue and White Corner. Then, under the able leadership of Mr. Davidson, they'll be able to give us even better service, which really doesn't seem possible!

The Pre-Nursing Club, which is now in its fourth year of existence at Hempstead High, has increased tremendously in membership and in interest since its organization. Under the capable guidance of advisor Mrs. Marsden, president Barbara Farley, secretary Jeanette Shaw, and treasurer Adrienne Guiffre of the Junior-Senior group, conduct the meetings. The Freshman-Sophomore group is presided over by president Virginia Brady, veep Millie Cabble, secretary Jane Kaufman, and treasurer Arline Lesser.

During the year, the girls visited St. Catherine's Hospital in Brooklyn, Mt. Sinai and St. Vincent's Hospitals in New York City, Mary Immaculate Hospital in Jamaica, and the Meadowbrook Hospital open house at Adelphi College. The girls compare these hospitals so that they can decide in which one they would eventually like to work.

Other activities of the club this past year included a trip to the Cerebral Palsy foundation in Roosevelt, a trip to New York City, and a picnic. In addition to this, the Junior-Senior group has heard many speakers, in preparation for the nursing aptitude test which all young hopefuls must take.

Most commendable of the achievements of these enthusiastic young girls is the volunteer work which they do in local hospitals as nurses aides.

Basking under the southern sun and swimming in clear blue water is the ideal way to spend the winter. But if you can't do that, join the Spanish Club and get a touch of Latin America right here in Hempstead.

Under the able guidance of advisor, Miss Ignelzi, the meetings were conducted, largely in Spanish, by president Alexander Wells, veep Margie Stanton, secretary Jane Gunther, and treasurer Llewelyn Pritchard.

The club took a trip to New York City, where they saw a Spanish film, and dined at the Spanish restaurant "El Fundador."

The highlight of the year's activities was the feast of Los Reyes Magos, celebrated by a Christmas party, Spanish style, complete with decorations, refreshments, carols, and the Christmas story in Spanish, and of course, the traditional piñata.

The club plans to buy a year's subscription to the Spanish edition of Life Magazine. They felt that by placing current Spanish literature in the library, it would allow all students interested to keep abreast of the current events of our Pan American neighbors.

SPANISH CLUB

The "dead" language, Latin, is far from being on its last legs in Hempstead. How could it die when it's supported by the popular Latin club? Supervised by Miss Mabel Winter, this group has climbed to a place of prominence among school organizations.

A good part of the group's popularity is due to its varied and interesting programs. Several trips to the city were enjoyed by the members. They saw two "hit shows": "New Faces of 1952" and "Time Out for Ginger."

But the group didn't have to go to New York to have a good time. There were refreshments and entertainment at every meeting, the latter being supplied by the members themselves. They also played games such as Charades and "Beat the Clock," in which a contestant must perform a stunt within a minute's time.

As they have done in the past, the members sold Christmas cards to obtain one hundred dollars for their annual scholarship. The scholarship is awarded to the senior with the most outstanding grades, who has done most in service for the club. Last year the award went to Gail Moore.

The First Consul or president was Carole Kappeler, who was aided by Robert Palmer, Second Consul. The position of Scriba was held by Luise Steinbrenner while Sylvia Vaughan was Quaestor or treasurer.

FRENCH CLUB

it's a meeting of Le Cercle Francais. The only requirement of this club is that you take French II, III, or IV.

The members had an interesting year learning more about France, listening to talks, and discussions, and engaging in activities which made the meetings profitable. The members learned more about life in France through the presence in the club of John Bulyez, formerly of Paris, France; and about Belgium through Maria Van Doren, formerly of Belgium. Both had much to tell about their lives in the countries they recently came from. Mr. Baker and Mr. Menza had many things to tell of the European trips they took this summer. Aside from the talks, discussions and regular meetings, the members also had several special meetings, which included a Christmas party.

Each year awards are given to the students who receive the highest marks on the French II and III June regents. Last year's winners were Michael Kornfield, Shalom Schwartz, and Andrew Robell in French II and Gail Guterman in French III.

This year's officers were: Luise Steinbrenner, president; Vera Barad, vice-president; Gail Guterman, secretary; and Andrew Robell, treasurer. Mrs. Young and Mr. Menza were the advisors.

"Der Deutsche Verein," better known as the German Club is one of the most popular of the language clubs. Under the amiable guidance of Fraulein Gunther, Herr Leusch, and Frau Schiff these students spend many enjoyable hours conversing in German, listening to German music, and studying the culture of Germany.

At the past meetings the club members saw a film called "Bavarian Alps" and held many spelling bees. Of all the German games played, the spelling bees were most popular. Not only do they provide a lot of fun, but they also help the classwork of the members. At one meeting Mr. Menza gave a very interesting talk on "The Experiment in International Living" and the students were quite impressed.

The annual Christmas Party was an event eagerly anticipated by both the club and classes. The students entered the girls' gym in large groups and rapidly pitched in, helping with refreshments and entertainment. A most enjoyable hour was spent participating in square dances called by Mr. Fred Franz. When Mr. Franz left, Arlene Nickel took over the calling. Between dances, refreshments brought by volunteers were passed out by a committee. Short skits by the club members followed the refreshments. The large crowd, numbering approximately ninety members, expressed their keen enjoyment.

