D E D I C A T I O N

You gaze back upon joys and sorrows which crown your many years of teaching accomplishment at Hempstead High. You reflect upon the many experiences and near tragedies that have occurred in chemistry lab. You remember all the festivities of Senior Weeks and Senior Balls of years past, and the toil necessary on your part, as Senior Advisor and advisor to the Senior Executive Council, to make these events such huge successes. You ponder . . .

And so to you—Harold Lints—the staff of the 1958 Colonial, in acknowledgment of your outstanding pedagogical career, proudly dedicates this yearbook.

IN APPRECIATION

For these past eight years the Colonial has been advised by a man who has given sincerely and enthusiastically of himself and his time towards the production of our yearbook. Through his able guidance the Colonial has consistently received first class ratings from the Columbia Scholastic Press Association.

We, the staff of the 1958 Colonial, wish to call deserving attention to our advisor—Robert Ayres—whose example to all of us as a teacher and friend has helped to bring out the best in us.

F O R E W O R D

Camera and film—magic words describing a magic industry. The industry is not confined to Hollywood, but is open to any group which has the camera, film, and ambition to record events on cellulose acetate.

Such a group is the Colonial Staff which endeavors to present the activities of Hempstead High in such a manner as Hollywood presents a western, mystery, or "tearjerker." Our cast of stars (all accessible for autographs) are you, the students and faculty of Hempstead.

The coming attractions of our production foretell of the feature players, the seniors; the co-feature players, the juniors, sophomores and freshmen; the directors, our beloved faculty; and the other players who have combined to make a school from cold, bare brick and mortar.

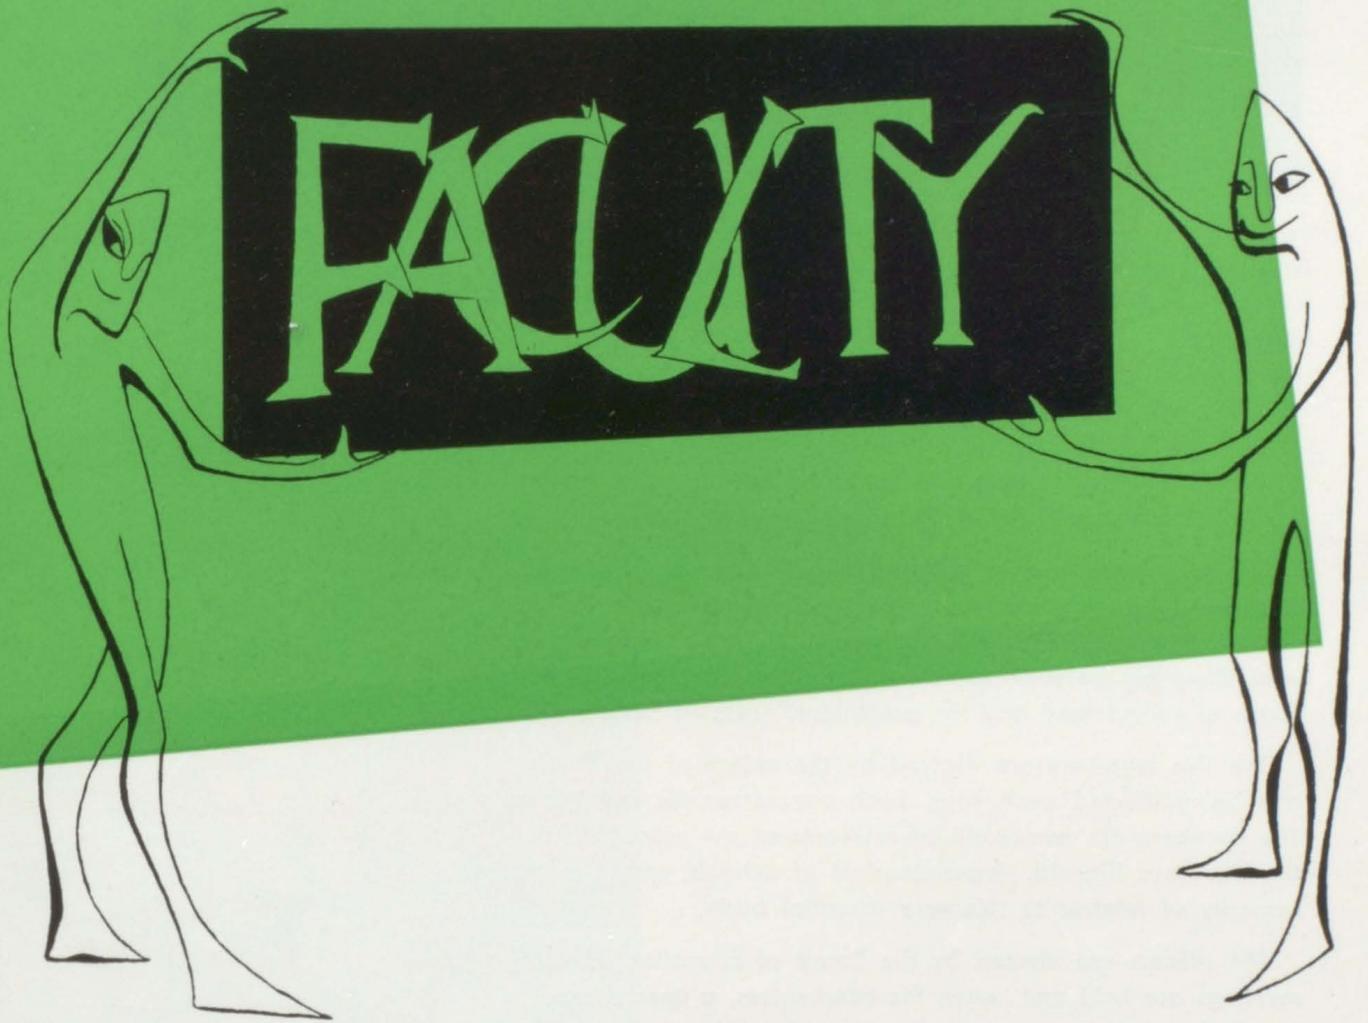

Thematically the Colonial depicts the movies. It is our hope that you, the reader, will receive as much enjoyment and as many remembrances as we, the Colonial Staff have from our production.

Board of Education

EVERYONE realizes that the Board of Education exists, but is he familiar with its functions and organization?

The main purpose of the Board of Education is to solve, in a fair and democratic manner, the problems and make the important decisions which arise in our school district during the year. They act on such matters as the school budget, the purchase of school land and the erection of the new buildings.

The five members are elected by the voters of our district, one being elected each year. Each one serves for five years. The members are composed of residents of our school district. Dr. W. Amos Kincaid, Superintendent of Schools, serves in the capacity of advisor to this very essential body.

The officers are elected by the Board of Education. Monthly meetings are held and, when the need arises, a special session is called.

Although many people are not aware of their diligent and constant efforts to improve and maintain our schools, our sincere thanks are extended to the Board of Education who have given of their time and energy so we may have a competent and efficient school system.

Superintendent of Schools

DR. W. AMOS KINCAID

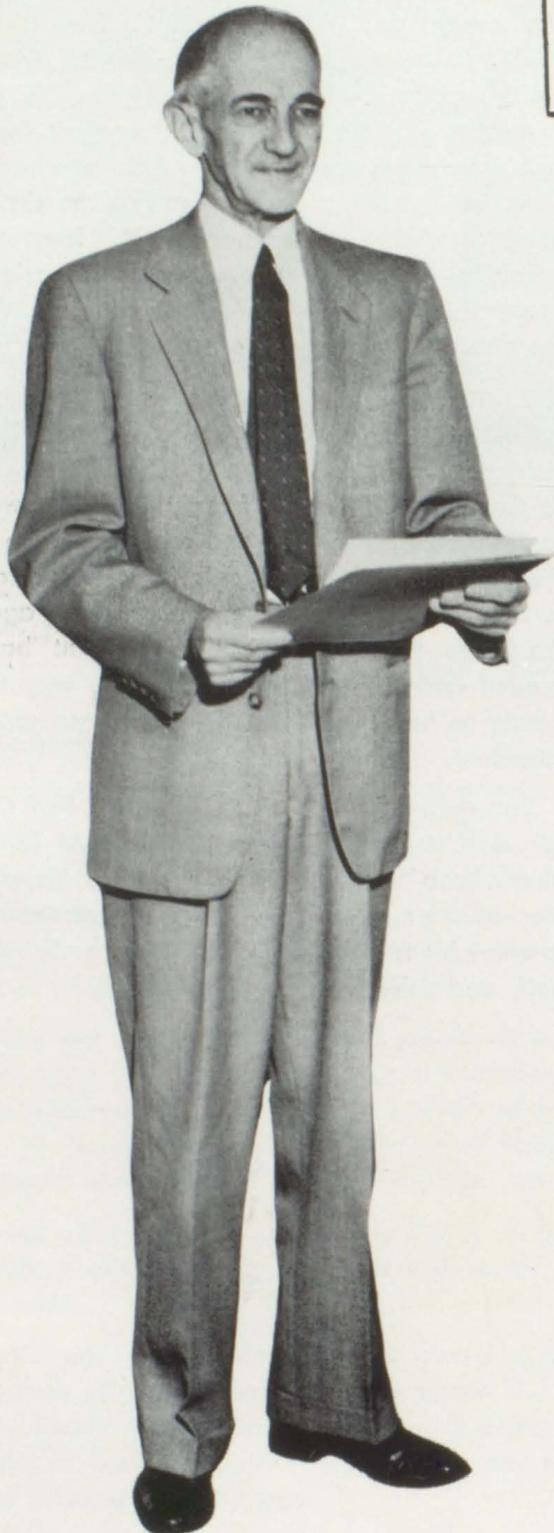

SINCE his arrival in 1947 Dr. Kincaid certainly has achieved notable success as the superintendent of schools. Our schools have benefited greatly because of the limitless time and energy he has expended. He has a very vital role to play, each day different circumstances arising which tend to make his job sometimes difficult, but always challenging. Some of his numerous responsibilities include selecting personnel, planning and supervising the district budget, visiting the schools, and frequently speaking before business and professional groups. Dr. Kincaid performs each task with the utmost capability and vigor.

At the University of Ohio Dr. Kincaid acquired his first college degree. He earned his Master's Degree and Doctor of Education Degree at Columbia University. Shortly after, he went to Montpelier, Vermont, and remained there as the superintendent of schools for eleven years. In Summit, New Jersey, he attained once again the same position. With this excellent background and wide experience we are very fortunate to have Dr. Kincaid as our own superintendent.

Somehow Dr. Kincaid manages to find time to relax despite his busy schedule. At Cutchogue, Long Island, where he spends his summer vacation, Dr. Kincaid has an opportunity to enjoy his favorite sports which are badminton, golf, and fishing.