A trip to well-known Yorkville, a German colony in mid-Manhattan, stirred even more interest among the club members. A German movie at the 86th Street Casino Theater and then browsing around various stores took up the afternoon. This was followed by a visit to a travel bureau where the students asked numerous questions in German and received answers in that language. They were quite surprised at the many facts which they learned about the West German Republic. After their minds were sufficiently filled with facts and figures, the students went to satisfy their now empty stomachs with wonderful German food in a typical German restaurant. Then homeward bound, each member's thoughts went over the day's events and each relaxed after the wonderful excursion.

While still in its organizational stages, the club thought it a good idea to have a committee prepare a program for each meeting so as not to lack things to do. Then a different committee was appointed for every meeting. At the end of the year a prize will be given to the persons presenting the best program. In groups from three to six people the committees tried their best to outdo the other. This provided an enjoyable time for everyone concerned. Special credit should be given to Ralph Delligatti and Richard Crean who worked with every committee and gave their fullest support to the Christmas party. A favorite of the club was singing "Schnitzelbank." Legh Burns, one of the club's most talented musicians was always nominated to lead the singing. "Schnitzelbank" is a sort of question-answer quiz in song form. This song provided a continuous source of enjoyment for all. The wind-up of the season for all the members will soon take place with a gala picnic at Hempstead Lake State Park.

The club also had the privilege of entertaining Marion Wasilewski, a student from Dortmund, Germany. Her trip to the United States was sponsored by the Herald Tribune and she was the guest of our Student Council. At a German Club tea given in her honor, Marion told the members about her school life at the Goethe-Gymnasium in Dortmund.

Because of the large membership in the German Club, it had to be split into two organizations; the ninth period group for the juniors, seniors, and freshmen who end school the eighth period, and the eleventh period group for the sophomores and frosh who finish school the tenth period or have an eleventh period study hall. The officers are: ninth period: President, Elaine Menninger; vice-president, Eileen Mifsud; secretary, Elizabeth Mueller; and treasurer, Donald Taylor. Eleventh period: President, Gerald Denninger; vice-president, Howard Herbert; secretary, Erika Kneirim, and treasurer, Virginia Wunsch.

MARCHING BAND ENTOURAGE

and a roar from the crowd, means only one thing, "The Marching Band" is coming.

Leading Hempstead High School's parade, stepping high and gay, are those two lovely gals, Nancy Novarine and Carlotta Paetow, our drum majorettes. Next in line on the football field we find the Girls' Color Guard, a main feature of our band show. Looking proud and tall in their trim gold and white uniforms, these girls, chosen by Miss Boyle, march down the field, ahead of our band, bearing "Old Glory" and the Hempstead High School blue and white banner. This year's group, composed of Rosemary Thomas, Marty Oman, Inky Mollersten, Helen Gagag, Janet Stubbs, Helen Kramer, Nancy Watson and Betty Sachleben, captained by Charlotte Oakwood, have done an excellent job.

Not far behind them come the elite of Hempstead's Twirlers—experts in their field. These girls are captained by Lynne Horsfield and Roberta Shell. The grace with which they perform is truly eye-catching. We have three groups of twirlers this year: the Junior, Senior, and Fire Twirlers. As we watch them in a parade, some of us may think that what the girls are doing is easy. However, we know how much time they spend practicing and improving their art. Throughout the season the girls performed with their silver batons to such musical numbers as "Honeysuckle Rose" and "Dixieland Band."

The Glockenspiel Girls added a beautiful bell tone with their playing of these numbers. These able musicians can be seen performing at every home football game. The girls are chosen from the better musicians who practice, daily, these unique instruments in our band box. Suzanne Lillicrap was captain of the sixteen girls that took part in the band show. Miss Fost, a cadet teacher from Potsdam College, coached the girls under the guidance of Miss McQueen. Because of the girls' splendor and novelty, they were given a solo part at each game. Playing at the Hofstra Spring Festival, the Memorial Day Parade and the opening of Jones Beach were among the activities planned for the year.

The high-stepping Tigerettes of Hempstead, in their blue and white uniforms, add a colorful note to the bandshow as they march in this great spectacle. This year in addition to appearing at home games, they accompanied the band to the Polo Grounds and Wagner College. In order to qualify, a girl must be a junior or a senior and a member of the modern dance class.

Led by captain Janet Martz and co-captain Barbara Jean Scott, they danced to "Honeysuckle Rose" and "Swanee." After many hours of practice to gain the precision for which they are so well known, Mrs. Tobin's girls were well rewarded, for they were cheered and applauded at every performance. The girls who are Tigerettes this year should be proud indeed for the popularity that they have gained.

The Cheerleaders with their powerful T-E-A-M, are seen at the end of the parade. Leading the stands in many rousing cheers, they always brought encouragement to the teams as well as the student body, and justifiable so for their pep and vivaciousness added much to each football game. The co-captains of this year's varsity group were Gail Anderson and Pauline Plender. Accompanying the band to the Polo Grounds and to Wagner College were some of the many activities carried on this year. Congratulations to Miss Rosen and the girls for a job well done.

The band show has for its theme this year a showboat. This spectacle has been enthusiastically presented at the football games with great success. Because of the fine work done, all the girls had the privilege of taking part in the filming of the band show by Paramount Studios. It was rewarding indeed, not only to the members of the show, but to Hempstead High as a school, to be scouted by this famed studio and chosen as the leader in high school band shows to be filmed and shown in theatres throughout the country.

At the end of this year, as in previous years, the band show of our wonderful school will furnish ever-lasting memories to all of us.

Football's varsity coach, Bob Scheuss-

ler, after 3 weeks of hard work, readied his Bengals for their '52 inaugural with a good Lawrence squad which was to be followed by many rough opponents. The Tigers were out to gain another Triple A championship. The team wanted to better last year's record of seven wins and one loss. With all its effort, Hempstead repeated with seven wins and one loss, bowing to Mephram, who went undefeated and won the Triple A championship.

Lawrence proved very rough but the Hub Tigers managed to come out on top with a 12-6 score. The Tigers then met head on with powerful Mephram High. After a truly grueling battle, Hempstead went down to a 12-6 defeat. On an uphill struggle, Hempstead topped Sewanhaka 19-7. The Tigers just couldn't be stopped after this game. From there, they went on to Beat Baldwin (20-0), Freeport (33-7), Mineola (18-9), Valley Stream (26-0), and Glen Cove (34-14). The 34-14 win over Glen Cove gave us possession of the "Chapman Memorial Bell" for the third year in a row. The Sewanhaka victory gave us the "Friendship Cup" in the first year of its existence.

Coach Scheussler, assisted by Bob Keenan and Al Voorhies, must be complimented on their fine job of rounding out a comparatively light squad into such an excellent outfit and leading them on to a fine record.

Co-captains Charles (Buddy) Dreitlein, Gary Dorns, and John Junda, all played prominent roles this year for the Blue and White. The team was well set with Buddy Dreitlein and Bob Richardson at the ends. From tackle to tackle we found Josh Margiotta, Herbie O'Rourke, Jerry Ryan, and Bob Pohalski. In the center spot was big John Arsell. Adrian (Boots) Butash called signals at quarterback, while the half-backs, John Junda and George (Little Willy) Stevenson and fullback Roosevelt (Sonny) King ran the ball. Gary Dorns, rated as one of the best defensive men on the Island, was well assisted by George (Doc) Docteroff. Dreitlein and Dorns, because of stellar performances, gained positions on the All-Scholastic squad—Dreitlein, first string and Dorns, second string.

Highlights of the year included a nip and tuck struggle with Mephram. The Tiger line held the free scoring visitors to a mere 12 points. Tiger linesman Bob Pohalski did a superb job holding down Mephram's pile-driving sophomore, fullback Bill Sandie. Trick plays were used to great advantage at various times during the season. One of these was a point after touchdown play, in which place-kicker Dorns would take a boot and instead pass to one of his glue-fingered ends. Another occurred when Dreitlein, back to punt on a fourth down, ran instead.

At a meeting near the end of the season, the players voted for the '53 co-captains. Adrian Butash, Josh Margiotta, and George Stevenson were elected.

Thus, the curtain fell on another successful season at Hempstead High School. Hopes are strong that next year's team will be as fine as the '52 club was. There is plenty of reason to believe it will be so, because there will be quite a brigade of returning lettermen, many of whom played first string, and a host of prospects up from the J. V. and Freshman teams. We at Hempstead High are confident that with this combination, our Tigers will climb to the top of the heap, and be champions again.

off Mineola, Westbury, Mephram, Central, Freeport, and Sewanhaka before losing to Baldwin 58-43. They came back to beat Mineola, just to lose to Chaminade. Then came the winning streak, beating Mephram, Central, Long Beach, Freeport, Lawrence and Sewanhaka. Baldwin again put a halt to the drive, this time 51-48. The Sewanhaka victory already earned them their way into the playoffs. In the first game they met Malverne, Section II champs, and won 41-39. On March 13 they battled Port Washington for the County Championship. With the championship slipping away in the final minutes of the game, the Tigers woke up and moved to win 46-42. They were the champs. Their record at the end of the season was 17 wins and 3 losses.

Chief Benner's key players were captain Bob Richardson, Gary Dorns, Harold Kennedy, Don Meddis, Homer Piakis, and Bud Dreitlein.

Congratulations to the Champs!

Batter up! As the '52 baseball season opened, veteran coach Bob Schuessler said his aim was to build a team for '53. The team with 7 wins, 8 losses and 1 tie, ended in fifth place.

Hempstead started like a house on fire by beating Freeport three straight games. Trying not to let up, they beat Baldwin 8-4 and 7-1. The third game with Baldwin resulted in a 6-6 tie that couldn't be broken because of darkness. Their troubles then started by losing three games to Mepham. They continued their losing streak by dropping two games to Valley Stream 6-3 and 4-0 but snapped the disaster, when they took the third game from Valley Stream 2-0. Sewanhaka's winning of the first and third games by scores of 10-1 and 4-0, didn't help Hempstead, even though they won the middle game 7-1. Hempstead finished the season by losing to Lawrence 7-3.

The infield was well set defensively with Mike Ricigliano at first base, Lou Petta at second, Tommy Santoro at third, and Jerry Ryan at short stop. Dave Hawks, Buddy Dreitlein, and Richie Wright, when not pitching, rounded out the outfield. All-Scholastic Dick Martin was very busy catching Kenny Rossano, Don Hinrich, Hal Kennedy and Tom Forbes.