Principal

WILLIAM D. BEDDOW

ALWAYS interested in the school and eager to help the students with their problems is our principal, Mr. Beddow. Coming to Hempstead in 1922, Mr. Beddow has watched the school grow and is very much pleased with the success and standing it has maintained. Hempstead High has seen many good changes throughout the years and, along with Mr. Beddow, is eagerly awaiting the initiation and results of the new schedule for next year.

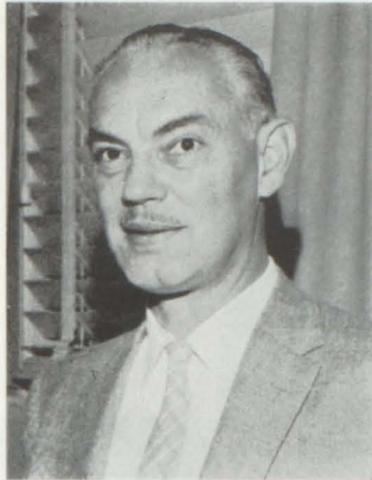

A graduate of Muhlenberg College, Mr. Beddow is very well qualified for his position at Hempstead. Despite his busy schedule, he always enjoys a good basketball or football game and is duly proud of Hempstead's standing this year.

As an active citizen of our community, Mr. Beddow is a member of Kiwanis, Community Chest and other professional groups. Badminton and fishing also occupy some of his leisure time.

The seven years Mr. Beddow has been principal have been very profitable and memorable ones and we all hope there will be as many successful ones in the future.

Administrative Assistants

UNDER the heading of Administrative Assistants are three men whose tasks cover different fields which are of the utmost importance in maintaining our school's efficient planning and operation.

Mr. Windt, Assistant to the Principal, supervises the checking of attendance and the maintenance of discipline. Besides these tasks, he has charge of extracurricular activities, the athletic funds and all records pertaining to the point system.

As Director of Guidance, Mr. Pill must supervise the staff of the guidance department as well as guide each academic junior and senior in the choice of a school of further study. Since he realizes that preparation for college must start early, Mr. Pill visits elementary schools to help the students choose their high school courses wisely.

It is Mr. Moore's job, as curriculum coordinator, to help bring about necessary changes in the curriculum so that students may have the best in educational opportunity.

The aesthetic values are also important here at Hempstead. Music, art and drama are integral parts of our school's curriculum. The fruits of these departments are often presented at concerts, displays, and presentations.

Since the first class in 1897 our faculty has constantly endeavored to provide the best for students of H. H. S. It is realized by our faculty that these activities play a very important part in the development of personality and democratic traits; therefore this phase of school life is taken very seriously, and

ONCE again this year, as in the many years before, Hempstead High School has successfully produced another outstanding Senior Class. Partial credit for the success of this year's class should be justly bestowed upon the Senior Class advisors, Mr. Lints and Mrs. Dendy, for their helpful leadership. Also the competent guidance of the senior counselor, Mr. Pill, should never be left unmentioned, since the senior class would be truly lost without his advice. However, some of the job of making the senior year an outstanding one has been the responsibility of Barry Davidson, an outstanding member of the Senior Class, who holds the office of class president. Lynn Pureschner, a wonderfully popular girl, with a beaming personality, stands next in line as vice-president. Popularity plus is the lively spirited Gerri Quigley, who waits with pen and pad and acts as secretary. Last, but not least, is the forever-friendly, well-known treasurer, Ralph Campanella.

The busy pace, in keeping with the tremendous amount of study and homework required of a senior, does not stop the students, who are now in their last year at Hempstead High, from enjoying all of the activities possible. Some of these activities include under-classmen but are primarily led and enjoyed by the seniors. Every one of these events can not possibly be mentioned, but some of the major ones are: the Senior Ball, which this year used as a theme the Coronation Ball; Senior-Frosh Day, a tradition carried on by the freshman and senior girls which is highlighted by the seniors, dressed as mothers, and the freshman, dressed as babies; then Senior Week, which is dedicated solely to the seniors, includes old-clothes day, dress-up day, and the senior tea. None of these need much explaining to Hempstead High School students,

This year Hempstead High is being featured in Life magazine, the article primarily depicting this year's senior class, from the beginning of the year to the end. The commencement exercises will be an exclusive.

The senior year is the happiest and busiest of all the four. This year's class is an outstanding one that has made many contributions to Hempstead High. Graduation for the class of 1958 will mean the end of four wonderful years.

Senior Executive Council

THIS year in May the Junior Class elected representatives from its history classes for the Senior Executive Council. Previously the elections had been made from the American History classes at the beginning of the school year. The main functions performed by the Council were: solving problems which concerned the Senior Class; proposing a schedule of activities for the entire year; making decisions concerning the Senior Class color, flower and motto. The representatives were placed in one homeroom where they were able to discuss matters that dealt with the organization of the Senior Class in any way. In each American History class there was a representative from the council. In this way, all students were informed, and were given an accurate account of the decisions made and voted upon by the Council.

The officers accepted their positions with great determination to make the Senior Executive Council a worthwhile organization to the Senior Class. This year's officers were as follows: Barry Davidson served as president; Lynn Peurschner as vice-president; Ralph Campanella as treasurer; Jerry Quigley as secretary. Under the excellent guidance of Mr. Lints, much was achieved and the Council succeeded in many ways in fulfilling its obligations to the seniors.

A great deal of planning was done for the Senior Ball, which turned out to be one of the most spectacular events of the year. Its theme was that of "The Coronation Ball." Other events that were undertaken by the Council were the Senior-Frosh Day, and Senior Week. Every senior looked forward with much eagerness to the day he was allowed special privileges concerning his dress and behavior. Old Clothes Day, supervised by the Council, was indeed a day packed with fun and much excitement never to be forgotten by the students.

The Council has always done a magnificent job of guiding the Senior Class through its many problems, and this year was by no means any exception. Every obstacle that the seniors had to face was handled with great ingenuity and capability by the Council.

Senior Ball

Coronation of the King, Pete Cunningham, and Queen, Eileen Hamilton.

As each couple entered and walked down the red-carpeted walk leading to the dance floor, it gave one the feeling of entering a grand ballroom. With chandeliers hanging from the ceiling and shields hanging on the walls and court jesters to amuse you, it gave the impression of a 19th century affair and so it was, as this 1958 Senior dance was called the Coronation Ball.

As in years before, this year's Senior Ball was a huge success with a special attraction—added publicity. Life Magazine photographers took pictures for a future lay-out of Hempstead High's goings-on. To sum it up, it was just a marvelous evening for all.

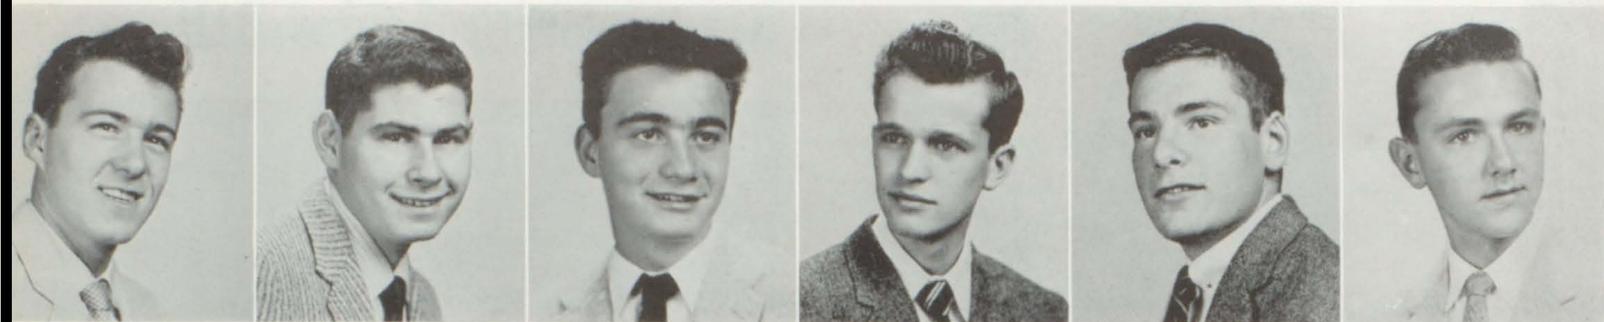

This year's co-chairmen of the affair were Lynda Drum and Mary Lou Albright, who did a magnificent job with the help of their co-workers.

Flipping back the pages of our junior year we all agree it was a very prosperous and happy one. We close it with a look of expectation into our future as seniors of Hempstead High.

Sophomore Class

Sophomores using their homeroom period to study.

THE members of the class of 1960, this year's sophomores, have completed the first half of their high school career. Next year they will be upper classmen. In preparation for this, each sophomore had his sophomore interview with Miss MacDougall in order to plan his course for the next two years.

As a class, the sophomores selected representatives from their English classes, who met at specified times during the year to accomplish certain tasks. One of their jobs was to nominate

Freshman Class

BARBARA KENNEDY

ON the first day of school, in September, we found a group of boys and girls slightly confused as to where their classes were. This group of students is the freshman. Yet, after a couple of weeks, they get themselves straightened out and are "one of the crowd."

The freshman had many activities during their first year at Hempstead High, the first starting with Senior-Frosh Day when the freshmen girls dressed up as little girls and the seniors dressed as mothers carrying dolls. After the day had ended the senior girls gave a party for the freshman girls.

ADVISORS
Mr. Beckett

Of course this year's Student Council got off to a flying start. And why shouldn't it have after first electing such capable officers. This year's slate began with Jim Edwards as president and continued with Lynda Drum as vice president, Steve Brown as treasurer, and Mary Lou Albright and Marilyn Grunfest as recording secretary and corresponding secretary respectively.

Each homeroom fulfilled its obligation by electing a senator and an alternate in the beginning of the year. The senator's duty was to attend council meetings and report their results to his homeroom.

To continue, we must consider all of the activities we could not have had if we didn't have a student council. First, our two yearly pep rallies are sponsored by the council. This year's spectacular G. O. show is another accomplishment. Then too, we can't forget our annual Boys Broke Ball, still another project.

In about the middle of the year, preparations were made for the much-looked-forward-to visit of our two foreign exchange students. This year's council entertained Naila Ahmed of Pakistan and Trivo Indjich of Yugoslavia. Helping out were the student hosts, Ethel Hill and Gary Sunden. During the foreign students' stay, a panel discussion was held to contrast their views with ours.

All through the year the student council was behind the scenes on every project. In April of every year, the council offers gratitude in the form of G. O. keys. These keys are awarded to ten deserving seniors, five girls and five boys. In previous years, the keys have been based on scholarship, citizenship, and service to the school. This year though, the requirements of scholarship have been modified. To receive a key, a student need only be passing all of his subjects. These keys are a means of thanking students for all their cooperation.

With the advice of Miss Newlon and Mr. Beckett, this year's student council, created by the students, has been successful in working for them.