With the ground work laid in '52, the team's prospects for '53 are considerably brighter.

The voice over the public address system droned on, "All candidates for spring track report to the boys' locker room after your last class." Dozens of sleepy heads popped up. This was the announcement they had been waiting for.

That day veteran track coach Paul Krause looked over the hopefuls. Things didn't look too bright, as most of last year's, better than fair, team had graduated. However, a few lettermen had returned. Among these veterans were sprinters Vic Moore and Silvio Meola; half milers Bob Dowler and Frank Shughrue; miler Joe Gorman; high jumpers Lex Gay, Charlie Blythewood and Dick Shipley; pole vaulters Gary Glier and Charles Skinas; and Ray Udri in the shot-put.

Two weeks of wind-sprints, time trial and plain old-fashioned hard work prepared the team for the first meet of the year, with Sewanhaka. Overcoming a noticeable weakness in the running events, the Tigers eked out a 56-48 victory, by swamping the Indians in the field. The next week saw Central beaten 62-42. The year's big meet against Mephram was rained out, greatly disappointing the boys who had planned to upset the undefeated Mephramites. In the last three meets of the season the boys convincingly trounced Baldwin, Freeport, and Lawrence. Thus the Tigers finished their dual meet season with an undefeated record.

Hempstead went on to win additional honors in the South Shore, Nassau County and Sectional Meets. Dick Shipley and Charles Blythewood both scored in the state championships.

TRACK TEAM

RIFLE TEAM

Our enterprising rifle team has lived up to its predecessor's records and ideals. Beginning the season slowly, they came up from fifth place at the start of the year to second place in the county league. After a close meet with Mineola, the marksmen improved slowly but surely.

As everyone knows, the coach contributes in great measure to the success of a team, and the rifle team is no exception. Mr. Voorhies has been coaching our championship teams for many seasons now, and we think that he deserves a large part of the credit.

Our team took first place in the S. S. A. L. and also first and second places in the Section Eight shoot off. The high men in the sectionals were Anderson, Hess, and Walsleben.

Mephram, Central, and Hempstead got into a three-way tie for first position in the county league. The tie was broken by a shoot-off in which Central took the shot with 902 against Hempstead's 898 and Mephram's 885.

The first string, captained by Jim Andersen, turned out some of the best scores of the season in the league. Bruce Corrie, Ken Outwater, Jim Andersen and Ron Hess led the team, backed up by Ed Bing, Walt Kilian, Bob Bennett, Dick Schaefer, Ed Grimm and John Peters.

Three of our Varsity riflemen have been selected for the All-Scholastic Rifle Team of 1953. Ken Outwater and Ron Hess have been chosen, and Bruce Corrie as the captain of the All-Scholastic team.

The team has exceeded their coach's expectations by turning in a very good season. Mr. Voorhies is looking forward to next year's team very hopefully and we all hope that it will keep up the good work.

opened the 1952 season by losing the first three matches by close scores, they finished with a 2-6 record. Their first victory was a hard fought match against Baldwin, which ended with a 3-2 score. Their other win was a 4-1 trouncing over Oceanside.

Don Arnaud, Bill Rapp, Roger Beck, Charles Lutz, Don Bostwick, Ken Outwater and the Squires brothers, Danny and John, composed the team.

Highlights of the season included Don Arnaud's crushing 6-1 and 6-2 victory over Carl Hirschman from Malverne, Bill Rapp's victory over Lawrence's Pete Jacobs 6-1, 7-5, and the undefeated doubles team of the Squires boys.

Good luck to the tennis team in '53.

BOYS' BOWLING

Hempstead's bowling history, the 1952-1953 Tiger keglers swept to the SSAL section B crown. At the time of the next to last match of the season, the team led the league by a scant two points over Valley Stream. The Tigers had the alternative of winning or relinquishing first place and probably the title. However, the Tigers not only defeated Valley Stream 5-0 to clinch the crown, but set two records in the process. In the final game they totaled 937, an average of 188 pins per man. Captain Ray Plawski led the league with his blistering 189 average. At this writing, hopes are high for winning the Section 8 Championship at Huntington.

pleted another excellent year with 8 wins and 2 losses, thus keeping up with our strong golf teams of past years. The returning veterans coached by Mr. Faust, built a fine team led by Bob Van De Water, Paul Kanzler and George Cosgrove. Ray Plawski, Benny Klemanowicz, Dick Bourns, Fred Barth and Phil Efthimion made up the rest of the team.

Hempstead's both losses were at the hands of Lawrence, by the identical score of 3-2. The second match with Lawrence produced several interesting events and upsets. Van De Water defeated Sidel for the first time in two years. Cosgrove went 20 holes before finally being defeated.

BOYS' RIDING

words are uttered Thursday afternoons by the numerous members of the Boys' Riding Club. If you need proof of horseback riding popularity, just ride down to the Fisher Riding Academy and see some of the boys having a fine time for themselves. The boys learn most of the tricks to the art of riding under the instruction of Mr. Schaedel. If any boy plans to become a jockey, this is a good place to learn the fundamentals of the business. While the boys enjoy themselves, they receive as added inducement, special rates. Despite the near-disappearance of the horse, riding is still a favorite sport in this machine age.

Although little was expected of it, the cross-country team had a highly successful season, defeating four of the six teams it faced.