Colonial

Editor-in-Chief
Michael Lopez

At the end of every year we all look forward to the arrival of our long-awaited Colonial. This year, as every year, everyone on the staff was busily writing his articles with much determination. Such was the case with our three staffs. The editorial staff was composed of six editors. At the head was our editor-in-chief, Michael Lopez. Mike deserves tremendous credit for the fine quality of his work. To Ruth Eriksen associate editor, Helen Tintle copy editor, Eleanor Timmons senior editor, Judy Brown photography editor, and Roy Feldman feature editor, fell the tremendous task of assisting the editor-in-chief, assigning and typing articles, supervising the senior section, plus many other items.

Wonderful work was accomplished by the art staff in illustrating the theme on almost every page of the Colonial. Headed by Marion Straka the art staff succeeded in showing its creative ability.

The Colonial couldn't possibly have been produced without the aid and financial support of the business staff, which comes up with the money necessary to make the book possible. This year it was headed by Ted Jackson who was also in charge of selling and delivering the Colonial to the homerooms.

Advising the Colonial staffs this year were Mr. Helbach,

After getting well under way, we visited New York City for a day of fun and saw the current hit play, "Auntie Mame."

We of the Colonial staff wish to thank our advisors for their guidance and understanding during the past year.

THE change in a newspaper such as the Patriot, cannot be seen day by day, issue by issue, but, over a long period, several evident changes can be seen. This year the staff was headed by Gary Sunden, Editor-in-Chief, and coordinated by fellow editors Pat Ferri, Dan Mirro, Bill Navarra, Harvey Oeslander, Sue Houston, Ethel Hill, Bill Siegel, Juri Toomre, and John Nell. The staff, which is watched over by the advisors, Mr. Murphy, Mr. Lawson and the business manager, Mr. Navarra, has adopted a very frank approach to student activities. As a direct result of this, the student more than ever, is being given a true picture of people and events occurring in and around his school.

This year the Patriot instituted two entirely new sections—the first dealing with clubs in Hempstead and the second a rather novel idea in humor. The purpose of writing a series of articles on clubs was to give the new student an opportunity to accustom himself to the extra-curricular activities in and around Hempstead High. Through the addition of this feature, it is hoped to provide the student with a stimulus for participating in the school's many and varied activities. Ha-Ha, the section on humor, seemed at first destined for the scrap pile, but because of the repeated demands by the students for it, the Patriot staff continued, and soon found it to be one of the highlights of their paper. It demonstrated the variety of the Patriot, and the versatility of its staff.

During the course of a school year at Hempstead, the students receive fifteen copies of the Patriot. How few of them realize the time and energy that is devoted to one publication. Besides this time and energy a great deal of coordination between business, circulation, and editorial departments is necessary. Gary Sunden and his staff are constantly confronted with problems of time, distribution, and financing to produce a paper that the school can well be proud of.

Here, let us extend our thanks to the Patriot staff for its constantly enjoyable and informative delivery of the news to the students of Hempstead High School. Let us congratulate the entire staff for putting its very solid link in the chain of accomplishment and honor the Patriot has made for itself over the years.

SHORTLY before Easter, Mrs. Pashley, the advisor of the Principal's Service Squad assists Mr. Beddow with the careful selection, interviewing, and training of new girls for the squad. The girls are selected on the basis of recommendations of the faculty. Pleasant personality, friendliness, cooperation, general neatness, and good scholastic standing are important qualifications possessed by the sixteen members of the present squad.

The services rendered by this group of girls were interesting and varied; the first and most important task was the efficient operation of the switchboard, which is located in Office 1. Other responsibilities included clerical work, delivering of important messages and material, as well as serving as receptionist to school visitors.

However the girls didn't only complete previously mentioned jobs, because Mr. Beddow supplied them with a Christmas party and spring picnic.

The girls of the Principal's Service Squad elected their own officers this year. They were Beatrice Pappas, chief, and Evelyn Efthimion, assistant chief.

THE wrong film in the wrong place at the wrong time is a very unlikely occurrence at Hempstead High. Therefore, we owe many thanks to the boys who make up the Audio-Visual Squad. Hempstead has been able to boast of the abilities of this squad since 1934.

The members of the squad have specific duties to perform daily. Because they have control over $100,000 worth of equipment and materials, the squad members must be efficient and honorable. An electrical and mechanical knowledge is necessary to a certain degree to operate the various machines. The boys perform such tasks as running phonographs, tape recorders, and the public address system for homeroom announcements. They are not only in charge of showing films but must also see that they are kept in good repair.

With Mr. E. C. Moore as advisor, Thomas Samson as chief, Fred Richards as assistant, and Henry Lackner as treasurer, the members of this squad are continually aiding teachers and students. This service brings variety, instruction, and enjoyment to the classes in Hempstead High.

Junior Secretaries

THOSE busy girls seen working in the offices of our school are none other than Hempstead High' Junior Secretaries. With Miss Hoekstra as their advisor, the girls ably assist the guidance counselors in Offices 2 and 3.

This friendly group of girls is composed of nearly sixty members. They are usually recommended for the squad by their teachers. The girls are chosen for their ability both in and out of the classroom, their efficiency, and personality. Before joining the squad each girl is interviewed by Miss Hoekstra.

The Junior Secretaries not only come in contact with the faculty and students, but with the public as well. The girls prepare the excused and absentee lists, deliver messages to students and teachers, greet the public, do filing and other errands for the guidance department.

This year Miss Hoekstra chose Florence Presinski to act as Chief. Her two assistants were Toni Pizzitola in Office 3 and Terry DiSimone in Office 2. The main purpose of the Junior Secretaries was to help office work run smoothly. The girls worked diligently at their duties and their efforts were greatly admired.

Junior Red Cross

"WE care" and "we share" are two of the mottos of the Junior Red Cross which exemplify the unselfish and neighborly service it performs on a volunteer basis. The program of this organization involves the rendering of aid locally, nationally, and internationally.

This year, the group has provided helpers for the crippled children's swimming program at Adelphi College. Many members have also assisted their Red Cross Chapters in operating blood banks. Each year Christmas stockings are filled with candy and cigarettes and are sent to our armed forces and hospitalized veterans.

This organization is the Junior group of the American Red Cross designed primarily for students in elementary and secondary schools.

The Junior Red Cross has enjoyed participating in serving those in need under the very capable leadership of Mrs. Bowen, as advisor. This year's officers who have lent their assistance are as follows: President, Donald Zahm; Vice President, Judy Kennedy; Secretary, Evelyn Giusto; Treasurer, Tula Korras.

The Counselor's Service Squad

ALWAYS eager to assist in any way possible are the girls who compose the Counselor's Service Squad in Office Four. They do various tasks to help lessen the burdens of Miss MacDougall, Mrs. Walters, and Mr. Turnbull. The girls help out by filing, typing, delivering messages, and frequently acting as receptionists.

These girls are selected and advised by Miss MacDougall. A careful analysis of each individual is made before she is chosen to become a member of the Squad, and many things are taken into consideration before the final decision is made. The girls must have a pleasing personality, satisfactory grades in all subjects, good attendance, and a willingness to work.

Ably assisting Miss MacDougall is the entire squad with Margo Loeffler serving as this year's Chief. She prepared the materials needed daily for personal interviews.

Each one of the squad members can gain in many ways from this office procedure. The services these girls perform every day are most helpful and necessary. They contribute much to the smooth and efficient functioning of the office. Their work is very much appreciated by every one in Office Four.

DARTMOUTH! Princeton! Smith! Colby! These are many of the pennants that catch one's eye as he enters the guidance office. As one of their many services, the girls of the Office Five Squad frequently added to this collection.

The fifteen capable girls who composed this squad had many varied duties which ranged from acting as hostesses to new pupils to reminding students of their appointments with Mr. Pill or Mr. Prah. Under the supervision of Miss Ronnermann these girls performed many jobs which are essential to the smooth operation of Office Five. Each day there were pink slips to be delivered, messages to be conveyed, and appointments to be checked. These jobs were ably carried out by the girls.

Along with their efficiency and hard work these girls found time for fun. The squad had a Christmas party in December and a final party at the end of the year where everyone got together and really "had a ball."

With Pat Mazikiewicz as its chief this year, the Office Five Squad has been an invaluable aid to the whole school as well as to Mr. Pill and Mr. Prah.

Library Staff

MOST of us have made use of the wonderful facilities our school provides for us. One of the most important is the library. Upon entering the room we see the long wide tables used for studying purposes. The walls are always gay with various decorations.

Mrs. Cullen, and her assistant, Mrs. Anderson, are always willing to help you find that last-minute book you need for a report or even the history book you lost a month ago. Their graciousness makes every moment spent in the library very pleasant.

Under the guidance of the librarians, the girls and boys on the staff efficiently "read" the shelves, checked out books, collected fines, wrote up "overdues," and ran errands. Each member contributed one period a day to work in the library.

Due to the fact that the student body now numbers close to the ideal, the senior library has been combined with the main library, making it easier for students to find the right book. Our library provides invaluable material for us on everything pertaining to our studies as well as our leisure time reading.

Camera Club

"HOLD IT!"—this was the command often used by the members of the Camera Club and their advisor, Mr. Smith. Their meetings were held every other week and, since most of the club's members develop their own pictures, the darkroom was open to them once every week.

Their activities this year included a trip which they financed by taking pictures at two of our big dances. Each year they made nearly eighty dollars by taking such pictures. Also a number of the club's members were chosen by the Patriot as staff photographers. These facts are good proof that the club not only lives up to its reputation as being helpful in school activities, but that its members are efficient and quite well-organized even in business matters.

Eastman Kodak helped in their education in photography by sending them movies together with lectures. Fifty prize-winning prints from the Eastman Kodak's photography contest for high school students were also given to them this year.

The officers of this outstanding group of amateur photographers were: Roy Feldman, president; Rosti Mol, vice-president; Barbara Berbary, secretary, and Bruce Boss, treasurer.

Secretaries to the Faculty

A GROUP of girls, the Secretaries to the Faculty, is selected each year to help in secretarial work. These juniors and seniors are appointed by Mrs. Schryver, the supervisor of the program. They are recommended by their shorthand teachers as being outstanding in competency, integrity, and reliability.

One secretary or more, depending on the amount of work required by each department, is assigned to the head of a department. The teacher and his secretary arrange a schedule suitable for both, in which the necessary work can be done. The secretary must report to her assigned teacher once a day. Each girl is expected to contribute a minimum of four hours a week on her particular assignments.

The job for these girls is to do all mimeographing, filing, and note-typing for the faculty. They can operate all machines, cut stencils, do master copies, and multiple-carbons. The work is done in the mimeographing room and room 15—the Secretarial room.

Secretarial Service Squad

DID you ever stop to wonder just who prints all of the mimeographed tests and exams that we take? That's easy to answer; it's the Secretarial Service Squad. This group of approximately fifteen girls, works behind the scenes, in the mimeograph room. The girls are appointed by their advisor, Mrs. Schryver, only after being recommended by their shorthand teachers.