CROSS COUNTRY

The main reason for this success was Doug Smith. Competing for the first time in cross-country, Doug, who runs sprints during the track season, won the South Shore and Nassau County titles, and came in second in the Sectionals.

The return of Doug, along with Dick Cheshire and Armond Fiorenza, practically assures us a fine team next year.

Congratulations are in order for Mr. Krause and the members of the year's edition of the Hempstead High Cross-Country team.

after winning its second straight championship. Coach Bob Keenan and Captain Frank Noonan were proud as they ended with a 9-1 record. After topping South Side 13-1, they lost to Long Beach 4-1. Then came the 8 game winning streak, to win the championship.

Hempstead pulled two tremendous highlights. Al Coleman opened the season by pitching a no-hitter against South Side. In the third inning, against Baldwin, Junda got the ball, then threw it to Noonan who in return sent it to Behan for a triple play.

Richardson's .500 batting average and Al Coleman's average of striking out 7 men per game, proved to be the big factors in winning. With several lettermen returning, the team is assured of another championship.

J. V. FOOTBALL

J. V. football in '52 were lacking in experience. Under the able guidance and coaching of Mr. George Wilson, a very successful team was formed. With their willingness to give all they had, they chalked up a record of five wins and three losses.

In their debut against Lawrence the play was very close all the way, but they proved the victors by winning 7-0. The J. V.s easily shellacked Glen Cove for their second straight victory 22-7. Hempstead then ran into powerful Mepham and Sewanhaka dropping both games, but returned strongly to beat Baldwin 14-0. The Freeport game was close, but the boys came out on top, 13-6. After losing to Mineola 18-13, Hempstead highlighted the season by pouring it on for a 39-7 rout over Valley Stream. This topped off one of the J. V.'s finest seasons in quite a few years.

Outstanding players on this year's team were Jimmy Stevens, Charlie Munn, Bill Becker, Warren Mays, Clyde Butler, Frank Molter, and Mel Young in the backfield. In the line, Ed Suchan, Jon Cheshire, George Ruckersfeldt, Bob Maynard, Karl Reisterer, Deam Demacos, and Connie Heinzerling were stars.

worth their weight as football players, coming through with 5 wins and 3 losses under the coaching of Tord Beck.

Getting off to a poor start by losing to Lawrence 26-0, they bounced back, though, by winning the next two against Massapequa and Mephram, 19-6 and 21-6 respectively. They were then halted by Sewanhaka 13-7. They won their first game on the road by beating Baldwin 21-6. The Freeport Red Devils tried to stop them, but walked into a blank wall by losing 12-0. The Mineola team never showed up to play, thus giving the boys their fifth and final win of the season. They played their last game on the road against Valley Stream and lost 19-6.

In the eyes of the team, Robert Overton, who played quarterback, was the "Most Valuable Player." Fred Williams and Robert Oleksiak were the team's best ground gainers. The back field wouldn't have been as effective if it had not been for the blocking of Joe Mosley, Joe Chicco, Rice Cusack and the others in the line. The defensive team was built mostly around Andy Vanvakaris.

After its first year as an inter-scholastic sport in Hempstead, wrestling returned to the ranks of intramural athletics. This was brought about because of the conflicting schedule of last year's coach, Mr. Tord Beck.

On Monday, Wednesday, and Friday, ten to fifteen boys met in the gym after school to wrestle for their own enjoyment. Mr. Franz announced that the sport was opened to any boys who wished to wrestle.

Returning from last year's squad are George Carlucci, who acts as director, Vincent Murtha and John Squires.

Inter-scholastic wrestling in the future is still in doubt, but when a coach is available it will return.

A group of determined youngsters, who had just concluded their pre-season practice, set out to bring the Hub a record better than that of last year's team.

J. V. BASKETBALL

After a 35 point romp over Westbury, the Tigers suffered two consecutive defeats at the hands of Lawrence and Mineola, respectively. A return win against Westbury was soon followed by another two point loss to Mephram. From that point on up to the season's end our boys were unbeatable and steamrolled over every team they faced, including revenge triumphs over Mineola, Mephram, and Lawrence.

Credit must be given to coach Donald Francis and his boys for turning in such a fine record.

Webster defines a championship squad as one that is packed with courage and spunk and never gives up. Unfortunately it also takes that indefinable something called luck. With a little more of that we might have seen a championship Freshman Basketball team at Hempstead High.

Although now, with a small slice of the season left, the Tigers Cubs seem a cinch for second, with nine wins and three losses.

With a solid nucleus of Charles Powell, Robert Overton, Frank Monterio, Frank Daily and Jim Turnbull the boys from the Hub have racked up five straight wins. Congratulations are in order for coach John Mills and his boys.

Remember last year's Greek Games

or class night? If you do, I'm sure you will never forget the stunning performances of the dancers. These graceful and imaginative dancers are all members of Hempstead High's Modern Dance club and the creative dance classes.

Each year, the girls select a god or goddess to whom they wish to dedicate their dances to. This year, their choice was Prometheus and Pandora.

Every girl in the one modern dance classes is eligible for membership in the club. These girls must possess dancing ability, creative talent, and must be willing to give up much of their after-school time for practicing. In order to make their performances on class night and in Greek Games as successful as they have always been, the dancers must devote hours of hard, tiring practice. Great stamina and endurance are required of these girls.

The club members are under the leadership of Mrs. Tobin. She patiently assists them with the choreography and coaches them in their dances.

This year, Gail Anderson served as President of the club and Janice Ratchelous as vice-president.

We are all looking forward to seeing these girls in action again next year.

Encouraging, instructing and learning; these words sum up accurately and completely the work of the gym aides. While instructing the girls in the ways of fair play, co-operation and competitive spirit, they gain a sense of leadership. To those looking for a Physical Education job in the future this is important.

Encouraging participation in various sports, they themselves gain self-assurance. Learning the technique of teaching, of course, is an extremely valuable asset. A general knowledge of in and out-of-door sports is required, or at least, the readiness to learn must be present.

Meetings are called when necessary. Here plans are discussed for the improvement of gym classes. Miss Mac is largely responsible for the fine participation of the girls she chooses. They are usually active in other school activities. This past year's group, comprised of sophomores, juniors and seniors, had Joan Thibodeau as their chief.

Many times being a gym aide proves advantageous to those who major in physical education. They have a helpful head-start toward a successful career. Naturally, personality is a necessary factor to the gym aide and good grooming is a "must."

There are three or four girls assisting in each class and their duties vary. One girl, acting as secretary, keeps an accurate account of the attendance and makeups, while another has charge of the equipment. Their reward is a deep sense of satisfaction of assisting in the development of healthy and wholesome youth. In addition to this, 25 credits toward a letter are allotted at the end of the year.

The highly competitive Round Robin Tournament is looked forward to by all the girls. Matches or a series of three games are held. The winners of each match must win two out of three games played. The second highest scorers were Loretta Silberman and Carole Masing.

major league game, fans gathered at Great Neck, where many of Long Island's top teams had assembled for the annual playday.

This event climaxed the weeks of practice and anticipation. Irene Butterworth and Helen Cochrane leading this year's junior-senior honor teams, coached by Miss MacCallum, battled it out for top honors. Irene's team, after gaining this victory, united with Helen's and under heavy competition defeated Manhasset by the decisive score of 16-12.

One of the most popular sports for girls is bowling. This year the group, which is composed of sophomores, juniors, and seniors, was headed by Lois Wetzel. The club's annual tournament was held at the Hempstead Recreation Center. Competition was keen and high scorers were soph Barbara Ferris and senior Lois Wetzel. The sophomores won the tournament with two games out of three.

Pins will be awarded to these able bowlers. The advisors for this active group are Miss Rowles and Miss Silver.

dust! This isn't the Lone Ranger and Tonto, but a group of equally lively girls from Hempstead High's advance riding class. The girls meet on Wednesday afternoons and proceed to the Mayfair Riding Academy, where Miss Prediger helps them perfect their horsemanship and enjoy themselves. Theresa Konchalski is president of the club's twenty-five girls. The weekly jaunt is taken through Hempstead Lake State Park.

One of America's best loved sports is badminton. No wonder many here in Hempstead enjoy the heavy competition.

This past year, top honors in the round-robin tournament went to Mary Schuman and Ann Ohland. Other awards went to Phyliss Rennebaum, Lillian Schlosser and Irene Butterworth. Best in singles were Mary Schuman, Joan Dawson, and Irene Butterworth. The junior-senior and freshman-sophomore girls were coached by Miss Mac and Mrs. Reicher, respectively.

Hempstead placed second at Great Neck's annual play day.

GREEK GAMES

days of old, the seventeenth presentation of Greek Games left, as always, its indelible memories. This annual event is looked forward to even before the actual planning, and all are eager to become a part of the vivid spectacle.

As the heralds stepped forward announcing the entrance of both Spartan and Athenian teams, a deep hush settled over the audience. Then, spurred on by her enthusiastic team, Ann Russo, Spartan, thundred across the floor voicing the challenge, accepted with equal vigor by the Athenians' Betty Kerr. The first event, hurdling, was given to Athenian Emily Moore for excellent form. In the discus, Betty Sachleben, Spartan, triumphed under heavy competition. Maie Ebrus led her hoop team to victory, another for the Athenians. Theresa Peran retaliated and the event was divided evenly. The ability of both teams to give and take was again illustrated by Lulu Dean's torch team. They won the first half of this racing event and Joyce Seaman's Spartans racked up the points by taking second. An announcement was made to the effect that the cover design had been won by Ann Hengstenberg, Athenian, whose team also took first place in the much coveted entrance and chariot design.

All were reminded of the serious side of the occasion with the dance "Forest Fantasy," presented in honor of Pan, god of the woods and fields, to whom the games were dedicated. Those featured in this spectacular presentation were: Edith Fenn, giving an excellent characterization of the great god Pan. Norma Roberts portrayed the goddess Echo and the weary traveller by Pat Leckie. The Glee Club lifted its voices in two well-chosen selections: "Pan" and "The Greek National Anthem." The inspiring "Invocation to Pan" given by Spartan Priestess Marilyn Peshkin was followed by the "Oath to Athletes," by Athenian Priestess, Pat Savarese.

The eagerly anticipated chariot exhibition was won by the Athenians. However, all agreed that both demonstrations deserved recognition for the high-stepping precision.

The final score, a decisive victory for the Athenians, was seventy to thirty. After the solemn wreath ceremony, both participants and spectators dispersed in a flood of mixed emotions.