Although being a member of this squad is considered an honor, it carries with it a great deal of responsibility. Each girl must report to the mimeograph room one specific period a day. She is responsible for all work that comes in that particular period. Operation of the electric mimeograph, the manual mimeograph, and the ditto machine are probably the most important of her duties.

The girls work under the supervision of business teachers Miss Jones, Mr. O. Mills, Mr. Helbach, and Mr. Lawson, with Rosemary Sgroi as student leader. The work they do aids the entire faculty.

Health Service Squad

THE twenty-four freshman girls of the Pioneers have shown superior scholastic ability during the first marking period.

They have had several joint meetings with the Pathfinders. Several get-togethers including a Christmas and Valentine party were enjoyed by all.

Under the guidance of Mrs. Marshall and the officers, Ellen Christ, President; Karen Smyley, Corresponding Secretary; Karen Dickenson, Recording Secretary; and Dale Steckler, Treasurer the Pioneers had a successful year.

Pioneers

THE Health Service Squad consists of girls who like nursing. Their responsibilities are to assist the nurse with her daily chores.

Outside of tending ill students, squad members are trained to file and assist with physical exams.

Along with gaining the practical knowldge of home-nursing, the girls obtain the rudiments for becoming a good nurse.

The Pathfinders

LED by Mr. LaCombe, the Pathfinders feel they are one answer to the growing delinquency problem. Unlike the other honor societies of Hempstead, the freshman society is based on the first marking period and not the preceding year's marks.

The club this year tried to give the average student a better understanding of and a desire for high scholastic achievement.

Senior Service Squad

"MAY I help you please?" These friendly words are spoken frequently by the girls in Office 1A, and represent the objectives of the organization. Mrs. Hueston has helped the girls in her office gain efficiency, competence and a sense of responsibility. This year Mrs. Hueston selected eleven girls from the sophomore, junior and senior classes. Patricia Patterson was selected as chief of the squad.

Rifle Club

THE Rifle Club, not to be confused with the Rifle Team, is one of the largest teams in the school. Meeting after school at the rifle range, the members practice their marksmanship.

The club started in 1935 and continued meeting during the war. The club gets all of its ammunition from the Defense Department. It is an adjunct of the National Defense and is recognized by the Federal Government.

The Rifle Club does an admirable job of teaching Hempstead students how to be straight shooters. The members learn the fundamentals of safe handling and care of firearms.

The officers of the club are Teddy Creaser, President; Bill Glockler, Captain. Mr. Voorhies is the advisor.

Besides being the noisiest and most dangerous club in the school, the Rifle Club is one of the most interesting to belong to.

Varsity Club

EVERY member of Hempstead High is justly proud of its athletes, not only for their fine playing ability but for their fine sportsmanship as well. The Varsity Club is composed of such athletes who faithfully uphold the high standards of our school.

All of the 65 members of the club have earned their varsity letter in one of our major sports. These letters are usually displayed on white varsity sweaters, although Varsity Club members are easily recognized by their gray and blue varsity club jackets. Those members who compose the Sports Patrol can also be recognized by their white windbreakers. The boys in these white windbreakers can readily be seen punching G. O. tickets, keeping aisles clear, and generally enforcing law and order at all of our home football and basketball games.

Under the able supervision of Mr. Schuessler, the Varsity Club was a credit to Hempstead High. All the members wish to thank him for his service.

Junior Math Club

THE Junior Math Club is composed of a group of enterprising sophomores, most of them honor students, who are interested in mathematics. The group meets twice each month under the auspices of Mr. LaCombe. Among their programs so far this year the members have had Mr. Windt as a speaker and they have worked with slide rules.

The officers are: president, David Henshaw; vice-president, Larry Alberts; program chairman, Barry Bendell; and treasurer, Alfred Corkrey.

Commercial Club

IN order to provide a social and educational club for the sophomore girls of the Business Education Department, the Commercial Club has been formed.

Under the expert guidance and leadership of Miss Bringhurst and Miss Degenhardt, it meets on the third Tuesday of each month.

The officers for this year were: President, Maxine Moor; Vice President, Sharon Gierie, and Secretary-Treasurer, Joanne Castelli.

Senior Dance Instructors

A SELECT group of seniors has been helping the freshman classes with their "cha-cha" and "lindy" steps for the past two years.

Every two weeks a new group of freshmen is taken under the wings of the senior dancing instructors, who are very capable of teaching their eager students.

This experiment has proved very successful in that it has given the freshman confidence in their dancing.

Art Club

QUITE an important part in the culture of Hempstead High is played by our Art Club, headed by President, Marion Straka; Vice-President, Frank Mortis; Secretary, Linda Sileo; and Treasurer, Beryl Muller. With the co-operation of the Art classes and the artistic help of Mrs. Oman, the club's advisor, our artists designed silk-screened greeting cards which were sent to a junior high school in England.

INSIDE Hempstead High's red brick walls roam some of the future mathematicians of tomorrow. Whether they make a place for themselves in the world of tomorrow is partly up to the educational system. Here at Hempstead, besides having a good math department, there is also a fine math club called the Tupiar whose headquarters is Room 29.

The meetings are held once a week for slide rule instruction, and once a month for advanced topics in math discussed by the many students attending. The club also discusses the interesting lives of famous mathematicians and prizes are awarded to outstanding math students.

The advisor is the well-qualified Mr. Robert "Pop" Hayes, who is also the head of the math department.

Qualifications for membership are that the student must have taken, or be taking, intermediate algebra, and, of course, have a liking for mathematics. Some of the members will go on to study math in college, and others will not. Whatever the reason for joining, the Tupiar offers an excellent opportunity for its members to increase their knowledge, and at the same time partake in a great deal of enjoyment.

HERE is a club that is open to all of those girls who wish to become nurses in the future. It consists of approximately forty-five vigorous and very active girls. The purpose of the Future Nurses Club is to acquaint girls with the qualifications of the nursing profession, to get an insight into the different schools, and to see nursing in action.

Four field trips were planned for this past year. These included visiting Adelphi College, Meadowbrook Hospital, state hospitals, and inspecting a Navy ship. At Christmas time the annual party was given and fun was had by all. Also at the end of the year an outing was planned for recreation.

One of the most enjoyable activities was visiting an actual nurses' home. Inspection of food, recreation, classrooms, dormitories took place. This gave the girls a very good idea of what to expect in the future when nursing days finally come.

The officers of this club, President, Margo Loeffler; Vice-President, Dawn Thomas; Secretary, Elizabeth Regan; and Treasurer, Margie Clark have all done a wonderful job in making one of Hempstead's most active clubs one of Hempstead's best.

HEMPSTEAD High School students can feel justifiably proud of their Future Teachers Club, one of the largest and oldest organizations of its kind on Long Island.

Because of the large size of the club and the difference in the schedules of its members, the F. T. A. is divided into three smaller groups. These are: the Peter Cooper F. T. A. for juniors and seniors, the Esther P. Greenland F. T. A. for sophomores, and the Horace Mann F. T. A. for freshmen.

Under the expert guidance and leadership of Miss Winter, assisted by Mr. Keenan, many interesting and profitable activities have been achieved this year.

In November, Mr. Beddow spoke on the qualities necessary for teaching. The club participated in the Oswego State Teachers College "Open House" held later in November.

In January a group of juniors and seniors went to an elementary school, where they witnessed on-the-job teaching. It proved a rewarding and enjoyable experience for all; at the next meeting everyone participated in the discussion of the impressions received at the various elementary grades.

Later in the year, an elementary school teacher spoke on the qualities and qualifications of an elementary school teacher. At the end of the year, thirteen awards were presented to some of the members for their outstanding services. Scholarships of three-hundred dollars were also presented to deserving seniors.

Because of the membership of 115 future teachers, the representatives, Pat Delany and Carol Sica, attended monthly a L. I. F. E. (Long Island Future Educators) meeting.

This year the Peter Cooper division was capably headed by Carole Louis. She was assisted by Judith Brown, Vice-President; Rae Messer, Treasurer; Carolyn Matusiewski, Recording Secretary; and Eva Schuster, Corresponding Secretary. The Esther P. Greenlund chapter was headed by Susan Markowski. Assisting her were Roberta Carlson, Vice-President; Barbara Epstein, Secretary; Deborah Thomas, Treasurer. The Horace Mann division had Eileen McGrath for its president. Assisting her were Patricia Kaplerchuk, Vice-President; Louise Geller, Secretary; Dorriane Sverdlick, Treasurer.

Stamp Club

IF any Hempsteadites enjoy collecting and trading stamps, they are encouraged to join the Stamp Club which meets every second Wednesday under the expert leadership and guidance of Mr. Holtz.

This year some members attended the Nassau Stamp Exposition.

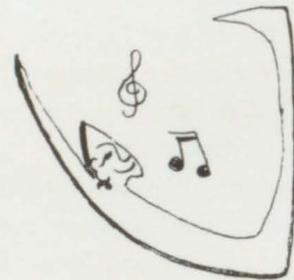

David Waite was elected President; Charlotte Easter, Secretary; and Norman Seidelman, Treasurer.

Music Appreciation Club

WHETHER it be Bach, Beethoven, or Schubert, you can be sure the Music Appreciation Club is interested in them all. This group endeavored to study classical music through Hi-Fi recordings. These and other activities helped to form a closer understanding and appreciation of classical music.

Under the advisorship of Mr. Fish the following officers were: President, Bruce Boss; Vice-President, Bert Marks; Secretary, Eva Schuster; Treasurer, Ronnie Gilone.

Radio Club

WITH a flash of sound and a steady hum, Mr. Lind and his Radio Club are on the air. The club, which consists entirely of boys, has certain functions. The boys try to get their licenses and codes for stations for amateur boys interested in all things concerning the radio.

The officers this year were: John Sauer, President; Michael McShane, Vice-President; William Brown, Jr., Secretary; and Conrad Wagner, Treasurer.

Blue and White Corner

JUST reflect a moment how often you dashed to the Blue and White Corner to replenish your exhausted school supplies. Countless times, wasn't it?

Students from the retailing department, under the excellent supervision of Mr. Davidson, were always there on hand to furnish you with needed materials. These students sold merchandise to the public, and performed bookkeeping tasks at the Corner.

Key Clickers

FOR the past ten years junior and senior secretarial students, whose primary interest lies in the business world, have made up the Key Clickers. It is perhaps one of the most practical and successful clubs at Hempstead High.

This year, under the vigilance of Miss Jones, the Club has done many interesting things. Their main project was to perform a service for the merchants of Hempstead. It constituted assisting the Chamber of Commerce in its extensive survey of the trading area of the village of Hempstead.

Also interested in the jubilant side of things the club attended a Broadway play and a steamer-picnic at Bear Mountain. The season's list of activities was topped off by the annual farewell party for the graduates.

President, Lois McLaughlin; Vice-President, Adele De Luca; Secretary, Margie Shivers, and Treasurer, Betty Convery, all agree that the many activities carried out by this year's club proved to be very worthwhile.