Thus ended an exciting evening. Had you sat in the empty stands and surveyed the vacated floor, showing little evidence of past activities, perhaps you would have heard the faint shouts of victory, the muffled laughter, perhaps a few tears, echos of a past, but not forgotten Greek Games.

COACH BENNER RETIRES

A. Stanley Goodwin, Chairman of Nassau County Joint Basketball Committee, presents the Nassau County Championship Trophy to Coach Royal Benner.

AS Royal (Chief) Benner sat on the bench in Hofstra College gym and saw his under-rated five take the court against Port Washington for the Nassau County Basketball Championship, he was not only thinking about the game ahead of him, but also about announcing his retirement. When the ball was thrown into the air to start the game, Chief quickly put his mind on the game. The score was in favor of Hempstead most of the game, but late in the final quarter Port took a 41-38 lead. All-Scholastic Gary Dorns followed with one of his famous sets to close the gap to one point. After a one-hander by Hal Kennedy, the game was sewed up when Hal made four foul shots. At the buzzer the score was 46-42 and Chief made up his mind to retire.

Commenting on the sport, he said that the shifting of the emphasis to offensive playing, as opposed to defensive when he played, was the big change in the game. When asked why he retired, he answered, "I've had it long enough." He claims he would do it over again because he likes to work with young people. Chief extended his best wishes to John Mills, the new Varsity Basketball Coach of Hempstead High School.

HERE is a summary of the spring sports up-to-date:

The team, this year is captained by John Junda and John Newton. It is expected that they will win the championship for the fourth consecutive year.

Baseball: The baseball team, under Mr. Schuessler, after beating Baldwin 8-0 and 6-2 lost four in a row. With Mike Ricigliano as captain and leading hitter and Hal Kennedy and Tom Forbes as pitchers they can still come out on top of the league.

WHEN we walk from a cold, wintry day into a light, well-heated school, we can attribute these comforts to our school custodians. Instead of hall floors cluttered with papers, we find waxed, well-swept corridors.

In the beginning of the school year, when the freshmen have trouble with their lockers, the custodians come to their rescue.

Many school dramatic presentations would not be possible without their assistance in setting up the stage. Thus, we find that our school custodians play many and varied roles as they carry out their duties.

As the number of students in Hempstead High increases, the role of the custodian increases to make him a vital part in the functioning of our school.

MAINTAINING order at an exciting Hempstead football game is quite a job. To carry out this large order the boys Sports Patrol is on hand at every game. They do their best to maintain order in the stands and see to it that no one tries to enter the field without paying his admission. Keeping the spectators posted on the scores is another of their jobs.

Members of the Sports Patrol are not recruited, but volunteer their time to serve at our football games.

This year's captain, Dick Cheshire, was appointed by Mr. Nilsson, the patrol's advisor. With the help of these boys the comfort and enjoyment of the students and guests at our football games are assured.

"IKE"

ONE day last Fall, Hempstead High was buzzing with excitement. In a few minutes, General Eisenhower was to ride through the streets of Hempstead. Just before the scheduled time of his arrival, a special fire drill was called and students flowed from the school to await the appearance of "Ike" and his entire motorcade.

When Ike finally came into view, he was received with much cheering and applause. He gave everyone a smile and waved cheerfully.

What a thrill to see such a truly great man, who was later to become the thirty-fourth president of the United States.

FORD SCHOLARSHIP

FOR the second year in succession a Hempstead High School student has won the Ford Scholarship. In the early spring of 1952 Andrew Robell of West Hempstead was told that he might take the preliminary examination. He finished among the 200 finalists who are selected from the entire United States. Four universities—Columbia, Wisconsin, Chicago and Yale cooperate in the plan which furnishes tuition, all fees, and $500 toward maintenance for two years.

Mr. Paul L. Trump, Director of Admissions of Wisconsin, wrote to Andrew that he would be welcomed at Wisconsin with the entering fall class of 1952. But as Andrew was only a sophomore when he won, he decided to remain in Hempstead High for his junior and senior years.

SENIOR-FROSH DAY

The Winning Freshmen.

ON the last day of October, the halls seemed transformed into a colorful kindergarten. "Little girls" walked about dressed in knee socks, bibs, baby bonnets and carried an ample supply of lollypops to hand out to their "mams," the senior girls who were dressed in their best frilly aprons, large bows in their hair, and carried great dolls.

What caused all this excitement and fluttering about? Senior-Frosh day of course! This annual event is a time of enjoyment, and "officially" initiates the Freshmen girls into their new school.

The traditional party was held in the boys' gym and a wonderful time was had by all. Prizes were awarded and this year the following girls were chosen: Angela Filiberto was the cutest freshman; Barbara Bennet won the most original costume; Judy Riker had the prettiest hair and Marge Popken was selected the most typical frosh.

ONE of Hempstead High's most informal activities is the Senior "Old Clothes Day." A day dreaded by all Freshmen, Sophomores, and Juniors, to say nothing of the teachers, but a day looked forward to with joy by every senior. "Old Clothes Day" gives the seniors a chance to come to school in anything from torn dungarees to weird looking creations on their heads.

Activities, such as this one, just go to show that school is not all books and blackboards, and that everyone enjoys a little fun (even teachers). Not much school work was accomplished that day, but a good time was had by all—the seniors that is. Now don't fret lower classmen and Juniors, your time will come soon enough.