Co-Operative Retailing

THE unbelievable sum of 25,000 dollars was earned last season by the retailing staff in the 26,000 hours they worked. This season's co-operative retailing group numbers thirty-five students who are placed in twenty-two different stores on a co-operative basis.

Only a selected number of students is allowed to participate in co-operative selling. These few are chosen carefully upon the basis of their scholarship, attitude, and recommendation.

Under the supervision of a co-ordinator these students work on a part-time credit basis. When a student obtains 600 dollars worth of credit he gains an extra credit unit for school work or regents exams, as he prefers.

Many alumni have continued their work in this field after graduation. Helped by this project of co-operative retailing these students are paving their future careers now.

ON the second Tuesday of every month, the Senior Science Club, one of the oldest clubs in school, held its meetings in Room seventy-seven and had a fascinating debate on a current science project or worked on an important experiment.

This year the club consisted of forty-three juniors and seniors, who joined in order to keep up on the latest events and developments in all phases of science, as well as to perform, or watch, experiments not usually performed in high school science classes.

This year the Science Club planned to give the highest ranking member of the club fifteen dollars which they hoped would go towards the purchase of a slide rule upon entering college.

This year the club was under the expert guidance of Mr. Faust. Acting as president was Voya Skakich, while Bert Marks was vice-president. Harriet Rose was secretary and Roy Feldman was treasurer. All those who participated in the Senior Science Club were assured of an exciting Tuesday afternoon.

Junior Science Club

THE Junior Science Club is composed of freshmen and sophomores who are enthusiastic about the world of science, which is playing a more important role in our lives every day. Under the able supervision of Mr. Lawson, these "aspiring scientists" explore the many realms of science.

During their first few meetings, Mr. Faust led a tour showing the members the school's scientific facilities. They learned how to use the microscope, and after this was mastered, they observed the wonders of human tissue.

Other programs included chemistry demonstrations and informative films about the growing uses of science in today's industries.

Each of the choices for their yearly field trip demonstrates a different phase of science.

The club's programs were planned by the president, Larry Mednick; vice president, Don Richardson; secretary, Cathie Sumica; and treasurer, Mike Stubeck.

Hanna, D. Zahm.

HEMPSTEAD High School is proud of its Hall Patrol. The squad consists of from five to eight boys each period, or about fifty in all. The head of the Hall Patrol is Mr. Fish and other teachers are on duty different periods of the day.

The job of the Hall Patrol is a never-ending one. The members of the squad try to keep order in the halls. The primary function of the patrol is to check students' passes. The hall cops perform many other jobs such as directing students out of the building during a fire drill, directing visitors to the offices, keeping the school quiet, and ushering at assemblies.

The hall cop either sacrifices a study hall or lunch period to have a post. He must be on his post every day and he must enforce the laws of the school to the best of his ability. Thus the atmosphere of the school is greatly improved with the help of the Hall Patrol, and classes in session are assured of quiet. The school owes much to the members and advisors of the squad as they give up a free period to perform this duty for the school.

Footlight Club

UNDER the capable guidance of Miss Randall, the Footlight Club had a very successful year.

At a typical meeting of the club one could find the members busily putting on small skits or planning a play.

This year the club put on the famous Broadway play "The Matchmaker" by Thornton Wilder with proceeds going toward the school scholarship fund. The two main characters were Donald Hood playing Mr. Vandergelder, while Carol Sica played Mrs. Levi.

This year the club plans to take a trip to Manhattan and attend a current Broadway play.

Donald Hood presided over the meetings, with capable assistance from the vice-president, Linda Sileo. Taking minutes at the meeting was Judy Brown, while the financial business was in the hands of Robert Shuster.

"Mr. Vandergelder, if I cut your throat, it will be practically unintentional."

The Matchmaker makes her match while Barnaby, Minnie Fay, Mrs. Molloy, and Cornelius listen.

THIS year as in the past the German Club was comprised of many students. During the year they met in room 28 to have fun and learn interesting things. Many times they had films of Germany. This year the German Club went to New York to see "Around the World in Eighty Days" and some German movies. They have also been found ordering many tasty dishes of sauerbraten and dumplings at one of their favorite German restaurants. Every year they put on a Christmas party and sing Christmas songs and carols.

A spelling bee is held every year in which all members participate.

This year the members elected Mario Salerno as president, Tom Dennison as vice president, Joy Frei as secretary and Vaya Skaketch as treasurer. Under the guidance of Mr. Leusch and Miss Gunther the German Club has been a success as it has always been in the past.

THIS year, as in the past, the Latin Club, or the Carpe Diem, as the members call it, was one of our most active clubs. The Latin Club is an organization which meets together to make the study of Latin more enjoyable. Under the able leadership of Miss Winter and the club officers the members have enjoyed many varied activities. The club has had several parties, a few excursions into New York and many interesting games and speakers. Usually refreshments have been provided by the very able refreshment committee.

The club officers are called by their Latin name; Consul, Aedile, and Scriba. Some of you might have been able to guess what they mean. The Consul compares to the president, the Aedile to the treasurer and the Scriba to the secretary.

The Consul was Jeanette Pizzatola; the second Consul, Dean Birdsall; the Scriba was Leslie Dickenson; Aedile was Rae Messer, and the two program planners were Sue Houston and Barbara Barbary.

French Club

"TOUJOURS de l'activite" might well be the slogan of this year's French Club, whose destiny was in excellent hands this year. Elected as officers were: Lettie Ritt, President; Lynda Drum, Vice President; Pat Ferri, Secretary; and Ralph Campanella, Treasurer.

A committee, headed by Anne Sverdlik, made a puppet troupe. These puppets were cast in a skit written by talented members of the Cercle. (Notez bien—admission to these superb productions was included in the membership dues.)

The Christmas party brought out the vocal skills of the members in a program devoted to carols and Christmas customs of the French people. As in the past during this season, they remembered "La Famille," their adopted orphanage, which is located in Sudan, France.

The French Art Theatre saw their bright and shiny faces at its February and March productions. Movies, slides, and talks by French guests rounded out a busy year.

Spanish Club

ONE of our gaiest organizations is the Spanish Club. With Mrs. Stilger as advisor, the group planned many interesting trips.

Early in the year they went to New York and saw an opera, "La Vida Breve," and a ballet, "El Amor Brujo." Both performances were enjoyed.

The Christmas party was a success this year. The piñata, a large, pottery jug, was filled with presents for everyone and Steve Zipkin and Stu Rosen presented a Spanish skit.

This year Carolyn Matusiewski took top honors in a civilization contest and won a Spanish dictionary.

At the closing of the year, the club took a trip to the Hispanic Museum, the theater, and had dinner at a Spanish restaurant.

This year the officers were: Steve Zipkin, President; Sue Kroll, Vice-President; Sue Loewey, Secretary; and Stu Rosen, Treasurer.

Junto Club

AS you know there are six honor clubs in Hempstead which serve members of each class who have attained a high rank in scholastic achievement. The Junto Club is the sophomore boys' honor club.

The faculty advisor for the Junto Club is Mr. Leusch. He advises the members on various subjects and also supervises them on matters pertaining to the club.

This year as in previous years the club had an excellent group of officers. They were: President, Donald Zinn; Vice President, David Hartman; and Secretary-Treasurer, Barry Bendell.

Throughout the year the Junto Club had the honor of hearing many fine speakers. Among these were: Mr. Faust, Miss MacDougall, Mr. Pahl, and Mr. Windt. Several joint meetings were held with the sophomore girls' honor club, Pallas. Towards the end of the year the club members enjoyed an outing to the United Nations in New York.

Pallas Club

Left to right, Row I: J. Joyce, S. Gardner, D. Senseney, D. Thomas. Row II: L. Brown, B. Epstein, H. Popkin, M. Tedeschi, L. Gerson. Row III: Miss Gunnerson, P. McCallen, S. Gierie, H. Aims, F. Negler, E. Regan, M. Ellison.

"WHAT a 'brain' she is!" This is an envious phrase often aimed at a member of the Pallas Club—the sophomore girls' honor club.

The officers were Joyce Caro, President; Francis Negler, Vice-President; Elizabeth Regan, Secretary; Jennifer Joyce, Treasurer.

The girls were always busy with many Pallas Club services such as selling programs at football games, ushering at the P. T. A. "Open House" and engaging in numerous charitable endeavors.

A business meeting, plus a joint meeting with Junto, was held each month. These meetings were made enjoyable by guest speakers and planned activities. The Pallas Club also entertained the Pioneers at the chief party of the year. Another of the group's activities was visiting New York City with Miss Gunnerson, their competent and congenial advisor.

Hempstead High School's proud record of achievement must include the accomplishments of the girls of the Pallas Club.

Pentagon Club

Left to right, Row I: Mr. Fish, P. Ahrens, R. Gilone, C. Meyer, W. Goldberg, J. Caro, J. Miller. Row II: R. Feldman, J. Stewait, M. Lopez, R. Ahrens, R. Auletta, S. Zipkin. Row III: D. Szeglin, S. THE Pentagon Club is an organization for junior and senior honor boys. This club is comprised of a group of boys, all of whom have an average well up in the 90's. Under the guidance of Mr. Fish, the boys had very educational and entertaining meetings.

The meetings were held once a month, on a Monday; each meeting usually had a different speaker. One of the speakers was Mr. Smith, who showed the members several films of his vacation in the Western part of the United States. With his narration, the films were extremely interesting. Other speakers talked on various subjects.

The Pentagon Club gives two awards yearly. One is to the boy in the Pentagon Club with the highest average for the year. The other is for the boy who has contributed the most to his school, to his community, and to the club.

The president of the club was Bill Goldberg, a junior. The members were all proud of their club and of their achievements which have added greatly to the honor of Hempstead High School.

Pen and Ink Club

Weinstein, L. Quigley, I. Gest, Miss Abbott.

ATENTION Pen and Ink members! There will be an important meeting in the teachers' cafeteria after school today." This announcement, heard over the home-room notices, reminded the top scholastic junior and senior girls to attend their semi-monthly meetings.

The officers were Joan Tinnes, president; Linda Morris, vice-president; Joy Frei, secretary; and Virginia Sullivan, treasurer. The editor of this year's handbook was Louise Grossman and the manager was Helen Tintle.

With the help of the two advisors, Mrs. Stilger and Miss Abbott, the Pen and Ink girls planned many enjoyable activities which included an induction tea at the beginning of the year, the showing of slides, the annual Mother and Daughter tea, a Christmas party and trips to hear "The Merry Widow" opera and to see "Auntie Mame."

This year, membership did not require a certain average, but a specific percentage of junior and senior honor students was admitted into the club at the beginning of the year.

Orchestra

The Symphony Orchestra, Emerson Buckley conducting.

The violin section.

THE well-known Hempstead High School Orchestra again did a tremendous job to uphold its reputation this year. Under the very able direction and guidance of Imogene Boyle the orchestra gave the annual "Festival of the Arts" in March, plus numerous other concerts. The first of these was for one of the women's clubs at Christmas time. Around the same time the orchestra put on the Christmas pageant in cooperation with the choir and dramatic department. Also, as part of their Christmas program, the orchestra combined with the choir to give a concert at a dinner, sponsored by the Lions, Kiwanis, and Rotary Clubs, held at the Elks Club.

The big moment for the orchestra came on March 23 at the "Festival of the Arts" concert at Hofstra College. The theme this year was World Peace. The music department was very honored and privileged to have as its guest-conductor Emerson Buckley. Eliza Levister was the soprano soloist in the "Messiah."

Many hours of hard work went into making this orchestra one of the finest high-school orchestras in the country. Much credit and success are due Miss Boyle and her fine group now and in the future.

The Choir

The Choir and Glee Clubs combine to sing a medley of negro spirituals.

The Senior Choir.

THE blue-robed figures that lend their cheerful voices to the holiday season should be a familiar sight to all of you. Every year the members of the choir sing Christmas carols in the halls, add spark to our Christmas program, contribute their talents to the March concert and again, under the direction of Miss McQueen, sing at the late Spring Concert.

This year's choir consisted of 115 sophomores, juniors and seniors. These 115 members were a group taken from the various glee clubs.

Everyday in the bandbox during fourth period they engage in a little more hard work to make themselves into a choir that any school would be proud to have.

A BLARE of trumpets, a roll of drums, and the Hempstead High School Band Show marches on to the bright, green field. The theme for this year's show was the honoring of the visiting teams.

tune of "Auld Lang Syne." Probably the best part of the whole show was the huge kick-line, formed by the High Steppers, Majorettes, and Twirlerettes.

The key factor in the success of the show was "practice," and leading the band through this was Mr. Albinski. The person credited with having created the show was Miss Boyle, the head of our music department.

As in every other year, the show performed at all home games; also they went to the Yankee Stadium to play for the opening football game. Santa Claus was also entertained at the Arnold Constable parking lot.

After the marching season is over, many people think the members have a well-earned rest, but that is wrong.

At the close of the football season the marching band turns into a beautiful, melodic concert band. The band is composed of the same members as previously, and it is under the direction of Mr. Albinski.

Soon the Spring Concert arrives and the band gets a chance to play for over 800 spectators. Some of the numbers featured at the concert, by the band, were a choral and band arrangement of "Battle Hymn of The Republic" and "River Jordan." Also, "Kol Nedrei" and the wonderful "1812 Overture."

This year's band, just as every other year's, has been a wonderful success, and the entire music department will hope for one just as good in the coming years.

THE members of the Hempstead High School Band, including High-Steppers, Majorettes and Twirlerettes, face a hard three months, practicing for the band show that will be given during football season. After-school, Saturday, and summer rehearsals are well-known to all members who make the Band Show a success.

Just about all girls in their sophomore year, plus a few freshmen, try out for the Twirlerettes. This is done by taking lessons during the summer vacation. Then in September, as soon as school starts, there are tryouts to decide who will be in the Band Show.

Those who are not as good as others may be chosen as substitutes.

This system applies not only to the Twirlerettes, but also to the Majorettes and High-Steppers.

The theme this year was "Colors." At the football games the twirlers would form the letters of Hempstead High with the colors—white and blue—and the letters of whatever school they were playing with the colors of that school.

This year, as last, the New York Giants invited our Band to New York Yankee Stadium to open the football season.

At Christmas time we see our twirlers and band marching down to Arnold Constable's, whether it is sunny or snowing, to meet, who else but Santa Claus.

Not only did the band play during the football season, but the members also found themselves playing in the concert "Of the Arts and Peace." Some of their selections this year were "Battle Hymn of the Republic," "1812 Overture," "River Jordan" and others.

This year there was something new added that gave our high school much publicity. Fifteen

THIS year juniors and seniors had a chance to try out for becoming cheerleaders. By having passing grades in all subjects they were eligible to compete in the first week of June. Instruction was given by the senior cheerleaders every other day until the girls were ready to demonstrate before a committee. This committee consisted of Judy Krug, this year's captain, Jeanette Duggan, Mrs. Reicher, Mrs. Kufe, and Miss Dorwin. Applicants were judged on ability and coordination.

At all home football games Junior Varsity cheered with the Varsity girls but at away games just the senior cheerleaders went. During the basketball season only the Varsity cheered at home and, since there was room enough for only four girls on the school bus, the away games were divided up evenly among the girls. All eight Varsity cheerleaders went to the tournament games.

The cheerleaders this year created wonderful school spirit and, by cheering our teams on to victory, have fulfilled their task.

Sunny Glasco receives able blocking.

A tense moment for Coach Schuessler and Butch Lopez.

THE only blemish on Hempstead's championship football team's record was a 6 to 0 loss to Freeport. This gave the team, under the direction of Mr. Schuessler, its first South Shore I Championship since 1951. The ironic thing about the loss to Freeport was that last year, when Freeport won the South Shore Section I crown, we beat them by the exact same score of 6 to 0.

John Mackey and Sonny Glasco have brought honor to themselves and Hempstead by being placed on many post-season honorary football teams. Others who also received mention were Bill Jackey and Fronk Spoerr. Next year's team will find new names on its schedule, but will face the same problem of playing some of the better teams in New York State. Hempstead has always met this challenge by consistently producing a team that plays clean, hard football. Win, lose, or draw the teams of the past have always given a good account of themselves. Next year, led by Frank Spoerr and John Hempstead's seven victories came at a slight cost of reputation to Mephram, Sewanhaka, Masapequa, Lawrence, Baldwin, Valley Stream Central, and, last but not forgotten, Uniondale.

This article cannot begin to thank Mr. Schuessler for the fine job of building men first, and then a championship team. However, we would like to extend our congratulations for a job well done, and express our hope for the continued success of the football team.

LACROSSE came to Hempstead High and is one of the most recent additions to our sports department.

Last season we won five games and lost only two. The most exciting game was Hempstead vs. Sewanhaka J. V. with a tie score of 7-7. In the last minute of play, Sewanhaka came through to win a close victory of 8-7 in the final seconds of the clock.

The outstanding players on the team were Artie Koehler and Paul Sherwood. The latter made the All-Nassau first team. Among the other numerous talented sportsmen were Bob Mahoney, Charlie Banks, Howard Kalinsky, and Leon McKenna.

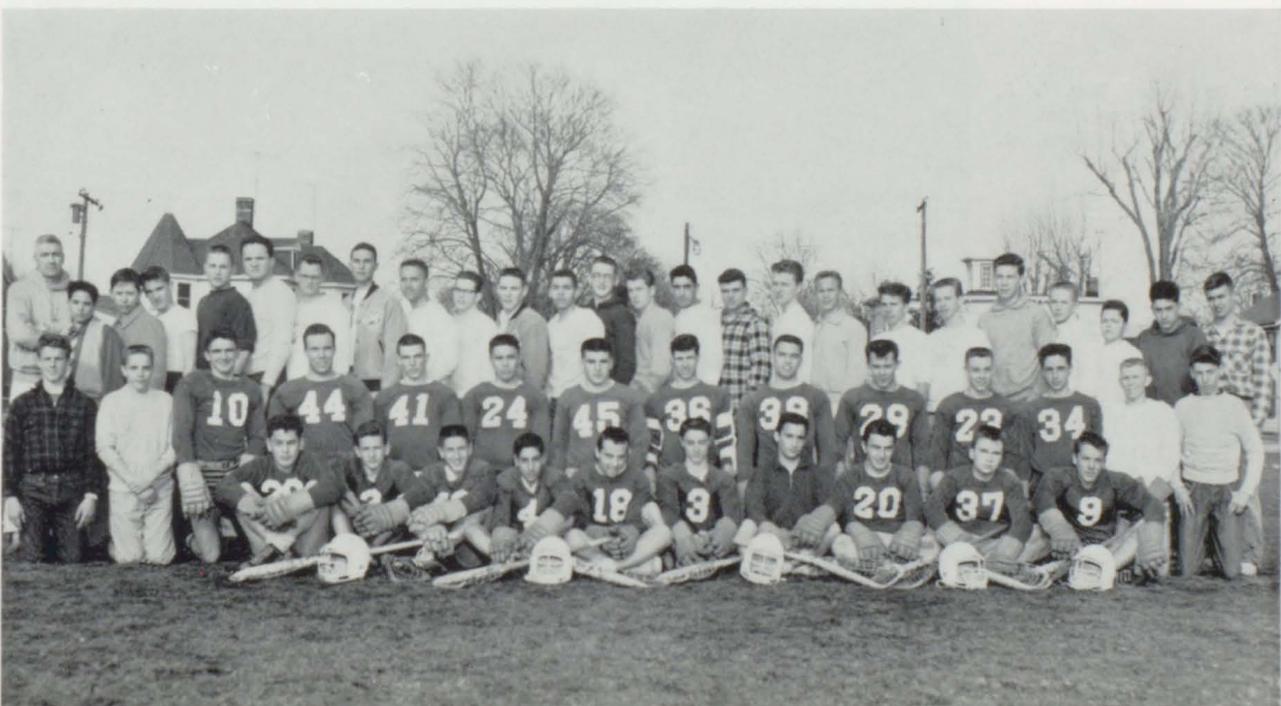

The season's results were very gratifying for the new fresh sport that entered Hempstead. Bigger and better plans are yet in store for it.

Bowling

AFTER a disappointing season last year, in contest with teams throughout Nassau County, the members of Hempstead's Bowling Team hoped to do better. The captain of this year's Bowling Team was Louis Kravitz. As in the past, the faculty advisor has been Mr. Levin. Perhaps these scores will substantiate the fact that there has been an improvement in the Hempstead High School Bowling Team.

Charles Frankel, Herb Edelstein and Barry Roth alternated in the second double position. With all but three members of the team returning next year, Mr. Menza can look forward to having a team which will be ready to top its sectional place of this year.

BLESSED with one of the best rifle teams in Hempstead's history, Mr. Voorhies coached the team to a thirteen-win and three-loss season.

The season was highlighted when Bill Lowe and William Blocker were named to the All-Nassau Rifle Team, and when Rodney Abrams was chosen for honorable mention. The boys averaged 183.86, 180.78, 179.50 respectively.

ALTHOUGH by wins Hempstead is one short, the season was a success if all factors are considered. The only three games in which the entire squad was available proved this conclusively, since these were the only games won. The four games the boys lost were played with about half a squad, with several of the key players missing.

Mr. Beck, the junior varsity coach, spent most of the practice time teaching and drilling on fundamentals and the Hempstead style of play, both offensive and defensive. A number of the boys did outstanding work and should prove to be valuable additions to next year's Varsity Squad.

THE Junior Varsity Basketball Team was coached by Mr. Krause. Showing much talent, the team learned a great deal, not only about basketball, but about sportsmanship as well. Although the year's record was not the best, it should be noted that the talent was concentrated in the Varsity Basketball Team, in which Hempstead High School takes pride.