COMMENCEMENT

AS we excitedly wait at the doorway, ready to file into the great auditorium, our minds wander back into the past and we remember with a lump in our throats, the things our years in school have brought. We remember with amusement our first day of school when we were Freshmen, all the wrong things we did, and how embarrassed we were. Many of us can remember our first detention or perhaps the teacher who "hated me." With bursting pride we remember the time an honor was bestowed upon us and how proud we were when our friends stopped us in the hall to offer their congratulations. Still fresh in our minds is the day we received our class rings and how we did our best to make our hands conspicuous.

Suddenly we hear the music and we realize that the time has come at last! Holding our heads high we slowly walk down the aisle. Behind us is the happy past, ahead lies the bright future.

BOOK-ROOM

ONE of the most important rooms in our school is the one located between the nurse's office and the main library, the book-room. Under the direction of Mrs. Anderson, ably assisted by the girls who work in the library, numerous functions are performed.

The job most familiar to the average student is the lost-book service. When a student loses a book, he reports it to the book-room and if it is found it is returned to its owner. If it is not returned, the student may purchase a new copy from the book-room.

Very often one sees a couple of boys lugging a stack of books through the hall. The boys are probably coming from or going to the book room where all textbooks are stored. Through an efficient system each teacher is assured of getting the books when desired.

All books purchased for class-room use are stored in this room.

SANTA'S WORKSHOP

LOOK who's here. Santa Claus! But wait, he's not alone. There's joy, merriment and pleasure. They've all come with the same purpose in mind—to make sure all people have remembered to include them in their lives. Well Santa, don't you fear, Hempstead hasn't forgotten you and your gay companions. And of course, there comes the Spirit of Christmas. He looks pleased, and rightly so for every room, door, hall and person shows some sign of him.

Yes, Christmas this year was one of the best our students have ever seen. The Student Council was in charge of hall decorations. Every door was trimmed with yuletide decorations, and two huge Christmas trees occupied the corridors of our building.

The offices had some of the most beautiful decorations seen. One of the best rooms was Mrs. Foster's office which became Santa's workshop for the holidays.

OUR Music Department has again climbed into the nation-wide spotlight. Courtesy of Paramount Pictures, the band show was filmed as the first film in the "Pacemaker" series. This honor is in line with the program of the Music Department in as much as our music organization is one of the leading groups of its kind in the United States.

Early in the school year Paramount decided to give our Marching Band Entourage, Band and other musical groups a try-out. At one of our early home football games, officials of the corporation were on hand to view the show. Needless to say, they were impressed. The film was scheduled to be taken at another home game, but inclement weather upset the plans. The following week, however, the weather was beautiful and the show went off like clock work. Both Miss Boyle and Paramount were well pleased.

The film, a twenty minute short subject, was shown throughout the country and when it came to Hempstead, it drew a packed house. Hempstead had truly earned its place among the "Pacemakers" of our country.

OUR NEW ATHLETIC FIELD

HELP! Help! That was the cry of many of our students when they found themselves stuck in the mud on the new field. But there was little complaining and everybody learned to grin and bear it. With the ultimate goal finally in sight, the inconveniences were easily overlooked.

It had taken many years for us to get that far. Several years ago the voters of School District One decided to purchase the Ackley and Semke properties, adjacent to the school, for the athletic field. However, when a second bill authorizing work to begin was brought before the people, it was voted down. Then last year, after a vigorous campaign, the bill was approved, bids were received, and the work begun.

The football field will be moved from its present position to the south end of the field and the track will be enlarged to provide a 220 yard straightaway. In addition, there will be many other small fields for the use of gym classes and a girls' athletic field.

MARION WASIELEWSKI

ONE of the many visitors to Hempstead High this year was Marion Wasielewski, a student from Dartmund, Germany and winner of the New York Herald Tribune essay contest. Marion, a friendly girl of eighteen, was pleased with our school system. Her own school is not co-educational. In addition to Latin and French, Marion had eight years of English, which she spoke without any difficulty. When asked about the differences between her school and ours, Marion said that she thought hers was more difficult academically. She was required to take twelve major subjects or more every year! Hempstead High was only one of the many institutions she was going to visit. Next on her tour was Canada, followed by Washington, D. C., and finally Virginia.

We were happy to have her with us.

MISS SYBIL HAILLE

AMONG the many new members of the Hempstead High School faculty this year, is Miss Haille. On August 12, 1952, Miss Haille, under the auspices of the Fulbright Exchange, came to our school to take temporarily the place of Miss Margaret Beighley, who in turn is teaching our visitor's classes at Gordon Modern Secondary School for Girls in England.

Born in London, England, she was educated at Avery Hill College in that country. Aside from teaching, she directed an adult drama class there for six years.

Although Miss Haille has been in Hempstead High for a short time, she has made herself known through her classes and dramatic activities. She participated in the student-Faculty play, "Good-bye My Fancy," successfully playing the role of "Woody," the secretary.

In August of this year, Miss Haille will return to England to resume her former position. We sincerely hope that as a result of her year at Hempstead High, she will take back to her country many pleasant memories and a fuller understanding of our school system and our country.

Her visit here has enriched our school, for she has brought to many students and teachers not only a greater knowledge of England and its customs, but also a sparkling personality which has added to the delight of all.