In the years to come, Hempstead High School hopes to maintain the standard of sportsmanship and ability set by our J. V. Basketball Team this year. Congratulations to the members for their fine work.

Freshman Football

THE Freshman Football Team had a good season, winning three of its games and losing only one. The team scored a total of seventy-seven points offensively and allowed only twenty-seven points to be scored against them.

The victories were led by such stars as Joe Blocker, who scored sixty of the team's seventy-seven points, and Richard McGrath, who also did a fine job of scoring the remaining seventeen.

Mr. Olvin Mills, who is new at Hempstead High this year, has been a great asset to both the school and the Physical Education Department. We would like to congratulate him on the fine job he did with the Freshman Football Team this year.

Riding Club

EVERY week, weather permitting, the Hempstead High School Boys' Riding Club embarks for the Hempstead Bridle Path, and, after an hour of riding, their meeting is over.

Unlike other clubs, the Riding Club meets always out-of-doors, far from the noise of the Hempstead traffic. The club is composed of approximately twelve members who make up two groups: the beginners, which is made up of students who have never ridden before, and the intermediate group for students who are familiar with the sport of riding.

The able instructor is our mechanical drawing teacher, Mr. Schaedel, who is an expert rider.

Besides getting a vast amount of pleasure, riding is a wonderful way to get exercise and fresh air while being seated.

Due to road construction work the Academy has been torn down, but next year the eager members have hopes of finding a new Academy from which to continue the great sport of riding.

Freshman Track

LAST year the Hempstead High School Freshman Track Team, under the expert supervision of Mr. Krause, made a fine showing against the other Long Island secondary schools. Included in the events of these track meets were the broad jump, the high jump, shotput, hurdling, pole vaulting, the 100-yard, the 200-yard dashes, and the 440-yard, and the one-half mile distance events.

The molding of future varsity players is one of the main purposes of the Freshman Track Team, aside from giving lower classmen the chance to play on a team in league competition.

As the year drew to a close, the Freshman Track Team displayed unity, sportsmanship, and fine quality throughout the entire spring season.

DO you actually know what modern dance is? Many of us lack a thorough understanding of the meaning of modern dance, possibly because it is a comparatively new form of dance. A definition has been given to us by Mrs. Kauff, who capably instructs and supervises the modern dance classes: "Modern dance is an art form, like music, painting, theatre, etc. Its primary function is the communication of ideas, of all types, through the medium of movement."

An actual club for modern dance was not formed this year. The sixty-five junior and senior girls who participated in modern dance worked together to achieve an effective and expressive performance in the Greek Games, where modern dance plays an important part. The job of the girls taking modern dance was to effectively tell the story in dance form of the god to whom the Greek Games were dedicated.

Gym Aides

YOU know, no matter how competent a teacher may be, she can always use some help. And certainly, Mrs. Reicher and Mrs. Kufe are appreciative of all the assistance offered by the many gym aides. The qualifications for gym aides are high. A girl's leadership and personality must be outstanding, while coordination and ability are equally important.

Duties range from taking attendance, to running errands, to keeping the class in order, and instructing the pupils in various sports. Each girl devotes one period of each school day and is rewarded with her own satisfaction. The girls are also given the opportunity to help with the supervision of Greek Games.

For a change of pace, this year's group went to Salisbury Park, on a cookout.

These girls, under the student leadership of Rosemary Del Giorgio, have made this year as rewarding as the last.

Girl's Sports Leaders

FOR the "top of the crop" in the girls' sports field at Hempstead High, there is a special group known as the Girls' Sports Leaders. Each athletic activity for girls has a leader who assists the advisor at practices. They are chosen on the basis of attendance, skill, and leadership.

Heading this year's Greek Games was Linda Morris, who was assisted by Marty Mayo, sports leader of Modern Dance. Judith Krug led our cheerleaders as captain. In charge of Gym Aides was Rosemary Del Giorno, while badminton, basketball, and bowling were headed by Nikki Aprigliano, Hedy Bobrow, and Jean Grobman. Coaching riding and softball were Ann Watman and Ingrid Sheldon. Archery and ping pong were led by Virginia Sullivan and Anne Sverdlik.

Girls' Bowling

THIS year, because of the large number of girls who turned out for bowling, the Girls' Bowling Club was split into two separate sections, upper-classmen in one group under the supervision of Mrs. Cullen, and sophomores in the other, supervised by Mrs. Bowen.

Each group met once a week at Hempstead Recreation Center. Jean Grobman and Sheila Murphy were the student leaders and, along with Gladys Weaver, were the highest scorers in the club. Each girl's scores were kept on file week by week and averaged at the end of the year. The girls with the highest averages participated in a tournament at the end of the season. The three high scorers and Elaine Casella won the tournament. Marian Rogers, Carol Murray, Joan Broach, and Evelyn Gries were the other participants but didn't do as well.

The Girls' Bowling Club this year made its bowling group one of the most enjoyable sport groups in school.

Girls' Basketball

NOT to be outdone by the boys and the wonderful job they did this year, the sophomore, junior and senior girls have also combined their efforts in perfecting their "hook shots" and "swishes" in the Girls' Basketball Club.

The sophomores meet on Monday and Thursday while the juniors and seniors meet on Tuesday and Thursday under the expert supervision of Mrs. Cullen and Mrs. Kufe. Hedy Bobrow was elected as this year's captain to assist the coaches and new sophomores.

Ping Pong

PING PONG is one of those sports only open to the fair sex of Hempstead High School. For a devotee of ping pong nothing can equal it as a rewarding and always absorbing recreation. For the average feminine student at Hempstead it can be a very relaxing pastime and a way to meet more of her fellow students.

Last year's team was led by a student, Anne Sverdlik with Mrs. Reicher acting as advisor.

Archery

THIS year, there has been an additional after-school activity for girls. This added attraction is archery. To begin with, of course, an advisor was needed. Therefore, with Mrs. Kufe to fill that position, the girls, with Virginia Sullivan as student leader, were ready to begin.

First it was necessary to learn the principles of handling a bow and arrow. Then acquiring skill and having fun filled an enjoyable year.

Softball

OPEN to all sophomore, junior, and senior girls this year was a very popular and active sport, softball. Batting practice started promptly after the girls' last class and was supervised by Miss Beighley and Mrs. Kufe. Ingrid Sheldon was elected as the captain of this year's team and with her help and their coaches' sound advice, this season proved to be very rewarding to the girls.

Left to right, Row I: D. Birdsall, R. DelGiorno, B. Powers, I. Sheldon, N. Aprigliano, P. Calabrese, D. Janle, I. Collins. Row II: B. Thomas, B. White, C. Barber, P. Walker, C. Williams, B. Sims, C. Campanale, M. Bernstein, M. Christopher, M. Mayo, B. Allison. Row III: M. Roode, J. Hamill, J. Hamill, J. Meyer, G. Pluto, M. Herman, M. Miller, B. O'Connell, G. Weaver, J. Williams. Row IV: Mrs. Kufe, C. Lane, J. Pendleton, P. Duhy, V. Timer, P. Butler, J. Krug, L. Crossaw, E. Carson.

Badminton

TWICE a week the shuttlecocks, nets and rackets were taken out and soon an intent game of badminton was in action.

This sport was enjoyed by thirty girls including sophomores, juniors, and seniors. Under the direction of Nikki Aprigliano, student leader, and Ingrid Sheldon, assistant, a round robin tournament was held. Dorothy Augustyniak and Florence Stepkoski emerged as the winners.

A STILLNESS descended on the audience. A feeling of expectancy filled the air. Everyone was waiting for the 1957 Greek Games to commence. First came the processional which brought the stately priestesses to their temples. Then, the Spartans and Athenians made their spectacular entrances into the arena. Next the voices of the Girls' Glee Club were heard as they added a melodic note to the program. They were followed by the Modern Dance whose polished movements paid tribute to Apollo, God of the Sun. The excitement reached a peak when the athletes displayed the various feats they had mastered such as discus throwing, hurdling, hoop rolling and torch racing. Next the Chariot Exhibition was announced and the human horses showed great skill and dexterity as they went through their paces. After all the events were judged and the scores were tallied, the Spartans were found to be the winners.

Under the direction of Rita Babineau and guidance of Mrs. Reicher, the Physical Education Department produced another spectacular athletic event.

In Memoriam

ON May 3, 1958 A. Andrew Navarra, a member of the Hempstead High School faculty, passed away. He was a member of the French Department, teaching French I and II, and also Director of Part-Time Employment. In the forthcoming year he was to have become the counselor for freshman in the Guidance Department.

Mr. Navarra was graduated from Wilkes-Barre High School and later from Penn State University. He obtained two Masters Degrees from New York University, one in Guidance and the other in Administration. Before coming to Hempstead in 1937, he taught in Wilkes-Barre, Pennsylvania for seven years.

For several years Mr. Navarra was coach of the Hempstead High Bowling Team and, until the time of his death, was considered a "top" bowler in both faculty and business leagues.

Mr. Navarra was active in community and religious affairs and, as regards his profession, was at one time President of the Hempstead Classroom Teachers Association. He will be remembered by students, faculty and all his friends for his cheerfulness, sense of humor, and his sense of dedication . . . both to his profession and to his community.

Cafeteria Squad

THIS year the Cafeteria Squad was back again working around the clock to give balanced meals to the students buying their lunch in school.

Mr. Tobani, our school lunch manager, was back again for his thirteenth year of supervising the work that went on in our cafeteria. Although thirteen is said to be an unlucky number, this did not prove to be true in Mr. Tobani's case.

This year improvements were made in the cafeteria. New light green formica tops were put on the tables. In the Cafeteria Squad's work area a new covering was placed on the floor. These improvements made the cafeteria a brighter, more cheerful place to work in and eat in.

Working with Mr. Tobani this year were the cook, four food servers, two ladies in the dish-room, and members of the student body.

A hot meal was available to the students for thirty-five cents. In addition to the main course this included milk, fruit or juice, and bread and butter. An effort was made not to repeat the same menu within two weeks. This attempt proved very successful and led to more diversified lunches. This was greatly appreciated by the students who eat there.

The Cafeteria Squad is hoping that the extensive alterations that are planned for the cafeteria will make their job easier.

To the Cafeteria Squad we give the highest accolade that the United States Navy bestows upon its men, women, and ships; a hearty "well done!"

Custodians

THE team of custodians, which keeps our school in good condition, is headed by Mr. Beyl. Along with Mr. Beyl, ten other custodians are constantly cleaning and patching up our high school. Without them the condition of the school would soon be deplorable. Just think of all the little things that are constantly happening—desks break, faucets leak, doors stick, etc. If these things weren't repaired promptly, our school would not be a very pleasant place in which to study. The custodians must arrive before all of our classes, heat the school, and then do some last-minute cleaning and repairing. Mr. Beyl arrives at school first.

Although the custodians' headquarters is on the first floor in the boiler room, they are always needed throughout the school. Even after we leave school for the day, the custodians are still at work. It isn't until eleven o'clock in the evening before the day is ended for the last of the custodians. Their busy day includes answering the requests of everyone in the school.

They also must keep the lavatories clean and the school at a constant temperature. If any special activity occurs at night, such as dances or adult education classes, the custodians must wait until the activities are over, and clean up before going home.

The custodians of 1957-1958 were: Mr. John Beyl, head custodian, Clarence Bedell, Austin Bonifer, Violet Buckley, Matthew Grady, Spencer Grunder, Josephine Krafft, Elizabeth Oliver, Roman Perun, Violet Szabo, and Daniel Waldo.

Junior Prom

FRIDAY night May 24, 1957, might bring back many memorable moments for the one hundred and twelve couples that attended the Prom. Chairman, Lynda Drum and her crew did a magnificent job of transforming the boys' gym into a truly "Marine Paradise," the theme of last year's junior dance. Every day for a few months before the big event they worked feverishly with the decorations. Under the guidance of Miss Taft, Junior Advisor, and her Co-advisors, Mr. Zara, Miss Abbott, and Miss Dorwin, they completed their work to their fullest ability.

In one corner of the gym the refreshments, consisting of punch and ice cream, were served from a diver's bell. Continuous music from eight to twelve was played by the "Suburbans." There were also two memorable guests—Harriet and Bertha Orangepeel, satirized by Lynda Drum and Jane Browne respectively. They did an entertaining skit with music of the unforgettable items in Hempstead High. At this time Jimmy Edwards, president of the junior class, pulled two numbers out of a bowl to determine the king and queen of the evening.

Without Mr. and Mrs. Edwards, Mrs. Drum, and Mr. and Mrs. Duggan, chaperones for the evening, the dance could not have taken place.

The junior dues have many duties to perform and the Junior Prom is only one of them. Enjoy your junior year at Hempstead High—pay your dues!

GOL—LY! An ancient expression to us but a new and different one to our delightful guest from Pakistan, Naila Ahmed. Naila, a Herald Tribune exchange student, was sent to America after winning a contest to choose the most informed Pakistani student in world affairs.

Naila, who comes from Karachi, the capital of Pakistan, was the guest of Ethel Hill during her visit. At the ripe old age of seventeen, she found that her life and schooling in Pakistan differed from ours in America. She lives with her mother and father, two brothers and a sister and attends a nearby school for girls. Her classes include many of our subjects plus several more. Naila's language abilities include mastering French and reading Arabic. Her favorite sport is swimming. Naila was amazed at the ignorance of the people of America concerning geography. She just couldn't imagine anyone not knowing where Pakistan is. On the other hand, however, she simply loved the friendliness of everyone. Before she had come to America, Naila had not been acquainted with our customs and was quite surprised to hear of some of them. She adopted several of our customs as good but also felt that Americans do not put enough emphasis upon respect, particularly in school. She found television fascinating, nail polish becoming, and chewing gum delicious!

Her journey to America was completed with the meeting of President Eisenhower and her return home on March 22.

Trivo Indjich

EVERY year Hempstead High is given the opportunity to entertain two foreign students. This past year the boy, Trivo Indjich, of Belgrade, Yugoslavia, was the personal guest of Gary Sunden. Everyone who became accustomed to Trivo soon came in contact with "Trivoisms." Trivoisms are little comments that say so much about so many things in so few words. One classic example is his comment on American women as opposed to those of his homeland. "American women not so modest."

Remember the problems of five majors? Don't bother Trivo with trivials. His program consists of Russian, English, Latin, Advanced Math., Physics, Philosophy, Chemistry, Biology, and Gym. Trivo feels that our schools are a little too lax. In his country the teachers are given more obvious respect by the students.

When asked about "Rock'n Roll" his face broke into a wide grin as he told of the popularity of Louis Armstrong and Harry Belefonte in Yugoslavia. He ended by saying "I like Rock'n Roll."

"Yes, I have been there" was his Trivoism on American parties. In his country there are state controlled "Youth People" organizations where they have most of their parties.

Trivo doesn't think he would marry an American girl because he feels it is foolish for the American girls to hide their beauty with lipstick and other cosmetics.

Trivo is nineteen and, more than anything, he wishes to be a social worker and possibly go into politics.

G. O. Show

TICK-TOCK, tick-tock, time marches on! On November 15 the G. O. presented its annual show, "The Clock." Since the director, Lynda Drum, was sick with the flu, Jimmy Edwards lent a helping hand and substituted as Master of Ceremonies.

The clock struck one; the pep rally had begun. Varsity and J. V. cheerleaders surpassed their rare form. They were assisted as usual by our Hub Cat, portrayed by Sherry Rice.

Two o'clock brought homeroom period. What went on in the girls' gym? The freshman dance class, of course, with Steve Sacks teaching his anxious-to-learn pupils.

Senior-Frosh Day came at three o'clock. Adele Wilson sang "Getting to Know You" with the freshmen as an appropriate background.

On time at four o'clock came "The Rock Island Line." At five Judy Krug danced a solo to Tchaikowsky's "Swan Lake Ballet," followed by the "primas ballerinas," Ralph Campanella and his chorus. Six, seven, and eight brought a most enjoyable song, dance and monologue.

What has our Student Council come to? Nine o'clock certainly showed us what H. H. S.-ites have been wearing throughout the school year. Such style, such line, such conformity!

The clock swung to eleven, and the Turftones, who brought down the house. With the witching hour came the Finale. The clock was stopped and the cast received a rousing ovation from an appreciative audience.

Study Hall D has a variety of uses.

Study Hall D

ONE of the most versatile rooms in Hempstead High is Study Hall D. For many students it is one of the most dreaded rooms; for some, a very useful one.

Four times a year the rows of desks are filled with anxious and nervous students taking the Scholastic Aptitude Test of the College Entrance Examination Board. This test is required by most colleges today, and serves them as a standard of comparison for students from various schools.

Study Hall D is also the scene of the New York State Regents Scholarship Examination. Here Hempstead students compete with students from all over Nassau County for the limited number of general, engineering, nursing and Cornell scholarships available. The scope of the examination includes English, citizenship education, science, mathematics, health, art, and music.

Outstanding juniors now take the Scholarship Qualifying Test for the National Merit Scholarship Corporation at the end of their third year. By taking this test students may be considered for a variety of scholarships offered by numerous sponsors.

Many more students are familiar with Study Hall D (and its conspicuous clock) through their study periods throughout the day. Still others have occasion to be present in this room at the end of school during detention period.

The mention of this classic room will, no doubt, bring back memories to all Hempstead's graduates.

Varsity Drag

THIS year the Varsity Drag was held on November 24, 1957. The dance was a huge success, both socially and financially. Liz Regan and Hank Drewal, aided by the Booster Club, did a fine job as chairmen.

The Varsity Drag was a celebration for our victorious football team, winners of the League Championship. As was fitting for this occasion, the gym was transformed into a football paradise. Footballs with the players' names were hung on the walls and similar footballs were placed on the tables. Scores of leaves were pinned to a blue curtain, which hid the bleacher steps. The refreshment stand was a tremendous Tigerhead done partly in silver. Refreshments consisting of cokes and doughnuts were served through the open mouth of the Hub Cat.

As publicity for the dance, a new idea was introduced. As the boys bought their tickets, small footballs attached to a ribbon and pin were presented to them to be given to the girl they had asked. These footballs were seen around the halls long after the dance.

The entertainment was very enjoyable. The Commodores, with Wayne Kent as soloist, provided some very fine music for the dance. Also, the famous Turftones sang a few songs much to everybody's enjoyment. The trio of Pam Bauer, Gerry McAndrews and Linda Sileo, with Ralph Campanella as part of this comical act, portrayed the actual Varsity Drag.

Everyone had a wonderful time and we hope that next year's dance will be as successful.

New Math Program

IN keeping with Hempstead High's constant efforts to keep up with our advancing times in our age of satellites, Hempstead High, as well as eight other schools in New York State, has instituted a new mathematics course for seniors who have an 85 or better average in their previous mathematics courses.

According to Mr. Robert Hayes, the head of Hempstead's mathematics department, this new course is including much of the mathematics now taught on the college-freshman level. The classes are very ideal with about 16 in a class. Three texts were used this year, one dealing with advanced algebra, one with general mathematical principles, and the third with calculus. Many students completing this course will be placed in advanced mathematics programs upon entering college.

Although this is the first time this course is being offered at Hempstead High for Regents credit, Mr. Hayes has previously taught it as a special after-school class for a select group of students.

This addition in the mathematics department is also being extended to the various other departments next year, when an extension of the school day is going into effect. This will permit an extension of the individual class periods making possible an expansion in the material being offered. Hempstead students should be proud of the opportunity to take advantage of the many new programs now offered at Hempstead High.

Senior-Frosh Day

SOMETIME in October, every year, an exciting event takes place in Hempstead High School, in which the senior and freshmen girls take part. It is known as Senior-Frosh Day, which officially initiates the freshman girls into our school.

It originated a few years ago, when the senior girls decided to give the freshmen a party, at which they could become better acquainted.

It probably would seem strange to those just entering our school to see it as a confusion of bonnets, bibs and short skirts which were worn by the freshmen. The freshman brought bags and bags of lollipops which disappeared very fast. The senior girls came dressed as "mommies," in dainty aprons with bows in their hair and stuffed animals and toys under their arms, searching for the newcomers and their lollipops.

At the end of the school day a wonderful party was given for the freshman and their "mommies" in the boys' gym. Music was provided for dancing. Some of the talented seniors sang and put on skits which earned everyone's approval.

Sarah Lawrence was chosen for the most original costume, Sue Gold for having the prettiest hair. The girl with the prettiest smile was Sandy Hills and Judy Porter was chosen as the cutest freshman. Also, Ida Lou Block was picked as the most typical of all the freshmen.

Thanks to Mr. Lints, Senior-Frosh Day was once again a success.

The Mysterious Mr. X

DO you know this man? The above pictured specimen was caught wandering through the halls one hot June afternoon, apparently the victim of a bad case of amnesia. From his glazed eyes and unkempt hair it is obvious that he couldn't possibly be a teacher on our faculty.

One can only speculate why he was staggering through our halls that eventful afternoon. A number of students hypothesized that we were being invaded by an unearthly race of fiery-eyed creatures. Others advanced the theory that he was the espionage agent of a foreign power, while others in the biology department were positive that we were being faced with an ancient prehistoric species. This faction readily pointed to the heavy jowls and dimpled chin as conclusive evidence.

On that infamous June day classrooms were invaded by our coarse-haired "man," and the shrieks of horrified students could be heard as they fled to safety.

Then, as suddenly as he appeared, our "smiling-friend" was no more to be seen. A careful search was made of all lockers and lunchboxes, but to no avail. The faculty was strongly silent about this entire matter, and this reporter could not elicit the slightest bit of information from them as to their theories of the incident.

Should the creature reappear at any future date, it is requested that he immediately be directed to room 23 where he will be kindly treated and well taken care of.
